British Party Leaders Praise Recovery Move; Thousands Raise Pay

"Gigantic Experiment" in U. S. Is Seen in Favorable Light.

London, July 26 (AP).—Approval of President Roosevelt's bold recovery program was voiced in the British House of Commons tonight by spokesmen of the three principal political camps.

The debate, which turned upon the world economic conference on the eve of indefinite adjournment of that gathering, drew from Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, the declaration that the pound sterling is an independent currency, linked neither to gold nor the dollar.

Independent speakers of the Laborite, Liberal and Conservative groups declared the United States was not to blame for lack of accomplishment by the economic parley.

"There was no basis on which President Roosevelt could stabilize the dollar with reference to the pound," said the veteran Liberal chieftain, David Lloyd George, making one of his now rare appearances in the parliamentary discussions.

Suggests Embalming.

Asserting that the economic conference is dead, Mr. Lloyd George added that "the prime minister is engaged in finding the best method of embalming it, so as to keep the appearance of life after the spirit has departed."

Cheers greeted the statement from the Conservative member, Wardlaw Milne, that it was impossible for the United States to enter an agreement to stabilize the dollar.

Many speakers referred to "the great experiment" now in progress in the United States. Mr. Lloyd George said:

"There are three experiments now proceeding, on the success or failure of which the whole outlook of the world depends—the Russian, the Italian and the American. The American is the most important.

"I have to use the word revolution in referring to it (the American plan), but it is a complete transformation.

"Whether President Roosevelt fails or succeeds he has behind him the resources of the richest country in the world and a highly developed, highly trained and well-equipped nation."

Most Favorable Here.

The debate was forced on the government in order to clear up its policies with regard to such problems as currency and public works.

Commenting on the "gigantic" experiment in the United States, Chancellor Chamberlain said that conditions there were more favorable for success than they would be anywhere else. The United States, he said, is far less dependent on export trade than is Great Britain and is able, therefore, to raise costs within the country without its export trade suffering.

The Labor party's approval of the Roosevelt recovery program was given by Sir Stafford Cripps, who called the economic parley a failure. He condemned Ramsay MacDonald's government "for its very large share in the failure."

Welcomed by Labor.

Sir Stafford said the President's solution of raising wages would not be permanent, but it would "assist in the inevitable transition which is going on through the world, and anything that can be done to relieve the terrible conditions of the workers of the world is something the Labor party welcomes."

"Many people accused the United States of sabotaging the world conference," he continued. "But if one looks through the reports it can be seen that precisely the same attitude has been taken by other countries when they came up against some matter which they considered of vital importance to themselves."

Vessels Are Warned Of Tropical Storm

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

"Tropical disturbance of considerable intensity probably attended by winds of hurricane force over very small area central about midway between San Juan and Turks Island moving west-northwestward about 16 miles per hour. Center will pass near Turks Island Thursday morning. Caution advised vessels in path."

Condition of Woodin's Son Still Satisfactory

Tucson, Ariz., July 26 (AP).—Physicians attending William H. Woodin, jr., son of the Secretary of the Treasury, reported his condition remained satisfactory today. Subject to a chronic heart ailment, he was stricken several days ago.

Mrs. Woodin, summoned from Toronto, Ontario, where she was visiting, arrived by airplane this morning from Buffalo, N. Y.

Baby Called "Nira" After Recovery Act

Philadelphia, July 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt doesn't know it, but he is responsible for the naming of the baby girl born today to Mr. and Mrs. Christopher J. Collins.

"We shall call her Nira after the President's national industry recovery act," the mother, Adele, 33, announced.

The proud father explained he was out of work for months, but landed a job two weeks ago because of increased employment which he credited to—NIRA.

Business Here Pledges Help To President

Messages of Optimism and Support Flood White House.

Scores of telegraphed messages from District of Columbia business people flooded into the White House yesterday to join the thousands from all over the country in pledging support to the President's industrial recovery program.

Among the messages was one from Arthur Clarendon Smith, who has been mentioned as a candidate for District Commissioner, notifying the President of 100 per cent support of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, of which he is quartermaster general.

Frank R. Jelleff, known in Washington for his work in the women's apparel business, said in his telegram, "Your plan must and will succeed."

The Boss and Phelps Realty Co. pledged itself in the following words: "We congratulate you on your plan for industrial recovery and we will comply in every detail with your suggestion as to wages and hours of service."

All Classes Join.

"Going, going, gone, the depression," read the message from Adam A. Weschler & Son, auctioneers.

Furriers, automobile dealers, druggists, dairymen, barbers, a cab driver, people of all classes and professions, men and women alike, joined in the congratulations to Mr. Roosevelt on his address, the pledges of support in the movement, expressions of hope and optimism.

Jerome Saks, president of the Saks Fur Co., wired, "Heartily in accord with your policy and with you to the limit."

Louis Battagliliu, barber, 406 Twelfth street southwest, sent his pledge and good wishes.

Another came from a cab driver. Robert Hall: "Mr. President, I am only a city cab driver, and, having a radio in my car, enjoyed your speech immensely. Hope normal conditions will soon return, which I know they will under your leadership."

Riding to Prosperity.

The telegram from J. R. Ellis, general manager of the Capital Garage, pledged all employes except executives will work less than the

Ocean Plane Crash Charged to Nazis

Lithuania Orders Probe of Report Fliers Were Shot Down.

London, July 26 (U.P.).—The Daily Herald's correspondent at Kovno reported tonight that the Lithuanian government had ordered a searching inquiry of the crash of the transatlantic airplane in which Capt. Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas, Americans, were killed in Pomerania, Germany.

The correspondent claimed that some official sources suspected that reports the plane was shot by Nazis were correct. The report was first published in a French newspaper but later discounted.

The Herald's report said that the Lithuanian government was awaiting final proof before demanding an apology from Germany and the fullest compensation for the deaths of the fliers. Results of a preliminary investigation caused Lithuanian authorities to seek a complete investigation, it was said.

The charge that the plane was shot down is based on the fact that it flew over a Nazi concentration camp near Soldin, Germany, where the plane crashed near the end of its New York-Kovno flight. It is alleged that the Nazi guards turned searchlights on the plane, believed it was a Communist machine and began to shoot at it.

Utah Vote on Repeal In November Likely

Salt Lake City, July 26 (AP).—The Utah Legislature today opened the way to a vote next November 7 on repeal of the State prohibition amendment when the Senate adopted a resolution, passed yesterday by the House, to submit the question to the people.

Five Million Employers to Receive Documents From President.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

Five million employers throughout the length and breadth of the land today will receive from the President of the United States a document which will pledge them to increase wages and reduce working hours without reducing compensation.

President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, are confident that their unprecedented economic experiment will be carried to a brilliant success.

They have based their appeal on the patriotism of the American people. The response has been almost startling to the optimists and the acquiescent roar has almost drowned the cynical voices of those who once were described as coming from Missouri.

Affects 200,000 Workers.

Without awaiting receipt of the official agreement or any official interpretation of its provisions, thousands of large and small business men have telegraphed the President they would follow his lead. That meant they would accept his volunteer blanket wage-raising-hour-reducing code.

Most of the important automobile manufacturers, meeting in Detroit, agreed to the principle of wage increases.

Although Henry Ford is not a member of the National Automotive Chamber of Commerce, his representatives were present at the meeting at which the announced wage increase was adopted.

Factory workers, under the code, would receive an increase in pay beginning Tuesday.

More than 200,000 workers are affected by the wage boosting decision of the automobile representatives. They agreed, also, to fill a specific code to cover the entire industry in line with the President's policy.

Established at 15,000.

The number of telegrams of agreement and approbation received at the White House and the Recovery Administration mounted hourly yesterday. An early estimate was 15,000. Before the night was done that figure had been exceeded and the count was discontinued until today.

President Roosevelt seemed jubilant over the response. He predicted success for his program.

Gen. Johnson warned that adoption of the temporary blanket code was but one move in the President's program for economic recovery. The President still has his eye on the long-range bull's-eye, Johnson said. Emphasis was placed on the immediate objective because of its immediate importance, but once the immediate objective has been gained there will be applied a continued pressure for acceptance of long-range projects, it was said.

Gen. Johnson has appealed to 13,000 State, city, town, national civic and business organizations to aid in the emergency reemployment drive. Many already have responded agreeably. Some wired their approval before they were asked officially.

Gen. Johnson said that "approximately three weeks will be devoted to general educational work by committees when they are prepared to function. A week of intensive campaigning, which will include house-to-house canvassing, will close the campaign."

Workers will be organized on strictly military lines, with "generals," "colonels" and "captains" among the titles.

Holds Place of Power.

The Recovery Administration is fumbling its way along, so far as the public is concerned. Enlargement

Goemboes, Duce Confer on Balkans

Rome, July 26 (AP).—Italo-Hungarian relations and Hungary's position in the Balkans were discussed for an hour today by Premier Mussolini of Italy and Premier Goemboes of Hungary and the Hungarian foreign minister, Von Kanya.

Rome newspapers say that four results are expected from the Italo-Hungarian conversations—systemization of Hungary within the framework of the Eastern Locarno pact and new pacts of friendship with Italy; solution of Italo-Hungarian economic questions; regulation of Austro-Hungarian and Austro-Germanic problems, and beginning of negotiations for revising Hungarian frontiers.

Going Places

Sending Electric Current Half Around World Scientist's Goal.

Florence, Ala., July 26 (AP).—In a secluded laboratory, the Tennessee Valley Authority has in progress an experiment which holds the possibility of transmitting electric current halfway around the globe.

This was disclosed today by David E. Lilienthal, Authority member, who said its success hinged on the use of a vacuum in sending power great distances. Its perfection, he said, would revolutionize the electrical world.

The chief obstacle in long distance power transmission lies in the fact that the farther it goes the more the energy diminishes. Mr. Lilienthal explained it was hoped the experiment would overcome this difficulty.

A former Alabama Rhodes scholar, who name was not made known, is conducting the research, the Valley Authority member said.

Pennsylvania Held Seeking B. & O. Merger

Newspaper Declares High Officials Are Informed of Overtures.

Baltimore, July 26 (AP).—The Baltimore Sun, in a copyrighted dispatch from Washington, tonight said word has "penetrated to high official quarters that overtures have been made by the Pennsylvania Railroad to the Baltimore & Ohio for a merger of the two properties."

The Sun dispatch said the "merger" is "in the interest of both economy and efficiency," but it was not known in Washington "how the Baltimore & Ohio received these advances."

Asserting "the fact that such a proposition has even been discussed by one of the principals with the other is a matter of profound interest," the newspaper continued, so far as can be indicated "these discussions have been mainly between the financial interests which back and, in a sense, control the two railroads."

"And it is believed that if anything comes of them it will be because of financial necessities and pressure from financial quarters rather than because the operating officers may be brought into an agreement."

It was pointed out the Interstate Commerce Commission alone has the power to approve unification of competing railroad properties and a great deal of argument probably would be needed to induce that body to amend its proposed consolidation of the Eastern railroads.

"The argument on the side of merging the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio is twofold," the Sun said. "First is the necessity for pooling their interests financially and place their securities, if possible, in an impregnable position.

"The other is, after all, they are practically parallel railroads, so far as the great traffic-producing centers of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis are concerned, and one railroad using the trackage of both could more easily and economically serve the public.

"The main argument against such a plan is that it would wipe out all benefits of competition and would place such cities as Philadelphia and Baltimore, in particular, at the mercy of a single railroad."

$60,000,000 Tenders Invited by Treasury

Record Number Of Bids Offered

Work Should Be Started Within 60 Days, Swanson Says.

Work on the Navy's vast construction program probably will be started by early fall, it was indicated by Secretary Swanson yesterday, according to the Associated Press.

"We are figuring on the 32-hour week for Navy yards," Swanson said, "but we haven't reached any decision. We won't act until after these awards are made. The shipyards ought to go to work in 60 days."

(United Press.)

The Navy Department yesterday launched the greatest shipbuilding program in its history, designed to put thousands of men back to work and build the United States fleet to London Treaty limits.

Bids for the construction of 21 vessels which are to be built in private yards were opened by Secretary Swanson and high naval officials.

Swanson said tabulations of the bids would be carried out with the utmost speed in order that actual construction of the ships could be started as soon as possible.

The bids constituted a record for a single day. Translated into terms of active labor it is expected that at least 18,000 men will be provided employment.

The ships which were bid on yesterday include two aircraft carriers of 20,000 tons each; one heavy cruiser armed with eight-inch guns, which was authorized in 1929 under terms of the London Treaty, but which could not be laid down before January 1, 1934; one light cruiser to be armed with six-inch guns; eight destroyer leaders of 1,850 tons each; seven destroyers of 1,500 tons each, and two submarines of 1,400 tons each.

$238,000,000 Appropriated.

Sixteen of these ships are to be built with a part of the $238,000,000 fund earmarked for naval construction in the National Recovery Act. The heavy cruiser and four destroyer leaders are to be built with money from the regular naval appropriation for the 1933-34 fiscal year.

The complete N. R. A. program calls for the construction of 32 ships. The remaining 16 are to be constructed in Government yards. These vessels include three light cruisers, nine 1,500-ton destroyers, two submarines and two gunboats.

In addition to the five ships bid on yesterday, 17 vessels are now under construction in Government and private yards with funds from the regular naval appropriation.

The new program will extend over a three-year period. Naval authorities expect to spend $46,000,000 from this fund during the present fiscal year. The regular naval construction program calls for the expenditure of $40,000,000 during 1933-34.

Nears Treaty Limit.

When the present construction program has been completed and those vessels which become over age before 1936 have been replaced, the United States Navy still will be only 204,000 tons under the limits imposed by the London treaty.

When Japan's building program is completed it will be but 600 tons under treaty limits. Great Britain will be 197,628 tons under the limit.

Award of Two Plums to Foes Of Long Sets Louisiana Agog

Naming of Public Work Advisors Seen as Presaging Smashup in Senator's Forces, But They Say He Still Has an "Ace."

New Orleans, La., July 26 (U.P.).—Senator Huey P. Long today suffered the penalty for opposing various phases of President Roosevelt's "new deal."

Two of the "Kingfish's" most determined political enemies were elevated to memberships of the public works advisory committee for Louisiana.

The appointments came in the form of telegrams from Washington, where Senator Long and several of his followers have gone for a "show-down" in the battle over Federal patronage. Reports reaching here indicated that the "Kingfish" may be coming out second best in his crucial battle.

Political circles here were agog tonight. Anti-Long politicians looked on hopefully, expecting a breakdown in the powerful Long machine.

The Long forces seemed confident. "Put your money on the Kingfish," one of them said. "He has an ace in the hole. By that I mean that he has the evidence against those fellows who are running the administration up in Washington."

It was rumored here that if Mr. Long fails to get satisfaction from the patronage-wielders, he may return to Louisiana, wheel out his campaign sound trucks, and take the stump to carry his fight to the people.

Edward Rightor, active member of the Honest Election League, a group hostile to Mr. Long, and the man who filed the complaint with the United States Senate that resulted in the recent investigation of Senator John H. Overton's election, was named to the public works committee. Mr. Overton was a leader in the Long faction and was elected over Edwin S. Broussard.

Soon after Mr. Rightor's appointment today it was announced that James Smitherman, of Shreveport, and James M. Thomson, publisher of the New Orleans Item and Tribune, would serve on the committee with Mr. Rightor. Mr. Smitherman has been associated with the anti-Long forces for years. Mr. Thomson has taken no part in the battle between the two factions.

Post Gets Roosevelt's Praise; Scores Airport

Wiley Post, the record-breaking world girdler, set some more records during his brief visit to President Roosevelt yesterday.

He took "time-out" to tell Washingtonians that their airport is particularly "rotten." Worse, in fact, than those in far-away Siberia.

Then he set another record by taking only 2 hours and 30 minutes on his official visit here, including the stop at the White House.

"If it were cleared of some obstructions, that road cleaned up and extended, you might make a good airport out of it," said he, and he emphasized the word "might."

Siberian airports were excellent he said. There are fields at Kharbarovsk and other points along his flight which are large, well-drained, level and in good condition in all weather.

Tells of Theater Contract.

Post spoke in a little more detail of the work he is undertaking in New York to raise money. He will appear on the stage of Music Hall in Radio City for a week, where he will respond to an interviewer who will ask him about his record flight.

"Remember, I'm not going into vaudeville," he said. "I can't sing or act or dance a jig. I'm just not an actor. But these people have made me a good offer, and it looks like the best way for me to get some money that I need.

"There are some changes I want to make in the Winnie Mae. I may use this ship in some high altitude flights, or maybe I'll use another one."

High Priced German Gas.

The question of placing the Winnie Mae in the Smithsonian Institution, brought a smile to his lips. The plane, he said is not ready at all for a berth in such a place. He didn't know how long he would use it, and didn't know what the life of it might be.

"I suppose until it will just fall apart some day," he said.

"Well, I hope I'm not in it when it does."

The hardihood of the man was illustrated when he said that he might have lost 5 pounds during his flight. He weighs now exactly what he did when he started, 171 pounds, and he is completely rested.

Post revealed that he paid $50 for 70 gallons of gasoline in Koenigsberg, Germany. The attendant named a price in marks, which seemed at the time to be rather high, but he paid it, Post said. Later he did some figuring, and decided that was the most expensive gasoline he had ever bought. He bought

Skipper in Russian Tragedy Must Die

Yaroslavl, U. S. S. R., July 26 (AP). Nicolai Andreev, captain of a little Volga River excursion boat which sank July 9 with a loss of 98 lives, was sentenced today to be shot for allowing the vessel to be overcrowded.

His assistant, Leonid Kurakoff, was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment and 9 others were given terms of 1 to 2 years.

Although the craft had a capacity of only 125 passengers, twice that number were aboard.

Secretary to Cutting May Become Senator

Albuquerque, N. Mex., July 26 (AP).—The Albuquerque Morning Journal says Edgar F. Puryear, of Roswell, secretary to Senator Bronson Cutting, is being considered for the appointment to the United States Senate to succeed Sam G. Bratton, resigned.

Mr. Puryear is a Progressive-Democrat. The appointment, if made, the paper said, would come from Gov. Arthur Seligman, who also has been considered as a possible successor to Mr. Bratton. Mr. Bratton resigned to become a Federal circuit court judge.

Civil Service Status Lost By 250 More U.S. Workers

"Unblanketing" Order Expected to Reach Total of 5,000.

Many May Retain Jobs, Says Roper

"Political Significance" to Change Denied by Secretary.

By Robert C. Albright.

The order is believed to presage a general "unblanketing" of Government workers covered into the civil service without examination, numbering in the neighborhood of 5,000.

The Civil Service Commission is considering the broader question, and is expected to make recommendations to the President.

Yesterday's action had the approval not only of Secretary of Commerce Roper, but of the commission as well. It came on the heels of frank representations from the White House that "blanketed" employes are in disfavor.

Report Order Drafted.

The President feels the entire group of 5,000 or more is not entitled to the consideration given civil service workers who qualified by competitive tests. Recently he advised the commission to remove the names of "blanketed" employes who already have lost their jobs from reemployment registers.

A report that a general "unblanketing" order already is drafted and awaiting merely the signature of the President, could not be confirmed yesterday at the White House.

Postmaster General Farley has intimated that when and if the general order is issued, it probably will affect only those "blanketed" in recent years.

The group hit by yesterday's order includes trade commissioners, commercial attaches, district managers, commercial agents and special agents attached to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, together with their assistants. About half are in Washington.

Under the order, all will be placed under Schedule B of the Civil Service rules, the status they held before President Hoover covered them into the competitive Civil Service on March 10, 1932. The effect is to make each of the 250 subject to replacement by appointment, following noncompetitive examination.

Discussing the order, Roper denied any "political" significance and indicated many of the 250 probably will be retained.

Roper Explains.

"Under the Civil Service rules a noncompetitive examination consists of the same test of fitness as that applied to other persons seeking appointment through competitive examination," Secretary Roper explained.

"The only difference is that in the noncompetitive class the grades are not necessarily brought into comparison with the grades of persons who take the competitive test."

Secretary Roper intimated yesterday that part of the $220,000 in additional funds just made available to the Civil Service Commission through the Budget Bureau will be used to finance any new examinations made necessary by a general "unblanketing."

Meanwhile, it was learned last night, the Comptroller General is prepared to rule today on the un-

Clerk, Father Of 7, Arrested In Bank Theft

W. E. Koons, Charged With $15,000 Embezzlement, Freed on Bond.

Walter Edwards Koons, for years a trusted employe of the District National Bank, was arrested yesterday by Department of Justice agents on a warrant charging him with embezzling $15,000 from the bank.

Two agents of the department took Koons into custody when he appeared at the bank in response to a suggestion by bank officials. He was taken to the office of District Attorney Leo A. Rover, where he was questioned briefly and then removed to police headquarters, where he was kept incommunicado for two hours.

A special night hearing was arranged in the home of United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. Koons pleaded not guilty and was released on a $10,000 bond that was furnished by a professional bondsman.

Koons, father of seven children, resides at 419 Fourth street northeast. He has been employed as a savings teller at the bank for years, and was respected so highly that Joshua Evans, the conservator, retained him in his former capacity after the bank reopened for limited business after the banking holiday. The District National is to be a member of the new Hamilton National Bank, and its finances are in no way concerned.

The shortage was fully covered by bond, and there will be no loss to the bank, it was stated.

That there was a shortage in the bank was learned July 16 by auditors, four months after the bank had been conditionally closed.

Movie Strike End Is Thought Near

Request for Arbitration and Return to Jobs Asked by Union.

Hollywood, July 26 (AP).—Probable end of the union workers' strike, which for four days threatened a tie-up of Hollywood movie production, was indicated tonight when union forces asked producers for arbitration of their difficulties and requested their men be allowed to return to their vacated jobs "without exception or prejudice."

Receipt of a telegram from striking union forces was announced by Patrick Casey, labor representative of the Movie Studios and Producers, who said he had promised to meet Richard J. Green, international vice president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, tomorrow to discuss negotiations for a settlement.

The strike began Saturday midnight with a walkout of movie sound men seeking a wage and working conditions contract with the studios. Yesterday craftsmen, numbering about 5,000, allied in the I. A. T. S. E., went on strike because the studios had replaced striking union men with nonunion workers.

Al Smith's Company Pledges Help to N. R. A.

New York, July 26 (AP).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith today pledged the cooperation of Empire State, Inc., owners and operators of the world's tallest building, with President Roosevelt's industrial recovery program.

"Empire State cheerfully signs code for membership in the N. R. A.," said his telegram to the President. "On August 1 forty-hour week and minimum wage will be adopted without reduction in wages to employes now paid above minimum. Please send our banner."

Japan Probes French Claim to Nine Islands

Tokyo, July 26 (U.P.).—A controversy between France and Japan was threatened today over nine small islands between Indo-China and Manila, to which the French last week laid formal claim.

A foreign office spokesman said that Viscount Yasuya Uchida, foreign minister, was investigating French occupation of the isles. For years Japanese have worked guano deposits on the isles, which have few inhabitants.

Jobs Increase Cited by Roper As He Asks Aid

By Lawrence Sullivan.

Declaring that more than 2,000,000 unemployed had returned to work throughout the United States during the last three months, Secretary of Commerce Roper called upon American business and industrial leaders yesterday to consolidate this encouraging advance by loyal cooperation in the campaign of the National Recovery Administration.

"I think we have reason to be distinctly encouraged by the progress that the country has made, particularly during the last four months," Mr. Roper said in recounting the improvement in factory employment and pay rolls since April. He warned, however, that overly exuberant enthusiasm and "speculative recklessness" should be rigorously curbed.

Simultaneously with release of the Commerce Department's survey of current business trends, the regular monthly employment report of the American Federation of Labor recorded a slight decline in the rate of reemployment among affiliated union workers during the first weeks of July, as compared with June.

Drop in Gain Cited.

"Trade union reports showed employment still gaining in the first part of July, but the gain is considerably less than it was in June," said William Green, president of the A. F. of L. in summarizing this report.

Whereas 1.3 per cent of the affiliated union membership were reported restored to jobs in June, the preliminary figure for July shows a reemployment of but seven-tenths of 1 per cent.

Separate reports from scattered cities showed employment still gaining in fourteen in July, but in nine other centers the ranks of the idle were increased over June. In one other city there had been no change in employment conditions during July.

"Union employment figures for July come as a warning that business has not been quick enough to reorganize itself under the recovery program," Mr. Green concluded. "The President's general code comes just in time. If we allow the return of men to work to be slackened off, the whole program is doomed."

Federal Workers Losing.

The Government service was cited as one category in which unemployment is now on the increase, along with the building trades, metal trades and the clothing industry.

The Commerce Department's survey pointed out that while the national total of unemployed has been reduced from 13,000,000 in March to 11,000,000 at about mid-July, the crowning task of insuring robust recovery still lies ahead.

"The demand now upon every citizen is for cooperation, loyalty, faithful and systematic furtherance of this tremendous project," Secretary Roper said in pleading for universal support of President Roosevelt's program for higher wages and shorter working hours.

Even after allowance for the normal seasonal increase in factory production, the industrial recapitulation said, American manufacturing plants increased their output about 45 per cent from February to June.

Hitler Extradition Move to Be Denied

France Likely to Refuse to Surrender Former Prussian Finance Minister.

Paris, July 26 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler's first attempt to extradite an important political refugee in France is being tried, it was learned today, against Dr. Otto Klepper, who was Prussian minister of finance from December, 1931, until the Nazis came to power.

Dr. Klepper came to Paris from Helsingfors, where the Nazis allowed him to go on an economic mission.

It is known that France will refuse a demand for extradition of a political refugee. It is understood that the German demand charges financial irregularities.

Extradition charges usually entail immediate arrest, but is said this is unlikely in the Klepper case. Political authorities expressed the opinion the former Prussian minister will not be returned to Germany on the ground that his case is really a political one.

President Roosevelt yesterday issued a proclamation creating a board of three persons to investigate within 30 days the dispute between the Louisiana, Arkansas & Texas Railway Co., and its employes.

He did not name the members.

After that campaign she became publicity director for the Mayflower Hotel and also served as chairman of the housing and hospitality committee of the inaugural committee.

Plant Locals Plan Is Used In Unionization

Skilled Workers Will Be Grouped According to Own Trade.

(Associated Press.)

The American Federation of Labor has taken a new plan of operation into the field to unionize workers of the automobile, rubber and other mass-production industries.

The Federation, William Green, its president, disclosed yesterday, is issuing charters to "Federal" locals now being organized in individual plants. They embrace all skilled workers in each factory, instead of separating these according to their particular trade. They are linked to the Federation directly instead of through a specific international union, as are all the older units of the federation.

At present, Green said, each local will remain independent of the others, will bargain directly with the employers of each plant on rates of pay and other labor questions, but will have the support and assistance of the Federation itself behind it.

Though Green would not say so specifically, labor experts believed that eventually these groups would unite into international unions affiliated with the federation. They would continue separate existence only long enough to develop capable leadership, and to make the transition from open shop or company union plan of operation gradual.

The new setup would have the unions parallel the organization of the industries themselves under the recovery law's codes of fair competition. The employers, as a bloc or individually, would deal with one union and not three or more. The union, likewise, would deal with one set of employers.

certain status of employes in bureaus affected by the President's reorganization orders scheduled to be carried out August 10.

The question has been laid before the comptroller by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, where approximately 12,000 workers must be separated from the service and then rehired according to need. The all-important issue which the comptroller will have to decide pivots around whether employes rehired in the new Division of Internal Revenue must be taken back at the old salary grades, or whether they shall be classed as new employes.

Decision on the reemployment status of married workers earning limited salaries, whose mates also are Government employes, was delayed until next Monday by the National Industrial Recovery Board.

Sam Rice Charged With Double Parking

Though usually mild-mannered and peaceful, Sam Rice, veteran member of the Washington ball club, didn't like it a lot and said so last night when he was hauled into the Tenth Precinct for double parking a few minutes at the Colony Theater, Georgia avenue and Gallatin street northwest.

Sam posted his $3 collateral but frankly told all concerned they would have to see him in court.

"We are riding to prosperity with you," was the brief word of Pat Cannon, traffic superintendent of the Bell Cab Association.

Pan-American Trade Drive Is New Deal Goal

Montevideo Parley Expected to Accomplish What London Failed.

By Harold J. T. Horan.

Out of the debris of the World Economic Conference at London, the United States is planning to build an aggressive and progressive policy of Pan-American commercial unity, it became known in authoritative quarters here last night.

Experts of the Department of State are beginning preparations for the next Pan-American conference, which will be in Montevideo this December. The agenda for this conference is in many respects identical with the agenda for the moribund London conference.

The delegates of the Pan-American governing board meeting last June 20 approved the text of the Montevideo agenda, which includes such subjects as stabilization of currencies, tariffs, abolition of import quotas, commercial treaties and, what is regarded as most significant, the proposal for the establishment of an inter-American economic and financial council.

Pani Visit Significant.

It is believed that what the American delegates failed to accomplish in London they may very well bring off from Montevideo, particularly as the policy of President Roosevelt has had a distinctly "America for Americans" nature. The visit of Senor Alberto J. Pani, Mexican minister of finances, who was head of the Mexican delegation to the London Conference, to the White House yesterday is regarded as having a distinct bearing on the developments of the Montevideo Conference. Senor Pani called on President Roosevelt before he went to London.

It was not originally planned to have him call at the White House this time, particularly as he had planned to return to Mexico City as soon as possible for the marriage of his daughter. However, the suggestion of Ralph W. Morrison, American banker, who achieved fame by ingenuously inquiring of a London reporter: "Who is Benesh?" was promptly taken up by the Department of State here. Delegate Morrison cabled from London the advisability of a personal conversation between the President and Senor Pani, in advance of the Montevideo meeting so as to assure the cooperation of the doubtful states at the Montevideo meeting. Mexico has always been in the doubtful column, together with Argentina.

The meeting between the President and Senor Pani will go far toward assuring the coordination of American and Mexican efforts.

The recent announcement of a projected American-Argentina trade agreement has accomplished great results in assuring a cooperative spirit among the Argentina delegation next December, also. In this way, the benefits of the London Conference may very possibly be achieved in the sphere which is, after all, the most desirable one, from the point of view of American self-sufficiency.

Latin Program Broadened.

The economic program of the United States in the direction of Latin America has been very thoroughly broadened in the last three months. The influence of the United States has been made more effective, and in the manner most likely to be acceptable by the Latins of South and Central America—through the appointment of able diplomatic representatives from this country. Sumner Welles, Ambassador to Cuba, and Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Brazil, are the outrunners of the new American diplomatic attitude toward Pan-America.

Thousands Already Pledge Pay Boosts

of its program has seen the emergence of Gen. Johnson as one of the most powerful men who ever has had a place of power in the Government.

President Roosevelt carried forward the new economic program by approving the shipbuilding and repair industry code. Provisions of the code as approved by the President represented a victory for Gen. Johnson. The industry and Navy Department had sought to have set aside the 30-hour work week prescribed in the law in favor of a 40-hour work week.

Gen. Johnson won a 32-hour week for naval construction and a 36-hour week for private construction. There is an allowance of overtime but the 36 hours must be averaged over six weeks, with no week exceeding 40 hours. A minimum wage of 35 cents an hour for the South and 45 cents an hour for Northern shipyards was prescribed.

Confronted by the innumerable obstacles the recovery administrator and the President have resolved to cut red tape with which most dealings with the Federal Government are tied.

When there were reports that financial and industrial magnates would not cooperate, President Roosevelt summoned Myron Taylor, of the United States Steel Corporation, to the White House. When Mr. Taylor left he said a code would be submitted. Hearings are to begin on the steel code next week.

Gen. Johnson has adopted the same showdown tactics. He has whipped several recalcitrants into line, while the President took up the whip yesterday in connection with development of an oil code.

Mr. Roosevelt told representatives of the industry they would have to get together or suffer the results of Government prescription for their economic ills. They can devise their own dose or be ready to take the governmental dose by Monday, the President is reported to have said.

Log of 1835

President Roosevelt took a few minutes off from lifting the country out of the depression yesterday to look over a logbook kept by the captain of a sailing ship nearly 100 years ago.

The ship was a schooner, and the log covered a voyage from New Bedford, Mass., to Chile in 1835. The skipper of the ship was a Capt. Delano, who the President described as "some sort of a cousin." The record was sent to the President by a bookstore owner who knew his passion for things nautical.

'Scotland Yard' Advocated for United States

Foreign Police Executives, on Visit Here, Study Crime Systems.

Officials of the Department of Justice and a group of European police executives yesterday discussed the founding of a "Scotland Yard"—a national crime-detection agency—for the United States.

While this further step toward the death of racketeering was being considered, the Europeans showed enthusiasm about the Nation's present unit for criminal investigation, the Bureau of Investigation.

"We have nothing like it in Europe," said Commissioner K. H. Broekhoff, of Amsterdam, Holland, to the group at a luncheon in the Mayflower Hotel.

"Amazed" at Speed.

The police executives, who are en route to the convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police in Chicago, expressed themselves as "amazed" at the rapidity in which a fingerprint can be traced and classified by the bureau.

They manifested keen interest in the scientific strategy employed by the Department of Justice, under Director J. Edgar Hoover, in tracking down violators of the "Lindbergh" kidnaping law.

They spent considerable time in the division where the largest collection of fingerprints in the world are on file. They then visited the new Federal crime laboratory and inspected scientific paraphernelia used in crime analysis.

Members of Delegation.

Dr. Antonia Pizzuto, commissioner of police, Rome, Italy; Florent E. Louwage, commissioner, Brussels, Belgium; M. Mondanel, assistant controller general, Paris, France; Commissioner Brookoff, Dr. Eugene Bianu, director general of police, Bucharest, Roumania; Chief Constable Roderick Ross, Edinburgh, Scotland; Chief Constable A. K. Mayall, Oldham, England; Dr. Leon Nagler, inspector general of state police, Warsaw, Poland; Dr. M. Baersenprung, Berlin, Germany; M. Hansen, police president, Copenhagen, Denmark; R. Krause, police chief, Horsens, Denmark; James B. Bolan, New York commissioner of police; John J. O'Connell, deputy chief inspector of police, New York; Chief of Police Michael Crowley, Boston, Mass.; Fernand Dufresne, police director, Montreal, Canada; Emile Trudel, police chief, Quebec, Canada; A. Cahoone, port authority, New York City; R. B. Jordan, chief of police, Richmond, Va., and James A. McRall, chief of police, Newark, N. J.

Post Honored Here In Flying Visit

oil in Germany which he did not change until he got to Alaska, remembering the experience he and Gatty had in Russia, getting some poor oil, on their first flight.

Dashing down from New York in two airplanes, Post and his party, consisting of his wife and Harold Gatty, his one-time world-girdling partner; Lee Trenholm, his manager, and another pilot, plunged right into the business of being honored by the officials of the Nation. Missing was the hurrahing along the curbstones, because the people had heard of the projected visit only 20 minutes before.

The largest crowd gathered at the Fourteenth street entrance to the Press Building, where the presence of motorcycle police and a few reporters awakened curiosity.

The short welcome completed, Post hurried back toward Bolling Field, where he planned to take ship and fly back to New York. En route however, he decided against that because of the low ceiling and poor visibility, and the party went to the Union Depot, where Post, his wife, Trenholm and two others boarded the Pennsylvania for New York at 6 p. m.

The President sent Ewing Y. Mitchell, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and Capt. W. N. Vernou, White House Naval aid, to meet Post at the field. Raymond P. Brandt, president of the Press Club, invited the world flier to the club, where he was received in a short welcome, broadcasted. Then he was rushed to the White House, where the President welcomed him and introduced him to the cavalry and artillery trainees of the C. M. T. C. and the R. O. T. C. gathered on the lawn before the south porch.

At the White House, where he responded to the President's complimentary remarks, he said:

"I'm very glad to be here." Then, looking at the uniformed soldiers before him, "I'm very proud of the American uniform, and sorry that I never wore one. Thank you."

The whole country is proud of Post's stunt, President Roosevelt said, and reminded the audience that it took courage, physical training and endurance to hang up such a record, a trip around the world in less than a week.

Public Works Boards for 48 States Named

Will Have Duty of Examining Applications for Worthiness.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday named 48 boards to formulate in every State public works programs worthy of quick approval for employment-boosting Federal expenditures.

The list contained 145 names—three members for 47 States and four for Texas—and represented a cross-section of the Nation. Democrats and Republicans, a generous sprinkling of engineers, business men, bankers, merchants, editors, publishers and labor leaders held places on the boards.

Miss Josephine Roche, of Denver, coal operator and welfare worker, was the only woman named. Two prominent Republicans included Alvin Fuller, former Massachusetts governor, and James C. Stone, farm board chairman in the Hoover administration.

Must Be Able To Say "No."

Simultaneously with the Presidential appointments, Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, made this statement of instructions:

"It will be as much a duty of these State advisory boards to say 'no' as it will be to say 'yes.' They are really agents of the Federal Government and are to view the public works program in its broadest national aspects.

"They are to formulate local programs with a view to winning quick approval here in Washington. To do this the State advisory boards must study local projects in the light of the announced policies of the Federal emergency administration of public works.

"The State advisory boards are to proceed without delay in selecting for early submission to the administrator a balanced program of useful public works which will move men from relief rolls to pay rolls.

"That not every application for public works funds can be granted is obvious. It will be the function of these boards to weed out those without merit. Only the best should be recommended to Washington for approval.

"The taxpayer who is paying this public works bill must be protected at every step.

"The boards must realize from the outset that it will be far better to reject firmly unqualified projects than to run a city or other public body inextricably into debt."

Must Have Approval.

Ickes said that in States where public works programs already have been approved by official agencies, the State boards will reexamine the projects speedily before submitting them to one of the 10 regional administrators named yesterday.

"Local government projects which are not approved by State boards will not be considered at Washington," Ickes said.

Duties of State boards include informing the public of the classes of projects eligible for benefits under the public works act, getting from applicants data—social, engineering, legal and financial—necessary for examining the project, and considering the projects from the standpoint of coordinated planning, social and economic desirability, provision and diversification of employment and engineering soundness.

The State boards include:

Arizona—William Walter Lane, of Phoenix; Leslie G. Hardy, of Tucson, and Moses B. Hazeltine, of Prescott.

California—Hamilton H. Cotton, of San Clemente; Franck Havenner, of San Francisco, and E. F. Scattergood, of Los Angeles.

Colorado—Thomas A. Duke, of Pueblo; Morrison Shafroth, of Denver, and Miss Josephine Roche, of Denver.

Kentucky—Wylie B. Bryan, of Louisville; N. Rt. G. Carmichael, of Kyrock, and James C. Stone, of Lexington.

Oil Leader Protests Buying Foreign Asphalt

(Associated Press.)

Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, issued a statement yesterday protesting against what he termed the plan of the Bureau of Public Roads to "buy foreign asphalt" in carrying out the $400,000,000 highway construction program.

He said sufficient asphalt to meet the needs of the construction program could be provided by American companies and that "foreign labor and not American workmen will get employment" if the bureau does not reverse its plan.

Ill Health Held Motive In Shappirio's Suicide

Despondency over ill health was given by police officials as the motive for the suicide last night of Simon Shappirio, 41, whose body was found by his sister, Sylvia, in a third-floor room at 3070 M street northwest. A bullet from a .32-caliber pistol, found by the dead man's side, had been fired through his brain. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a suicide certificate. Surviving Shappirio are his mother, Mary, with whom he lived in the M street address; another sister, Lillian, and a brother, Sol, Washington attorney.

1 Dead, Dozen Hurt; 6 Seized In Two Crashes

Laurel Woman Is Killed as She Steps Off Bus to Greet Sister.

One death and injuries to 12 persons was the toll of two automobile crashes on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard yesterday.

The crash which took the life of Mrs. Margaret Divens, of Laurel, Md., involved a Washington Railway & Electric bus, three automobiles and a truck.

As Mrs. Divens, who was 27, alighted from the bus, and was about to meet her sister, Mrs. George Sullivan, of Beltesville, Md., who was waiting her arrival, the bus was struck by an automobile.

Following the original crash, another car and a truck crashed into the bus, which was pushed over into Mrs. Sullivan's car, parked by the readside.

Victim Under Bus.

Mrs. Divens was thrown under the bus and Mrs. Sullivan knocked down. The latter is in Sibley Hospital with a broken leg and other undetermined hurts. Her condition is said to be critical.

The crash occurred during a heavy downpour, as did the other accident, which happened in Hyattsville, Md. There a car operated by Luther Thompson, of Philadelphia, was in collision with the car of Robert M. Fleshman, 18, of Edmonston, Md.

Earl Brightwell, 30, of Edmonston, in Fleshman's car, received a fractured skull in the crash. He is in Providence Hospital in a serious condition.

Mrs. Mary A. Murray, 26, of Hyattsville, also in Fleshman's car, has a possible fracture of the leg. Fleshman suffered lacerations. Both were treated at Providence Hospital.

Recklessness Charged.

The drivers of the vehicles, including the driver of the bus, Fred P. Edwards, 40, of Brentwood, Md., were charged with reckless driving and released under bonds of $500 each.

Those charged, in addition to Thompson, Fleshman, and Edwards, were John P. Hallahan, 45, of Philadelphia; Harding Frizell, 22, of Baltimore, and J. T. Bradshaw, 25, of Goldsborough, N. C.

All the passengers in automobiles in the Beltsville crash were released under bond of $200 as State's witnesses.

Less serious hurts were sustained by Frizell, Bradshaw, Miss Margaret Nance, 19, of Baltimore; Miss Martha Scholl, of Baltimore; Mrs. Alsie Hammell, 40, Baltimore, and her three children, Virginia, Vivian and Aileen.

A coroner's inquest has been set for next Monday. George S. Phillips, justice of the peace, will hold the inquest at Berwyn, Md.

Capital Tourist Camp Draws From 'All Over' By Lacking Almost Every Trace of Home

Pilgrims From Afar Find All They Need by "Walking for It."

By John J. Daly.

Be it ever so humble, there's no trace of home—in a tourist camp.

And that, of course, is as it should be; for people who go to tourists' camps go primarily, it would seem, to get away from home.

Yet, one of the matronly women who frequent the tourist camp down by the Potomac River—a Mrs. Matilda Montgomery, from Kansas City—claims that there are all the comforts of home here "if you just walk far enough for them."

"There's a mighty pretty girl—"

In order to get to the clothes line, it was necessary to walk through the laundry—and 'twas then that the wisdom of Mrs. Montgomery's remark began to sink in: "All the comforts of home—if you just walk far enough for them."

After Uncle Sam has invited his guests from all parts of the Nation, to spend a night or two in Washington's de luxe tourist camp, they get from his bed and bedding. After that they've got to walk for the other comforts.

Water in Abundance.

Then, if the good wife wants to do the family washing there is that laundry house—with tubs, stationary and movable, and ironing boards when the wash is brought in off the line.

A little town in itself, the tourist camp snuggles along the left bank of the Potomac. Its population turns over practically every 48 hours. Otherwise, it resembles a normal small town, with a main street, a postoffice, a cafeteria, grocery store, delicatessen and everything but a movie and a poolroom.

As it takes but a few minutes' jaunt for the visitor to get to the heart of Washington—at Fourteenth and Pennsylvania avenue—the tourist camp gives only the absolute necessaries to its inhabitants, but they have those and plenty of 'em.

Any night, even hot as these nights are, a thousand tourists may be found parking down at the tourist camp. The biggest night in the history of the camp, according to Harold P. Clarke, was the night when they entertained 2,253 guests. He claims that was packin' 'em in.

To prove that the tourist camp of Washington has some attraction, some compelling force, there is Loyal G. Hood, a Californian, right from the sunny slopes of Los Angeles. Year after year Mr. Hood and his wife, Ethel M., park their trailer on the southeast edge of the camp—a choice site that has the Potomac river in the backyard, so to speak.

Calif., Here It Comes!

This, of course, is rather a slam at the weather of California, when a Los Angeles man leaves the town of the Angels to spend the summer in Washington, but Mr. Hood explains it this way:

"When it's hot, it's hot. No matter where you are."

Then, too, if it gets too hot, all a tourist has to do is emulate the example of the two young girls from Missouri—Miss Maurine Doores and Madie Lee Bosley. They sleep right out under the stars, under a blanket of blue; in their trim little cots, loaned by Uncle Sam.

Miss Doores and her girl friend are teachers. Miss Bosley teaches American history in the high school at Hume, Mo. She claims she can go back and tell the class a few interesting pointers merely from this visit to Washington. Nor have the girls failed to go places and see things outside of Washington. They went first from Bronaugh, Mo., where Miss Doores teaches in high school, to the World's Fair—that old Century of Progress—in Chicago. Then to Detroit, Henry Ford's town; then to Maine, where "As Maine Goes so Goes the Nation." As Maine was going South, to see the sights of Dixieland, the girls came along, stopping off at Boston on the way down; for beans and brown bread. In all they have traveled 12,500 miles since school let out. By the time they get back home, at the beginning of the next scholastic year, they hope to be seasoned tourists.

Seasoned Tourists.

As a matter of fact, they are seasoned tourists; merely because they stay in a tourist camp—for the manager claims only the initiated know the ropes.

There are four fellows down at the tourist camp who are spending the summer there. This quartet, all young lads trying to get along in the world, is made up of college students. They are: William Wells, of the University of Alabama; Raymond Osborne, Gordon Sullivan and Daniel Crosland, students at George Washington University.

Frosland, a graduate of West Point, was mustered out of the Army after a siege at Walter Reed Hospital, according to his tent-mate, "Slim" Wells, and these four have now formed a partnership that promises to be permanent. They are the life of the party, down at the tourist camp, where they meet all comers.

Has Rigid Inspection.

The tourist camp this year witnesses a falling off in attendance, the manager says, and explains that most of the troops on the road are Chicago-bound—for the exposition. Nevertheless, Washington's tourist camp, said to be one of the finest in the country, attracts quite a quota. It stands a rigid inspection because it must conform with the District sanitary code and also the Army regulations, the camp being under control of the Office of Public Buildings and Grounds manned by a colonel of the U. S. Army. Thirty-six employes are on the job night and day to take care of the visiting tourists.

Asked how Washington stood in comparison with other city tourist camps, Manager Clarke said:

Louise C. Hale, Stage Veteran, Taken by Death

Apoplexy Kills Recently Established "Find" of Movies.

Los Angeles, July 26 (AP).—The final curtain was lowered today on the life drama of one of the best known veterans of the stage, Louise Closser Hale.

Mrs. Hale died of apoplexy at the age of 60, just as she had established herself as one of the recent "finds" in motion pictures. A friend of Marie Dressler and May Robson, Mrs. Hale followed them into the films. In her last picture, "Another Language," she gave what previewers said was her most finished performance. The picture has not been released.

Mrs. Hale, who seemed to be in the best of health, was on a shopping tour yesterday when she was first stricken. She was taken to a hospital where the second and fatal stroke followed today.

Although in Hollywood she is known best as a character actress and comedienne, the name of Louise Closser Hale is known almost equally well in the literary world. She published several novels and was a war correspondent for Harper's Magazine.

Jerome Meyer Victim of Heart Attack in Home

Brother Discovers Body of Prominent Men's Shop Operator.

Jerome Meyer, 43, proprietor of the Meyer Men's Shop at 1331 F street northwest, was found dead early last night in his apartment at the Westchester, Thirty-ninth street and Cathedral avenue northwest. His body was found on the bathroom floor by his brother, Robert Meyer, 3601 Connecticut avenue, who called with a friend at the apartment to play cards with his brother.

When the callers gained no response to their knock at the door, they summoned Herbert W. Thornton, manager of the Westchester, who opened the door. A physician was called. He pronounced Mr. Meyer dead. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of death from natural causes, probably from heart disease.

Mr. Meyer was seen alive last when he came home after business hours. His wife was on a vacation in Atlantic City and he had been living alone.

Prominent in business and civic circles, Mr. Meyer had been in the haberdashery business in Washington for many years.

Bank Merger Plan Carried Forward

Date for Consolidation of Mechanics and Mount Vernon Indefinite.

Plans for the absorption of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank by the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank are being carried forward, but the date of their consummation still is indefinite, it was learned yesterday.

The merger would make the Washington Mechanics Bank a $4,000,000 institution. New stock to increase its capitalization by $150,000 will have to be sold, presumably to Mount Vernon depositors.

It is believed the International Association of Machinists, which founded the Mount Vernon Bank, will do its utmost to see that depositors are reimbursed as far as possible.

Learn what a difference BENZOL makes!

FOR YEARS thousands of motorists willingly paid a 5¢ premium for Betholine—the highest premium of any motor fuel. Why? Because Betholine is blended with Benzol. Now the premium is reduced 40%. Now this same famous Benzol Blend is only 3¢ more than ordinary gasolines. And what a whale of a difference those 3¢ make in motor performance and motor repair savings. Try a tankful. Learn what a difference Benzol makes.

Stolen Poison Alcohol Kills 12 In Philadelphia

Fluid Taken From Garage, Then Hi-Jacked and Sold to Victims.

Philadelphia, July 26 (AP).—Poison alcohol, stolen from a garage and later hi-jacked from a vacant house, today was blamed for 12 deaths and the blinding of 2 other persons in a 24-hour period. Police said 5 gallons of poison liquor was still "floating about the city." They predicted more deaths unless it is located.

Five of the dead, including a woman, were white. The others, Negroes.

Two men and two boys are under arrest, with police searching for others.

Detectives said the alcohol, originally intended for automobile radiators, was taken from the storage room in a garage and cached in a West Philadelphia house, which was vacant. The thief drained off about 4 of 20 gallons, it was stated, and sold it to a South Philadelphia bootlegger.

Police said several others meanwhile discovered the alcohol, drained it off and sold it by the quart-jar, and 5-gallon can to small-time racketeers, who then made bootleg liquor and distributed it.

Lodge Enters 2,000 More in Labor Day Fete

Woodmen of America Announce They Will Take Part in Fire Parade.

The eleventh annual National Firemen's Labor Day Parade will have the biggest single delegation in its history this year when 2,000 members of the Eastern Zone Encampment of the Foresters of the Modern Woodmen of America march in the outdoor pageant.

Notice of the organization's participation in the event was received by Sergt. A. J. Bargagni yesterday. Under the command of Allen D. Clauser, of Reading, Pa., the Foresters, all uniformed, will march, with several bands and floats to enliven the occasion.

The local encampment of Foresters will be called Camp Potter, in honor of Head Sentry Vergne W. Potter, Washington business man.

Men and women of the Foresters who will march in the parade will come from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, the District, Georgia, New York, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Ohio and all of the New England States.

Baltimore Cooperates.

Additional impetus was given the parade yesterday when Chief Howard Travers, of the Baltimore Fire Department, assured Noble F. Rushe, vice president of the National Firemen's Association, of the interest the firefighters of the Maryland city were showing in the Labor Day pageant.

Chief Jess Fisher of the Annapolis Fire Department was also visited by Rushe yesterday, and he, too, told him of the interest the parade plans were causing in the State capital. Fisher said he was bringing five pieces of equipment to Washington to compete for prizes.

Fire companies from different parts of the country are sending in their applications every day and Sergt. Bargagni is being fairly swamped with mail from firemen and others interested.

Sweepstakes Chairman.

The bicycle and roller skating sweepstakes, which will be run directly before the parade, was given a chairman yesterday when E. J. Murphy, prominent Washingtonian, volunteered for the post.

Starting at 10:30 a. m., half an hour before the parade, the sweepstakes will be open to any person in the country, and especially to those who own ancient bicycles. Prizes and cups will be awarded.

The Police Department's participation in the parade will be under the direction of Inspector Ogden T. Davis, chairman of the committee; Capt. Edward Kelly of the Third Precinct, and Capt. Richard Mansfield of the Ninth Precinct.

The committee will call on all police precincts and bureaus to assist in designing floats and forming the line of march.

Mother Will Fight Daughter for Body

Plans Suit to Determine Which One Has Right to Bury Father.

A drawn out legal battle between Mrs. Virginia Grimes and her daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Wyatt, over the right to bury their husband and father, Maurice E. Grimes, was indicated last night when it was learned Mrs. Grimes was planning to file a court action, possibly today, in an attempt to obtain her husband's body.

Mr. Grimes died of heat prostration while working in a florist's garden. His wife, who resides in Baltimore and from whom he allegedly has been separated for 17 years, came here and claimed the body. Before she and an undertaker could obtain the body, Mrs. Wyatt, who lived with her father at 1722 West Virginia avenue northeast, filed a petition for an injunction in the District Supreme Court.

The injunction forbade the coroner from giving the body to Mrs. Grimes pending a final settlement of the daughter's claims tomorrow. Meantime, the wife is not a party to the suit and, in order to get her claims weighed with those of her daughter, she consulted Attorneys Walter C. English and James E. Shifflett yesterday.

Today a petition will be filed asking that Mrs. Grimes be permitted to intervene in the suit.

New Head for Lorton May Be Named Tuesday

The Board of Public Welfare will consider the appointment of a superintendent of the District Reformatory at Lorton at its meeting next Tuesday, George S. Wilson, welfare director, announced yesterday. More than 25 candidates have applied for the post, though the leaders are reported to be William L. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail, and Carl Lewis, of Kokomo, Ind.

The new superintendent, who must be approved by the District Commissioners, will not take office, however, until Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of penal institutions, is satisfied that discipline has retuned to the reformatory. The vacancy was created by the resignation of A. C. Tawse, who quit during the recent uprising.

Pollard to Wed Secretary At Quiet Church Ceremony

Announced Engagement Creates Big Surprise Among Friends.

Richmond, Va., July 26 (AP).—Gov. John Garland Pollard and Miss Violet Elizabeth McDougall, his executive secretary, are to be married.

Announcement of the engagement was made tonight by Mrs. Ellen McDougall, mother of Miss McDougall and a resident of Winnipeg, Canada, creating surprise among a wide circle of friends.

Gov. Pollard is in California presiding over the national conference of governors.

Miss McDougall said her mother's health and the press of State affairs upon the governor made it impossible today to announce the definite wedding date. She said, however, that it would be a quiet one, probably in the Presbyterian Church.

Miss McDougall, a native of Canada, came to Virginia in 1918. She has been executive secretary to four Governors of Virginia.

Miss McDougall has four sisters, all living in Canada. One is the wife of George N. Johnston, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Alberta, Canada.

Miss McDougall is 44. Governor Pollard is 61.

Mrs. Pollard died a year ago last spring. The governor has three children—Mrs. Herbert Lee Boatwright, of Washington; John Garland Pollard, jr., of Washington, and Charles P. Pollard, of New

Balbo Reaches Newfoundland; 1 Plane Down

A mishap to one of the fleet of 24 ships caused this plane to descend at Victoria Harbor, Prince Edward Island, shortly after the expedition left Shediac, New Brunswick, today and threatened to delay the departure of the fleet for its eastward flight back across the ocean.

It was learned that the twenty-fourth seaplane, commanded by Capt. Rovis, would require some time to obtain a new water pump before it would leave Victoria Harbor to rejoin the main body at Shoal Harbor.

Gen. Balbo was not discouraged by the mischance and remained optimistic that the great fleet would continue its successful progress over the Atlantic in due time.

The bearded young general was the first to swoop down to the water surface here, descending at 11:40 a. m., E. S. T., after something more than four hours in the air since leaving Shediac, 500 miles away.

Thousands of Newfoundlanders, who had poured into this town by every available means of conveyance, shouted themselves hoarse in welcome as the daring airmen came ashore to be received officially by Lieut. Col. L. C. Outerbridge, special representative of the governor, Sir David Murray Anderson, who was unable to be present.

Two Killed, One Hurt As Plane Takes Dive

Norwalk, Conn., July 26 (AP).—Two youths were killed and a third man was critically injured late today as an airplane crashed near the Norwalk Airport after witnesses saw it go into a nose dive. Those killed were John Wadsworth, 18, and William Waters, 20, both of Norwalk.

The pilot, Erban Loudan, of Georgetown, Conn., was taken to a hospital, where it was reported he had only a small chance of recovering. The crash occurred only a few minutes after Loudan and the two youths had gone aloft from the airport here.

Governors Demand That U. S. Prosecute Kidnapers to Limit

Federal Government Asked to Open War on All Racketeers.

San Francisco, July 26 (AP).—Governors attending the annual conference of State executives asked the Federal Government today "to pursue to the utmost" its vigorous prosecution of racketeers "to the end that kidnaping and other kindred crimes be suppressed."

The executives acted as individuals, at the request of Gov. Ibra C. Blackwood of South Carolina, after it was explained a resolution offered by Gov. Fred Balzar of Nevada, requesting that President Roosevelt speed organization of a national police force, could not be acted upon as such because it was opposed to the policy of the conference.

Invitations were received from Georgia and Illinois asking that the next conference be held in one of those States. The executive committee, however, took no action on the 1934 meeting and Gov. Rolph declared that probably no choice would be made until after the conference next winter between the governors and President Roosevelt.

The Chief Executive last night invited the governors to meet with him to discuss national and State problems.

Prior to their discussion of the crime situation the governors had heard talks and debated problems of labor, the minimum wage, unemployment insurance and real estate mortgages.

Gov. Pollard of Virginia made a plea for voluntary offers of readjustment between holders of mortgage bonds, the mortgagee and mortgagor to readjust the obligations by reductions of interest and maturity extensions.

"Any other plan will cause untold hardship among thousands of home owners and will inevitably retard the cause of national recovery," he said.

At luncheon the governors heard Secretary of War George H. Dern praise the United States Army for acomplishing its "greatest peacetime project in mobilizing the Citizens Conservation Corps in work camps by July 1."

Hospital Care For Members Studied Here

Subscription Plan Would Cost Employed Persons 75 Cents Monthly.

Creation of a corporation to operate group hospitalization in Washington took a long stride forward last night when a committee which has been studying the plan authorized steps which may result in its introduction before the end of the year.

Under the system, subscriptions would be solicited from employed persons, at a cost to them of about 75 cents a month. Membership would entitle one to three weeks' free hospital care a year and a 25 per cent discount from the regular charges for hospitalization in excess of the stipulated period.

The committee, headed by Joseph H. Himes, adopted a resolution introduced by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, recommending formation of a nonprofit corporation and participation of all District hospitals. The only exceptions are Gallinger and Children's, Federal institutions.

Since the idea was conceived four months ago by the Council of Social Agencies and the committee appointed, a thorough survey has been conducted among hospitals, doctors, employers and employes. The employers subcommittee contacted firms representing 50,000 workers and six governmental departments.

Heads Columbia Hospital.

Mr. Himes, the chairman, is president of Columbia Hospital and a former member of Congress from Ohio.

"It will mean much to the employed person of Washington," Mr. Hines said last night, "and will be a plan of real value to the average man. If the plan goes through he will not have to worry about his hospital bills. He will know that for a small monthly payment he may be assured hospital care."

Group hospitalization is being operated in Newark, Kansas City, Wichita, Dallas, San Antonio, New Orleans and several other cities. Los Angeles, Cleveland, Minneapolis, and New York are considering its adoption.

Although the charge to subscribers and compensation to member hospitals have not been definitely decided, they probably will be fixed at $9 to $11 annually and $5.50 to $7 per patient day, respectively.

Welles Acting For Self Alone, Machado Avers

Cuban President Says Ambassador Not Guided From Washington.

Havana, July 26 (AP).—President Gerard Machado, asserting emphatically that United States Ambassador Sumner Welles is acting for himself alone and not for the United States Government in attempts to mediate Cuban political difficulties, today told Cuban senators he intends to remain in office until May 20, 1935.

"Don't fear," the executive told the senators, assembled informally in their conference room, "that the mediator is doing this on behalf of his Government. He is acting entirely on his own.

"If it were not thus," Machado continued, shaking his hands above his head, "either he wouldn't be doing it or I wouldn't be president of the republic."

Prolonged applause greeted this statement and as it died down the president added: "Not one single time has he (Welles) gone over the president's head."

Machado's visit to the Senate, the first in more than two years, was unexpected and unannounced, and had as its ostensible object to advise the body that he had signed the political amnesty legislation passed by the Senate Monday and by the House last night.

He further informed the legislators of his action this morning in restoring the long suspended constitutional guarantees in Havana Province, a preface to the continuance of the negotiations for some political settlement in Cuba.

California Creates Kidnap Reward Fund

Sacramento, Calif., July 26 (AP).—The State Senate passed a bill today providing a $10,000 fund to be used as $1,000 rewards for the arrest and conviction of kidnapers in California.

Senator J. M. Inman, of Sacramento, told the Senate "kidnaping has become a racket and no man, woman or child, whose folks can produce money is safe these days." He said he would introduce legislation making kidnaping a capital offense in California.

Bandits Seize $15,000 In Furs; Police Nearby

New York, July 26 (AP).—Within one block of a police station, three bandits held up a fur loft today, bound 16 persons hand and foot and escaped in an automobile with furs valued at $15,000.

The robbers tied up Irving Feinberg, the proprietor; Benjamin Kramer, a visiting merchant; 13 employes and a begger who wandered in and herded them into the fur vault. While one man stood guard, the other two packed the pelts into cardboard containers.

League Hits Germans For Seizures in Saar

Geneva, July 26 (AP).—The League of Nations commission for the Saar territory reported today it had protested to Germany against the seizure in the territory of three residents, including a French woman and her son, by "a group of agressors who came from Germany."

The three were taken to Germany by menace of arms, the commission said, adding that it had asked Germany to release the trio and punish the offenders.

Free Mart for Gold Urged on President

San Francisco, July 26 (AP).—Gold mining interests carried their demands for a free gold market to the public here today.

More than a score of mine executives, engineers, attorneys and mining association officials urged President Roosevelt in an open message to relieve "the forgotten industry" presumably by permitting sale of gold produced in mines to the highest bidder.

No whipping, no nursing . . . just a soft word, and your Terraplane will go through fire and water for you!

That's TERRAPLANING!

By letter, by wire, by word-of-mouth, Essex Terraplane owners have told us of experiences with their cars that have seemed even to us almost incredible until we learned the details.

Thousands of trouble-free high-speed miles, emergency high-gear runs over rocky mountain roads in record time, accidents prevented by Terraplane agility, trips through mud and sand in the dead of night.

. . . in every story a thrill, in every thrill the assurance of Terraplane ruggedness, dependability and safety.

Yet the Terraplane is a gentle car—quiet, smooth, comfortable, instantly responsive. It is an amazingly economical car. It is a beautiful, sleek, low-slung car. . . . Have you driven a Terraplane yet?

"Bobby, darling, think of having a new dog and a new Terraplane the same day!"

"Come on, fellow—let's get started. I want to show your mother what this new chariot will do."

Grappling With Crime.

Public resentment against the activities of organized criminals is gaining steady momentum. An orgy of kidnaping in various parts of the country is resulting in a widespread demand that some action be taken to check the depredations of gangs and hoodlums. Legislators as well as law enforcement officials are becoming alarmed. In various State capitals as well as in Washington anticrime legislation is being studied. A determined drive to enact new criminal statutes may be expected next winter.

No clear course in the fight against the modern criminal has yet been outlined. Investigators are attacking the problem from many different angles and arriving at numerous conclusions. Some are concentrating upon more stringent State laws, while others think that any effective action against organized criminal gangs must be sponsored by the Federal Government. The arguments for and against such a course are often confusing. It is apparent that the problem has not yet been fully explored.

The public demands protection against the murderers and thieves who are steadily encroaching upon its rights. But the average man is not greatly concerned as to whether that protection shall be provided by the Federal or State governments. The vital necessity is that crime shall be checked.

At present there is considerable agitation for a Federal police force that would undertake to uproot gangdom. Such a force might be effective in kidnaping and similar cases, but the police powers are reserved to the States. Under the Constitution as it is now written Uncle Sam can not take over the responsibility of the States to protect their citizens against lawless elements. The most the Government can do is to cooperate with the States in cases that go beyond the reach of local authorities.

It has been suggested that a Federal police force ought to be held in reserve to assist local authorities at any time and place where help might be needed. On the surface this plan seems to have some merit, but it would involve joint powers and responsibility. Experience has shown that when the United States attempts to cooperate with the States on difficult problems they frequently withdraw their own efforts and leave the Government to carry the whole burden. If experts from Washington could be called upon to solve every difficult case, local authorities might be less diligent than they are now.

In some States law enforcement has been notably strengthened by the creation of State police forces. Incompetence and political corruption are less prevalent, as a rule, in State-wide law enforcement agencies. A number of governors are preparing for a showdown with the underworld on this basis without placing much hope in a Federal police force. It may be that organization along this line, with the Federal Government supplementing State activities in interstate cases, would be most effective.

The Petroleum Code.

The hearings of the various oil interests before the National Recovery Administration quickly developed the manifold variety of the differences which have heretofore been found irreconcilable in this widely diversified industry.

At the suggestion of Gen. Johnson the clashing demands of labor requirements in the various divisions of the oil industry were delegated to three separate committees rather than continue the attempt to harmonize differences in a general session. One committee will consider the question of wages and hours of work as they affect labor engaged in production, another committee these same factors relating to refinery employees, and a third will cover those engaged in distribution and marketing.

The meetings held by these groups will be attended by representatives of the Recovery Administration, the Labor Department, and the Labor Advisory Board. This is getting down to a practical basis of negotiation.

Similar segregation of widely differing interests in the matter of production and price doubtless will also be necessary. The gap between the costs of production from the 300,000 stripper wells of the country, which average less than 3 barrels a day, and the 10,000-barrel gushers is a hard one to bridge. The eastern stripper interests are supporting the code plan of the American Petroleum Institute. This is as heartily opposed by the western independents, who demand that price fixing be included. It will be interesting to observe the result of the present effort to reconcile these differences.

A Question of Equilibrium.

The controversy over hours of work in the shipbuilding industry raises a question of far-reaching importance in the industrial recovery program. Shipbuilders requested a 40-hour week in the code submitted to Gen. Johnson. The Navy supported this agreement on the ground that a shorter working week would increase the cost of the vessels to be constructed for the Government and might delay completion of the naval building program beyond three years. Representatives of labor argued in favor of a 30-hour week. Gen. Johnson insisted on a 32-hour week.

The shorter week applies only to the Navy's $238,000,000 building program. Other work in the shipyards may be on a 36-hour-week basis. It is difficult to understand the distinction that is here made.

When the cotton textile code, with its 40-hour week, was approved, it was thought to be a model from which other codes would be patterned. That idea is uprooted by the action on the shipbuilding code. Apparently the working hours for each industry are to be based on conditions within that industry and not upon any general conception as to how long the average employee should be allowed to work under present circumstances. From one viewpoint this policy is both reasonable and practical. Yet it is obvious that the relation of one industry to another must also be considered.

The general purpose of the national recovery act is to reduce unemployment, to increase purchasing power and thus stimulate business recovery. If one industry is compelled to pay fixed minimum wages for 32 hours of labor and another is allowed to pay similar or even lower wages for 40 hours of work, dissatisfaction is certain to arise. If there is to be great variation in the hours of work prescribed by different codes, a constant demand for adjustments may be expected. The N. R. A. will find it extremely difficult to do justice to every one.

Some effort is being made to adjust minimum wages on a sectional basis. But costs of living frequently differ more between urban and rural districts in the same vicinity than between widely separated sections. These varying conditions require an infinite number of adjustments that are ordinarily made by industry through its local management.

Each new step toward the negotiation of codes makes the task of directing the immense American industrial machine appear more formidable than before. It remains to be seen whether a governmental agency is capable of maintaining a practicable equilibrium among the industrial and trade groups as well as among the establishments within those groups, in a manner that will satisfy the great mass of the people.

Community Self-Reliance.

In spite of the generosity of the Federal Government and the more or less generous appropriations by the States for relief of the distressed, it will be necessary for private contributors to do their share in preventing widespread suffering during the coming winter. The mobilization of community aid to the national distress situation is in the hands of a competent committee, of which Newton D. Baker is chairman. The community welfare campaign will be inaugurated at the White House on Sept. 15, under the auspices of President Roosevelt. Nationwide appeals will be made at intervals, for the purpose of raising $100,000,000 for the Community Chest relief project. After a White House conference Mr. Baker said:

> The $500,000,000 appropriated for relief from Federal funds, plus an equal amount coming from local and State appropriations, are a great financial and humanitarian asset, but an equally great psychological liability. The human tendency to "let George do it" inclines the private giver to use these government emergency relief funds as an alibi for not supporting those other welfare services needed more than ever in these distressing times.

Some of the States have given a very poor example to private givers by their attempts to shuffle off upon the Federal Government the entire burden of caring for distress. These attempts have failed, and the States must do their share if they are to receive a part of the Federal funds. But much valuable time has been lost, and the sufferings of the destitute continue while politicians endeavor to draw excessive sums from Washington.

Every community in the United States can be more self-reliant if it will. No State is so lacking in resources that it must be a beggar. What is needed is the old self-respecting American spirit—the spirit which in times of catastrophes obliterates selfishness and develops heroic sacrifice. No greater impetus could be given to the nationwide recovery effort than active community movements for self-help. No State, city, town, or township in the United States should have it said that it permitted outsiders to do its charity work.

Philippine Sugar.

It is traditional in Manila that the first resolution to be passed by the legislature meeting in a new session shall demand complete, immediate and absolute independence for the Philippines. When the present session of the legislature assembled this expression of sentiment was neglected and the legislature passed a resolution demanding equal treatment for Philippine sugar in the American market.

This incident is full of significance. Attempts are being made in Washington to work out an agreement on sugar imports and production. The tentative allocation to the Philippines is based on the restrictions contained in the Hawes-Cutting independence act for application to imports from the islands during the transition period. So long as the Philippines are under the American flag, the legislature contends, their sugar industry should not be penalized more than that of any other American territory.

The Philippine sugar industry has grown rapidly under the stimulus of free trade with the United States. A large portion of the Philippine crop is marketed in this country. When the American market is restricted or closed by application of a tariff to Philippine goods, the islands' sugar industry will be in danger of a collapse. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the legislature this year should think of sugar before it thinks of independence.

Strict limitation of sugar exports to the United States would give the islands a real understanding of what separate national existence would mean to their economy. But the political leaders shrink from such a test before independence is actually achieved. Apparently they do not trust the much-advertised preference of the people for independence over economic stability.

Golden Bantam Corn.

The threatened disappearance of genuine Golden Bantam corn is announced from Long Island, where a horticulturist has discovered that growers have been hybridizing that variety with larger white varieties for the purpose of producing a larger ear possessing the best characteristics of Golden Bantam. The hybrid retains the attractive golden color and some of the delicate flavor of the Bantam, but as a whole the experiment is disappointing.

Whereupon the Boston Transcript complains that science has not yet succeeded in evolving a corn that accommodates itself to "human jaw-work." All ears of corn carry even numbers of rows, while the average corn consumer is geared to take in three rows at a bite. The result is keen disappointment when the consumer begins his third bite on an eight-rowed cob, with only two rows left to go, and even greater chagrin when after three bites he finds only one-row left on a ten-rowed cob. The Transcript therefore asks:

> Will no horticulturist come up to the help of the mathematical-minded gourmet and produce for his delight a green corn that has either six or nine or twelve or fifteen rows?

This important question was referred by The Post to Dr. William A. Taylor, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture. He confirms the statement that all ears of corn carry an even number of rows, and explains that the phenomenon can be traced back to the primeval grass from which corn has evolved. The spikelets of this grass always grow in pairs, and corn inherits this peculiarity. Corn growers have sometimes observed freak ears carrying an odd number of rows, but they have been unable to induce nature to reproduce odd-numbered rows.

Dr. Taylor offered the suggestion that instead of striving to change the habits of nature, man should readjust his own corn-consuming apparatus so as to take in two rows at a time. By thus curbing his ambition the consumer can prolong his delight, while conserving the national corn crop. If he will make a careful inspection he will find a somewhat wider space between certain rows, from which he can begin his attack with every prospect of success and satisfaction. In extreme cases a second ear may be devoured; and this is likely to happen when genuine Golden Bantam is under discussion, for it almost invariably carries only eight rows. No one has yet been discovered who was content with eight rows of Golden Bantam corn, and there is no reason why one should be content.

Nine policemen have been shot and killed in Chicago since January 1, and the century of progress is still young.

Congressmen want to know all about this new order by Secretary Ickes to tear down western fences.

By Edward P. Mulrooney, in the American Magazine.

I believe it is important to get the guns out of the hands of the gangsters. That will require Federal legislation. No State can do it. In one year a concern in New York sold 77 machine guns. They had a legal right to do this, although the machine gun is a weapon which has no place except in the armed forces of the country. Many of these guns were traced later to crimes committed in many parts of the country.

The United States is flooded with revolvers, many of them made in Spain and Belgium. In the five counties making up the City of New York, every applicant for a pistol permit is investigated thoroughly by the police. In many of the other counties it is possible for a gangster to get a permit from a local judge. That is how the bodyguard of the late "Legs" Diamond got his. That is how Salvatore Spitale, the underworld character who offered to act as intermediary in the Lindbergh case, got his.

Or the gangster can go to the Hoboken (N. J.) waterfront for his gun, or take an hour's trip in any one of several directions, where no restrictions exist, and pick up a gun for a few dollars.

I believe that at least 50,000 guns are brought into this country annually and sold at wholesale for as little as $1.25 a gun. That makes the gun broker's problem easy, and the policeman's job harder. With guns so cheap the brokers can assemble an arsenal for a few dollars, and rent out the guns. When the robbers or murderers to whom the weapons have been supplied complete their jobs they slip the weapons back to the brokers, and thus a valuable piece of evidence disappears.

In one year recently, 53 per cent of the homicides in New York were caused by guns. The next year the percentage increased to nearly 60. The only way to stop shooting is to disarm the man who is going to shoot, and that is up to the Federal Government.

Darius Green and His Flying Machine.

Post Haste.

Gen. Johnson is too shrewd a strategist to maneuver himself into a cul-de-sac decision that Federal workers can not receive consideration because Uncle Sam is not an industry.

But speaking of psychological maneuvers, it was good generalship to avoid the mention of boycotts in the formal blanket code announcements.

Prevailing American sentiment would seem to indicate that the economic conference is not over over there only.

Col. Howe corrected a radio slip in which he spoke of Congress meeting in the fall—but may it not have been significant?

The combined annual value of the wheat and silver crops is just about 1 per cent of the total of normal American business, but they make 50 per cent of the noise.

The aviators might now let our nerves relax while we explore the stratosphere.

Rayon makers ask to be classified with the silk code, which would surely be in line with the practice of some retailers.

There's a lot of argument in the Frenchman's suggestion that the United States would understand France's security demands better if Mexico were peopled with 60,000,000 Japanese.

It is said that Uncle Sam can not apply code ethics because so large a percentage of his expenses are for labor and he must balance his budget to preserve credit. But there is private bankruptcy, too.

So many persons are trying to kill Time that his persistence is remarkable.

Gen. Johnson wants only aids about him who can catch the Irish confetti and build walls with it that will protect them from being smothered by the bouquets.

If that half billion revenue from hard liquor is to come promptly, how about releasing some bonded samples to be used in weaning tastes away from bathtub products?

Adding ten to the force of one employer, to whom it means a 10 per cent increase, when the addition of one means a 50 per cent expansion to another, just shows that the little fellow always has the biggest problem.

The picture of our NRA eagle indicates that it is not only preparing to do its part, but the splits.

Adventure

We strike once more into the great unknown.
A new adventure calls us all today.
The old successes from our grasp have flown,
Again we face a rough and rugged way.

'Tis ours once more to play the pioneer,
To turn from pathways old and find the new;
To quit the past and never doubt nor fear
That we shall gain the goal that we pursue.

With triumph soon our hearts may thrill again,
For surer joys we venture forth to seek,
And all the heartache and the grief and pain
Will be forgotten at the mountain peak.

From false beliefs and broken dreams we turn.
From tinsled treasures Time has proven cheap.
We set our faces forward now to earn
New joys, new pleasures we may hold and keep.

If the Charm Heals All Wounds, Men Will Risk Any Wound to Win It

By Robert Quillen

WHEN Moses turned his back for a little while, the wandering Israelites made for themselves a god they could see and appreciate. It was a golden calf. And they found it easy to worship, for they knew its value.

The new religion did not survive the wrath of Moses, but something quite similar dominates the life of America today.

Observe the people at their worship.

Here, let us say, is a prominent citizen who has a million dollars. He is not a fine specimen of manhood. His manners and morals are bad. He is soft and fat. He has little learning and his wisest observations are simple platitudes.

Yet the people stand in awe of him. They are embarrassed in his presence. They listen when he talks, as polite children listen to their elders. They point him out on the street. They look up to him.

How do you explain it? If he dressed in old clothes and appeared among strangers, would they revere him? If he worked for daily wages and seldom had more than five dollars in his pockets, would people respect him as they do now?

You know they would not. Without his million dollars he would be an obscure nobody, growled at by the same policemen who now touch their caps in respectful salute.

Then it isn't the man that people worship. They worship his million dollars. They treat him as an important citizen because of what he has. They squirm in his presence because he is a keeper of the golden calf.

We don't like to admit it, for it isn't a thing to be proud of, but the people as a whole are awed by wealth and they judge the worth of their fellow man by the amount of wealth he has.

How often, during the boom, you heard critics use the scornful phrase: "He hasn't got anything." And how often, since the boom, you hear a note of lingering admiration in the words: "They used to be very rich."

Why are college professors and preachers ridiculed by professional jokesmiths? Because they are proverbially threadbare. Would anybody laugh at them if they were paid $100,000 a year?

In France the greatest and most honored statesman may be on the verge of want. In England the banker devotes his life to an honorable public service and gives no thought to money-making. A quickly won fortune would bring him shame instead of honor.

Until America learns to judge men by what they do and what they are, the golden calf will remain a god. And while money alone makes men great, ambitious men will justify any method required to get it.

Political Comment

Minimum Wages?

New York Journal of Commerce.

Nobody who understands the complex nature of American industry and knows of the great variations in wage scales and living costs that prevail over the vast area that comprises the United States believes that a Nation-wide minimum wage scale is either possible or desirable. The lumber industry, for instance, has just presented a fair practice code carrying detailed proposals for minimum wages, ranging from less than $11 per 48-hour week in some areas to over $20 per week in West Coast logging camps. Obviously, the adequacy of these wages can not be appraised with reference to some ideal standard which might apply properly to factory labor living in congested centers of employment. Furthermore, actual wage scales for any given industry can not be fixed without regard to the previously existing general level of wages.

The Vanishing Speakeasy.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

If legalized beer had done nothing else, it should be welcomed for having thinned out the iniquitous speakeasies.

A comprehensive survey shows that legitimate beer has done away with more than half of the illegal liquor-dispensing places—and this within the short space of six months. The rest of them are going. There no longer is "money in it," say the irregular purveyors. The money which for more than a decade went into the pockets of violators of the law now finds its way into the exchequers of legitimate business, municipalities, States, the Nation.

Just Kicking Up.

Topeka Capital.

Gen. Johnson and the President are disturbed by the behavior of business in getting in on the ground floor before submitting codes of moral business practice. However, that is business. Maybe it intends to be good, and is merely taking a last fling.

Nothing Nicer.

Detroit News.

A blanket pay increase for a million American workers should be just the thing as the nights grow cooler.

Make It Unanimous.

Detroit Free Press.

It is a happy custom in American political conventions, when the calling of the roll has progressed far enough to establish definitely which candidate or issue has won, and which has lost, for a delegate aligned with the defeated faction to interrupt the voting with a "move we make it unanimous." The idea ordinarily is greeted with a shout of mingled relief that the fight is over and gladness at the return of good feeling again.

Tuesday's repeal votes in Arkansas and Alabama strongly suggest that the time for some good loser among the drys to "move we make it unanimous" is near at hand. When the Heart of Dixie goes wet there can be little hope left of keeping the eighteenth amendment in the Constitution, and it will only create unnecessary bitterness and dissension for the drys to drag their fight to the very end.

Senator Capper on the New Era.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

The "devil take the hindmost" days of the 1920s are gone forever, and we are facing an entirely new business era. At least that is the prediction which Senator Capper, of Kansas, made at the closing session of the convention of the Advertising Federation of America. He estimates that 1,500,000 men have returned to work and that 3,000,000 more will be back by September. Dollar wheat, 50-cent corn and higher-priced pork are giving the farmers money to spend, and that in turn is providing the manufacturers with orders for turning the looms. Coming from Washington he confesses that most of the representatives have been moving for three months in a haze of bewilderment.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

THE THEATER'S RECOVERY CODE.

The theater has adopted a code of recovery. There is general satisfaction with the words, but the theater people want Roosevelt to write the music.

* * * *

Mr. Roosevelt is the author of those popular song hits, "When the Boom Comes Over the Mountain," "Under a Blanket of Red," "Silver Threads Among the Coinage Experts" and "Massa's in the Code, Code Ground."

* * * *

The code definitely fixes the wages all unemployed actors can talk about getting.

* * * *

It sets the wages all actors are entitled to think they are worth.

* * * *

Actors with more than two years of experience will be guaranteed a minimum wage of $40 to $50 a week when talking with the producers and from $400 to $1,000 a week when talking at the Lambs Club.

* * * *

The only flaw in the code is that it neglects to say where a producer with $40 or $50 can be found.

* * * *

The minimum pay of chorus girls is fixed at $35 while on the road and $30 while in New York. The road business being what it is, this means that the girls will get $30 at all times.

* * * *

* * * *

Chorus men are not mentioned. The administration takes the attitude they are one of the evils left over from the Hoover administration.

* * * *

Dramatists are to get $500 when the producer accepts the script, and under section 18 no manager may hold a script on his desk more than 11 years in a case where he doesn't accept it.

* * * *

* * * *

Press agents asked a maximum working week. Their request was rejected until such a time as they can define what they mean by work.

* * * *

The code also gives the usherettes a new deal by ruling that the wearing of funny uniforms is not compulsory.

HEALTH REGULATION.

The Stock Exchange will be open only three hours a day for the time being. This will make it possible for us all to feel all right up to noon.

Why shouldn't the stock market be able to do its business in three hours a day? The race tracks do it.

Equipoise, carrying 135 pounds, won a race at a mile and a quarter. How about trying him a mile and a half with an ice wagon?

What Elmer Twitchell wants to know is who buys those calico horses that are offered for sale every 15 yards along a State highway this summer?

Ima Dodo is so frightened by the recent break in prices that she says she won't buy another 3-cent stamp until it's had a reaction.

Five bandits held up a Chicago golf club recently and stole $40,000. That disposes of the theory that a fivesome has no rights on a golf course.

Letters to the Editor.

Says Excess of Imports Helps to Reimburse Americans Who Sent Goods Abroad on Credit.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In June this country enjoyed an excess of imports over exports for the first time since August, 1931.

It is seldom realized that an excess of imports is actually an advantage in trade. It means that, in the exchange of goods which we have made with the countries of the world, we have received more than we have given in payment.

These excess receipts come, in some measure, to repay us for the billions of dollars' worth of goods that we have shipped abroad since the war, on credit. An excess of imports provides the funds from which a few of those credits can be discharged. It creates purchasing power in the hands of the firms and individuals to whom foreign payments have long been due.

CHRISTOPHER DUDLEY.

Suggests Elimination of Ragweed for Relief of Hay Fever Victims.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Many people in Washington are sufferers from hay fever and asthma. The principal cause of this ailment is the ragweed, or rather the pollen from the ragweed. The pollen does not get into the air until about the middle of August or the first of September. Would it not be a good plan to have some laborers go around the city and pull up all these weeds before the pollen gets in the air?

The ragweed is found on vacant lots, in unimproved street drains and in the yards of untenanted houses. A vigorous war waged on this weed would not only prove very beneficial to the people who suffer from hay fever, but it would give employment and beautify the city.

GEORGE F. JONES.

COOLIDGE'S CABLEGRAM.

Two Amherst graduates attending the international radio-telegraphic conference in Madrid decided to give an Amherst dinner, says the New York Sun. Sixty-five delegates attended the affair at the Palace Hotel. To provide a grand climax for the party the hosts had sent a long cable to Calvin Coolidge, an Amherst graduate, explaining the situation and asking him to send a suitable message to be read at the dinner.

They also emphasized that the delegates had the privilege of free transmission of messages—a hint to the former President to expand his reply.

The dinner was marked by long speeches. Then came the big moment. One of the hosts arose and read the message from Coolidge.

It said:

"Greetings."

London Parley, Deep in Gloom, To End Today

U. S. Delegates Plan Final Plea, But Resumption Appears Unlikely.

London, July 26 (AP).—Leaders of the World Economic Conference laid their plans tonight for indefinite closing down of the parley tomorrow with a final round of speech making in which American delegates will plead for international cooperation and continuation of efforts to solve outstanding problems.

The steering committee, composed of the first delegates of the more important powers, will submit to the plenary body a resolution empowering Prime Minister MacDonald, as chairman, and other officers of the congress acting as a bureau to keep the international negotiations alive and summon the conference to meet again when they deem it likely to produce useful results.

There was little expectations tonight, however, that the conference would reconvene, certainly not at an early date, for most of the delegations were displaying a spirit of defeatism with regard to international economic action.

Hull in Final Appeal.

Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, plans to make a final plea in behalf of attempts to reduce existing barriers to trade in pursuance of his campaign for continuing the truce on economic warfare.

Mr. Hull is anxious that during the long recess which begins tomorrow the drive for tariff reductions and elimination of other hindrances to commerce may be kept going in special committees.

James M. Cox, of Ohio, chairman of the monetary commission, is expected to urge international action to protect investors in his farewell remarks. It was understood tonight he will appeal for constitution of a fact-finding commission to provide complete, disinterested information to the public with regard to investments.

Will Discuss Currency.

The question of currency stabilization, which proved to be a stumbling block for the negotiations here, will doubtless be frankly discussed by the Ohio delegate.

Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, brought to successful conclusion today the agreement by five silver producing countries to take 35,000,000 ounces of the metal off the market annually during the next four years.

This agreement was an essential part of the silver pact under which India has undertaken to restrict sales from its treasury to an average of 35,000,000 ounces annually during the four-year period.

U. S. Takes Largest Quota.

The allotments of this amount which each producing country will absorb were not made public, but is was understood the United States will take 24,000,000 ounces, Mexico about 7,000,000 ounces, Canada about 2,500,000 ounces, Peru more than 1,000,000, and Australia the remainder.

The silver accord is regarded by Mr. Pittman and others as the outstanding achievment of the month and a half of negotiations here.

Members of the American delegation tonight packed their baggage and were preparing to be able to leave tomorrow evening on the 6 o'clock boat train for Plymouth to sail on the steamship President Harding. A few of the American group will go to the continent for short vacations.

Regatta Throngs' Reception Planned

Transportation Agencies Make Special Plans for Great Influx.

Anticipating an unusual influx of visitors to Washington during the President's Cup Regatta, September 28, 29 and 30, railroads, bus companies and all other transportation agencies are making special arrangements to handle the thousands who will take advantage of the special rates, according to Curtis Hodges, executive director of the Greater National Capital Committee. Under the supervision of John A. Remon, general chairman, a program of water events extending over the three days has been arranged with such thoroughness that it is attracting entries from the outstanding swimming and diving experts of the country as well as the cream of the motor-boat racers, he said.

CONDUCT REPORT

(This space is to be used in case the question on the face of the sheet, regarding the employee's deportment and attitude, has been answered in the negative. In such a case give here a full statement of the particulars in which the employee's conduct has been unsatisfactory.)

_____

INSTRUCTIONS TO RATING OFFICERS

1. The rating officer will receive a Graphic Rating Scale for each employee, with captions already filled in and the service elements in which the employee is to be marked indicated by "X" in the boxes in the left-hand margin. All elements thus indicated will be marked, and those only.

2. The rating officer will sort the Rating Scales according to the classes established by the Personnel Classification Board, as indicated in the upper left-hand corner of the sheets. The sheets will then be marked, class by class, those for each class group (as attorney, scientist, stenographer, etc.) being completed separately, beginning with the lowest class in each group.

3. Before attempting to assign the markings, the rating officer should have clearly in mind the exact meaning of the service elements to be marked. The definitions have been numbered instead of provided with "key words," in order to focus the attention upon each definition as a whole, rather than upon a single word or phrase. The rating officer should accept each definition literally, and without modification.

4. In assigning the markings to employees in a given class, the rating officer should have in mind reasonable performance standards for the compensation grade in which that class is found. Obviously, where employees are to be marked whose work lies in the same field but in different compensation grades, the standards of performance for the higher grades should be more exacting, except in the first five elements.

5. No part of the definition of element No. 2 refers to the honesty or integrity of the employee. This element has been provided for those cases where a reasonably accurate marking on element No. 1 is not possible.

6. The rating in each element will consist of a check mark (√) placed at that point on the scale which in the rating officer's judgment accurately represents the employee's standing in that element. The check mark need not be placed directly above one of the descriptive terms on the scale, but may be placed at any intermediate point.

7. Check marks should first be made lightly with pencil. After all employees have been marked, comparisons should be made between the markings of different employees, considering them both by class groups and by grades. The pencil markings may then be altered as desirable, and the final markings made in black ink.

8. The markings will refer to the performance of the employee for the year ending May 15. The name of an employee rated on a service of less than 90 days should be followed by the notation "Less than 90 days."

9. The question on deportment which follows the scale should be answered "Yes," "No," or "Fairly so." Any but an affirmative answer to this question should be explained in the space provided above. Rating officers should not allow unsatisfactory conduct to influence their markings, except as it may actually bear upon an employee's standing in some specific service element or elements.

10. All completed Graphic Rating Scales will be signed and dated, and submitted to the reviewing officer.

INSTRUCTIONS TO REVIEWING OFFICERS

1. The reviewing officer will carefully compare the markings assigned by the different rating officers under his supervision, with a view to noting such corrections on the various sheets as may be necessary to secure reasonable uniformity and accuracy in the element markings for the entire group for which he is responsible. This will involve not only the correction of markings in individual cases, but in some instances a general revision upward or downward of the markings assigned by particular rating officers.

2. Corrections made by reviewing officers will be by red-ink check mark (√) on the various element scales. The rating officers' marks will be left undisturbed.

3. After the reviewing officer has reviewed and marked the sheets, he will sign and date all sheets and submit them to the proper board of review.

8—8035 GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE

Of course you have been waiting to see the reverse side of that secret graphic rating scale, the make-or-break system in the scheme of things governmental. Have a look. Notice that X, the unknown quantity, is used for marking purposes. (Check marks are PENCILED in).

A WEEK ago the Federal Diary published its code for Federal employes. We are willing to lend that same code to William Green, president, A. F. of L. and others who plan before long to adopt a code.

The Federal Diary even will add two articles: 1—Elimination of blanketeering. 2—Voluntary 30-year retirement. Then the Federal Diary Code will read:

1—Restoration of Federal employes' basic pay.

2—Abolition of present efficiency rating system (graphic rating scale).

3—Voice for civilian employes to eliminate unfair practices.

4—Restoration of 30-day annual leave.

5—Franchise in the District.

6—Five-day week for all Federal employes without loss of pay.

7—Elimination of blanketeering.

8—Voluntary 30-year retirement.

It's all yours, Mr. Green, as long as you want it.

"They."

The snug, complacent, uncrowned kings of the Federal service. Civil Service Commission employes have read with great pleasure of the success of Howard T. Boyd, Department of Justice employe, who has won the coveted honor of highest ranking student in the second-year class of the Georgetown University Law School, for which he has been awarded $50.

Commission employes were glad yesterday to extend their congratulations to one of their own number, Philip P. Marenberg, who attained second rank in the same class and won $25. Mr. Marenberg is a graduate of New York University, and, before entering the service, was with the New York Morning Telegraph.

Answer to Gen. Johnson.

"Why should I hold a hearing on any code submitted by organized Federal workers?"—Gen. Johnson.

This is why you should hold a hearing.

"Because, a man's sense of social justice would not permit hundreds of men who are working seven days a week to exist on $34.74 a month and forced to pay $37.50 for a flimsy, filthy, crowded and unfurnished room, that are so provided as "allowances in kind" for employes at Mount Alto Hospital and other hospitals of the Veterans' Administration, and, too, because some of those men who are drawing such "sweat-shop" salaries are married and have to support a family which necessitates providing another home besides that which the Government charges for but hasn't provided. Come out and see for yourself."—Signed, Paul H Smith, Attendant, Mount Alto Hospital.

• • • •

"They."

IN order to arrive at some conclusion we will try "They" like a proposition in Euclid. A represents the President. B is Congress. A and B together produce C, Director of Budget and the D—Director of Budget, his assistants and other supervisory officers from E to Y constitute the array against the Government clerk—Z, which stands for zero, completes the alphabet and the score stands 25 against 1, which is the ratio and one that makes "They" so powerful as to be greatly feared

A court of appeal with a chance for the victims to present their side of the matter would be a great help to all. No one person is responsible for any injustice that is done which is like an act of a corporation—an impersonal matter.—WILLIE HOMER.

• • • •

Here is my definition to the word "They" as used in your column:

"They" is a rumor without basis, substance or personality; an oral or written weapon used by some individuals to vent spleen or injury upon those whom they envy or dislike; by others, thoughtlessly, who derive satisfaction or pleasure in circulating stories deprecative to their associates. Rarely used in a commendatory sense.

Briefly, a baseless rumor without an author or responsibility; usually injurious to one or more.—LON A. SCHIMPF, Federal Trade Commission.

The Fish That Kelley Didn't Catch. (At Salt Water Rodeo—Tilghman, Md.)

Nine score of us went fishing—all, upon the salty brine; the sun o'er head was scorching hot, but cooling was the wind, which swept across the Chesapeake, and cooled that brow of mine.

Of all the fishes that were caught there's many a tale been told; saddest of these concern that trout which Kelley could not hold. He reeled it up beside the boat, and shouted: "It's a prize," when all at once it disappeared before his anguished eyes.

Now this is not a whim at all, and who will dare gainsay; "that trout which Kelley almost caught was largest seen that day."

"The Romance of the Merit System," of "Forty-Five Years Reminiscences of the Civil Service," by Matthew F. Halloran, contact representative, U. S. Civil Service Commission, is being circulated in its second edition.

WHAT about those 4,000 employes on the Delete list? When can they expect a final settlement from their 3½ per cent annual payments, the payments they expected some day would be their annuity? (Maybe this question comes under the general heading of "carping" a correspondent recently termed.) What are those 4,000 expected to use for money while waiting for their payment. Sure, the old answer, "We've been pushed and so many names and all. We haven't had a chance to get around to everybody." Looks that this is the time to put on some extra help, some of the very 4,000.

And before long we expect to have an explanation of this "balanced budget" term. This catchy phrase used to explain to Federal employes why they should be singled to "maintain the credit of the United States."

We note a wheel chair has been purchased for the South Building, Agriculture, to care for cases where employes are too ill to walk to the emergency room. And the welfare association provided it.

Marcum Says He Is Broke; Asks Review

Former Assistant Attorney General Seeks Court Contempt Reversal.

A review and reversal of two District Supreme Court orders that held him in contempt of court was asked yesterday by Philip H. Marcum, formerly a special assistant to the Attorney General, in petitions to the court. Marcum filed a pauper petition disclosing that he is without funds.

One order directed Marcum to pay Cyril S. Lawrence and Dwight E. Rorer, who acted as attorneys for Marcum's wife, Mrs. Maria S. Marcum, in divorce litigation, $650 for services. The other ordered him to pay a "suit cost" of $152 entailed by the wife.

Attorney James T. Crouch represented Marcum. Justice Oscar R. Luhring ordered Mrs. Marcum and her two attorneys to appear and show cause why the former contempt citations should not be reversed.

Marcum is also under court order to pay his wife monthly maintenance. The divorce action resulted in a stalemate when the Court of Appeals set aside a limited divorce Mrs. Marcum got in a lower court.

Rinehart, of New York, son of Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, of Washington, well-known novelist, and the late Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart, will take place at Thrushwood, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Grosset, in Greenwich tomorrow.

Many members of the French and Spanish nobility attended. Prince Jaime, second son of Alfonso XIII, acted as his father's representative.

The Infante Jaime of Spain, the Infante Louis of Bavaria-Bourbon, brother of the bridegroom, and the Infante Alfonso of Bourbon-Sicilies, son of the late Infanta Mercedes, a sister of Alfonso XIII, were Don Jose's witnesses. The Duc de Tamames, Comte Mathieu de Lesseps and the Duc de Valencay, godfather of the bride, were her witnesses.

The bride is the daughter of the Count and Countess de Mora, grandees of Spain. After a trip to Italy, the couple will live in Paris.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Pasteurized Milk.

AN old charge that wakes up and looks around from time to time is that heating milk causes that food to lose some of its nutritive qualities. The charge was rampant 25 years ago, but it is heard only occasionally today.

The milk industry in England is about a quarter of a century behind the times, and in consequence the old arguments against heating milk have been taken off the shelf, dusted, and put to work in that country. In spite of being shopworn, creaky, and generally rundown at the heels, they are doing good service with the unsophisticated people of that country.

The Manchester electorate recently defeated a compulsory pasteurization ordinance. Chicago has operated under such an ordinance for 25 years to its very great profit, but Manchester has just heard about it and being conservative, is afraid of the new ways.

Dr. Savage, the leading food authority in Great Britain, has recently written on the subject in an illuminating and authoritative fashion, but what he wrote was without effect in Manchester. Lord Moynihan advocated a parliamentary law along the same lines, but our cousins across the sea want more time to think it over.

W. E. Krauss, of the Ohio experimental station, has been investigating the effects of heating on the nutritive qualities of milk. His conclusions are as follows:

Pasteurization somewhat decreases the content of vitamin C. This is a matter of rather general information and confirmation was not wholly necessary.

It also causes a slight decrease in the content of milk in vitamin B compound. This is somewhat newer.

The effect on the curd of heating to pasteurization temperatures was not finally determined. In most cases it was softer, in some cases it was tougher, in some there was no effect. The point is regarded as of some importance in baby feeding. When milk reaches the human stomach it is at once converted into a meatlike solid called curd. In this form it contains so much lime that considerable stomach acid is used up in neutralization before the stomach pepsin can begin tearing the curd to pieces. If the mass is pretty solid the difficulties are increased.

Boiling milk has several disadvantages, but it offsets most of them by producing a milk which forms a soft curd in the stomach. It appears that pasteurized milk is variable in this particular. Sometimes it forms a curd as soft as that of boiled milk, sometimes one as hard as that of raw milk, and at other times one that lies in between.

Summing it all up, the harm done milk by pasteurization is trivial. It can be remedied by feeding a little fruit juice in the milk, or given separately. On the other hand the advantages are great enough to offset the disadvantages a hundred or a thousand times.

Chewing Rubber.

G. P. writes: I think I have the world's prize dumb addiction. I chew rubber—bands, erasers, &c. I think I have had this habit for about 25 years, and although I have tried to overcome it I am unable to do so.

1. What is there in the composition of rubber that I crave?

2. What is wrong with me that I should have such a craving?

3. Is there anything I can do, or anything I can eat, that will help.

4. What are the results of this habit? For the last several years I have bought rubber bands by the bundle, and I chew them until there is no more substance left in them. This is no joke.

Reply.

1. Nothing.

2. Nothing serious. You probably started it as something of a pose. Perhaps you continued it for a while on that basis. It is now something of a habit.

3. You can break this habit in the way other bad habits are broken. Diet will make no difference.

4. There are none of consequence.

Light Opening Bids.

IT has always been my belief that minimum hands should be opened at the Contract table in either the first or second position, whereas, after previous passes, players either Third or Fourth Hand should not open without slightly stronger hands. This rule is modified to a certain extent as applied to the third position by the advisability of establishing the bidding defense against a possible strong hand held by the player who has yet to speak. For example, I should advise opening the bidding Third Hand, after two passes, with some such holding as and with practically nothing else in the hand.

Spades A K Q x x x

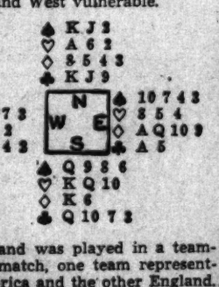
Some Bridge players recently adopted the plan of passing light Opening bids First and Second Hand and opening on busts as Third and Fourth hand. This policy against good players in the long run is bound to prove a losing one. In some cases it even pays to shade the requirements for an Opening bid. However, this should not go too far.

In the days of a former international match, I was able to make a game on one hand by reason of a light Opening bid, which, where the British players sat North and South, was not made. The hand was:

East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The hand was played in a team-of-four match, one team representing America and the other England. In Room 1, where I played South and Mr. Theodore A. Lightner North, the bidding went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1NT (1)	Pass	3NT (2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—While South's hand is not of commanding strength, it is, in my opinion, too strong to pass. It contains 2½ plus honor-tricks. North and South are not vulnerable, and East and West are.

2—North has a balanced distribution and 3 honor-tricks. Perhaps current usage would suggest a bid of only two notrump. However, even if this were the bid and South then passed a valuable part-score would be made, compared with the blank score made by the players who failed to bid at all.

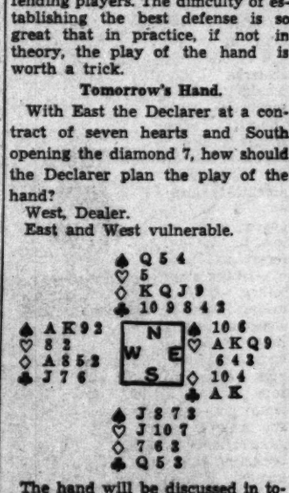
In the other room, two representatives of England were seated North and South, and the hand was passed by all players. East, of course, did not have a sound Opening bid vulnerable, as the hand contains only 2½ honor-tricks and extremely unfavorable distribution.

The contract of three notrump on this hand could be beaten with an Opening diamond lead, as East and West must in that event make 3 diamond tricks, the Ace of clubs and Ace of spades. However, in Bridge it will rarely be found that every possible trick is taken by the defending players. The difficulty of establishing the best defense is so great that in practice, if not in theory, the play of the hand is worth a trick.

Tomorrow's Hand.

With East the Declarer at a contract of seven hearts and South opening the diamond 7, how should the Declarer plan the play of the hand?

West, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Picnic on the Lake Shore

By Mary Brook Lucas

"Of course, those youngsters will be starved after a couple of hours romping in this invigorating air," muses Mother, as she prepares to spread the picnic lunch. Her white boucle suit with the lacy knit sweater blouse is ideal for lazy days as well as for strenuous afternoons of golf.

"Oh, boy, am I hungry?" shouts Little Brother. "Yum-yum—may I have a sandwich now?" He wears a navy-blue and white backless suit top with plain jersey shorts. "See me ride a sea lion?" asks Sister. "We can't get in deep water!" Her red and white wool knit suit is a very brief affair.

Cotton jersey sweaters in gay stripes are comfy as well as chic with gabardine slacks. These are cut to fit very snugly around the waist. "Half-and-half" bathing suits are seen in a number of color variations. One of the smartest of surplice suits is done in white silk jersey.

Judy, too, prefers this sleek silk knit material in a gay plaid combining red, pale-blue, yellow and black. The over-skirt tops a pair of black silk jersey trunks. This suit also features the uplift line at the bodice. "Yoo-hoo, Mother! When do we eat? How about that chocolate cake?"

Face Powder At Last Gives Snow Feeling

By the Meanderer.

It was a cold wintry evening. A powder manufacturer sat dozing in his easy chair by the fireplace. The glowing coals dimly lighted the room. Outside, the snow was falling fast. Flurries of it blew against the windows. The powder manufacturer awoke with a start. He reached for the telephone. His eyes were glowing with excitement. "Hello," he said to his chemist, "come over here at once. Bother the storm!"

All night the two men talked. The sun was well over head when the chemist left the house. "I'll do it!" he told the powder manufacturer.

And he did it. He made a powder which combines the coolness and the softness of the snow, an icy talcum powder. The hot, sticky aftermath of a morning's shopping may be instantly attended to with a deluge of this summer snow.

Further provision for the uncomfortable warmth of midsummer days has been made by the designers of dainty underthings. A white pique dance set, including a pair of shorts, a pair of briefs and a brassiere to match are the personification of coolness. Their fit is such that even the most clinging dress would be marred in no way by bulky wrinkles. These pieces may be bought separately or together.

Weep no more, my lady! See this—a puzzle basket which enables you to gratify your puzzle urge while you attend to a household task. When flowers vex you with their refusal to stand in a bowl, or lean forward in a vase, arrange them in the puzzle basket. Woven in loose sections of steel wire, it may be bent into 27 different shapes to fit tall vases or flat bowls. It holds long or short stemmed flowers with equal facility. Price, 50 cents.

The Meanderer bought a cooking book which has the secret of eternal youth. It was published in 1896, and up to the present time has run through 17 editions. New recipes have been added from year to year. Now it contains 3,059 of them, which cover our grandmothers' favorite as well as our own. The book gives many time-saving methods of cooking, treats fully of vitamins, their values and sources. And is it convenient! When you can't seem to plan a meal, cease worrying and consult this cooking book. Price, $2.50.

Choosing appropriate gifts is as much of an art as dancing on the tips of one's toes. Some one often remarks: "I liked it, so I knew you would." And some one often thinks: "Why should I like it because you do?" The truly acceptable present is always chosen with an eye to the interest and hobbies of the other fellow. If your husband, son or sweetheart is a lover of horses, of hunting, would you let the first pink tie, or handsome embroidered robe which strikes your fancy tempt you away from, say, a set of sportsman's books? An F street store offers remarkable values in books of this type. They are of highest grade print, beautifully bound and priced anywhere from $2.50 to $100.

A piece of Oriental furniture properly used is always charming. For instance, a Japanese tray table. On your terrace or in the garden it will be lovely for small informal tea gatherings. If a sudden rain storm precipitates a hurried flight, pick up your table and walk. Its exceeding lightness enables you to carry it with perfect ease. Price, $1.95.

Open your doors to a wise old owl, and he'll open your bottles for you. His oxidized metal plumage gives him a look of age and experience. Place him on your table or in your pocket, he's an owl for all occasions. Night or day, he's ready for service. Some little bottle opener, this little owl! Price $1.00.

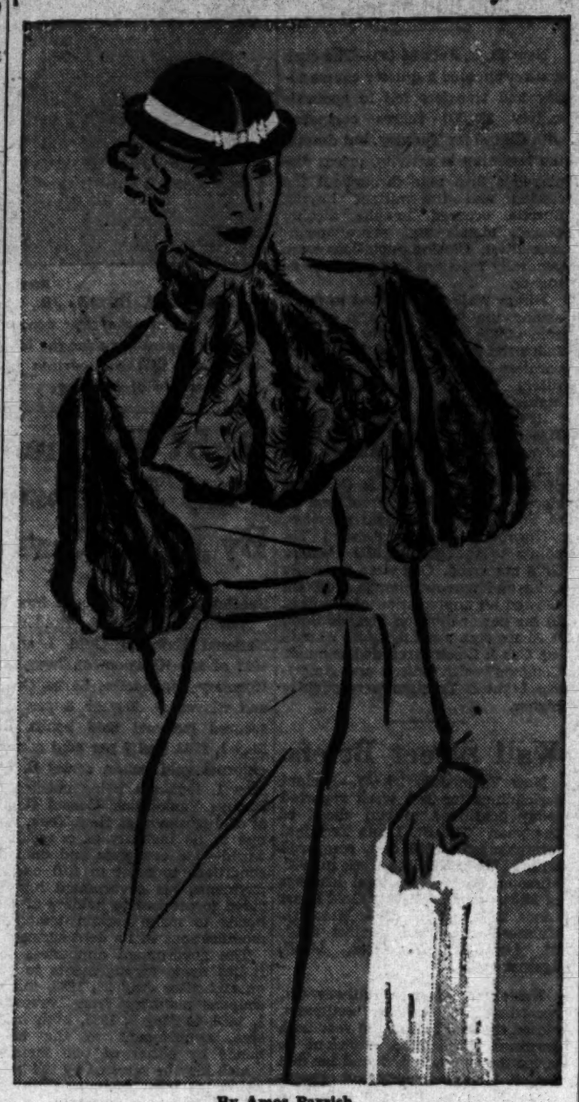
Collars and Sleeves on New Fur Coats Have Learned Many a New Trick



By Amos Parrish.

New York, July 26.—One of these cool days that keep surprising us in the middle of summer, you'll probably want to have a look at the early showings of next winter's coats. And in case you have an attack of thrift and buy one, you'll need to be all primed on what's smartest.

Next winter's dress coat should follow the natural lines of your figure, not snugly, but easily. Very likely you'll want it belted . . . hips slim and skirt straight. With shoulders pulling you up—up—up! As if they were playing the baby game of so-o big with your height.

Yes, shoulders are getting skyscraper ideas. Fur epaulettes and collarettes . . . drop yokes and padding and sleeves built up beyond the shoulder seams. Everything you can think of to give a high and wide, but neat rather than topheavy look.

To get this fashionable look, fur collars have learned many new tricks and sleeves are doing original things up above the elbows. The coat sketched gives you some idea—scarf collar spreading out high and wide, with flat bands of fur widening the sleeves.

Shawl collars of fox stand a-tiptoe on shoulders, and are often bolstered up even further with high-placed fur on the tops of sleeves. Square shawls don't reach down to belts, but end well above.

Flat Persian and caracul capelets take square sailor lines wide and high on the shoulders. Mink and kolinsky plastrons form triangles, wide at the top, tapering toward the belt. Flat furs edge high collars, make little handles on sleeve tops. All these are new height-givers.

Fabrics Nubby or Smooth.

As for materials—those good, practical crepey ones are going to be worn in new granular and ribbed weaves. And boucles with very flat, tight loops, often woven in ribbed effects. Though many women will swing back to smooth, rich surfaces again . . . broadcloths and suede fabrics.

They'll keep black as their favorite color. Followed by brown in a clear, dark shade, in cocoa, or a new reddish kind. Grays will have a more taupey cast than the spring shades . . . and that means they'll be even easier to wear. And women who feel like putting on some color will glow in burgundy and deep clear greens.

So now you're set. New tip-top fur trimmings giving you a high, wide, neat effect. Sleeves fulled in new ways above the elbows and snug near the wrists. An easy-fitting, natural silhouette falling to a slim, straight skirt. That's the picture to keep in mind as you see yourself in these slick winter coats that somehow make you feel less sorry that summer's slipping by.

German Dishes Bring Out Full Joys of Beer

Brew and Wine Rarely Are Served in Same Restaurants Abroad.

And now that happy days are here again—if you're not happy, maybe you're not making proper use of your new legal rights.

Let us see what they do with beer in the land where beer means "bretzels," and bretzels mean more beer—in Germany. There are probably no eating houses in the world which for picturesqueness can compare with the rathskellers and essig-hauses of Germany, where Bavarian schnitzels are seasoned with Beethoven and Wagner, and where beer means hospitality and good cheer. A favorite quatrain, on the beer mats of German inns, translated, reads thus:

Is gray old Reason's song,
One has so little time to live
And one is dead so long."

Perhaps one reason Germans can enjoy their beer more than Americans do is because they are more discriminating about it. Realizing, for example, that beer and wine should never mix, they draw a line between restaurants which serve wine and those which serve beer. The wine restaurants are chic, but expensive, so in Germany, one does one's really serious eating and drinking in the beer houses. There, between 12 and 1 o'clock, are generous meals of soup, meat and vegetables and dessert, while later in the evening one goes to a wine restaurant for sandwiches, lighter foods and entertainment.

Perhaps the best explanation of the charm of beer-drinking in Germany is the fact that the Germans eat the proper foods with their beer. Go into an inn where mugs of beer are slid across the bare table—it may be helles, light beer, or dunkel, which is dark beer—and you will find great slices of dark bread, mysterious species of sausages, slabs of home-smoked ham with hard-boiled eggs, and enormous pfannkuchen, which are a cross betwen an omelet and a pancake. Or go, if you prefer, to one of the famous hotels of Heidelberg when the fruit blossoms are in bloom and the nearly full May moon shines on the Neckar. You will find viands more rare, and cheese which boasts of greater vintage, but there, too, you will find that the foods that are served with beer are substantial foods that have a certain spice and tang.

Come in Cans.

One doesn't need to go to Germany, however, to get these foods. Many of them come in cans—inexpensive foods which our own grocers carry—and these can be kept always available on the pantry shelf. Here are some recipes for foods to go with beer:

Sauerkraut, sausage and apples—Heat the contents of one 1-pound can of sauerkraut and pile in the center of a large hot platter. Fry 1 pound of sausages (or the contents of a 9-ounce can of Vienna sausages) and arrange on top of the kraut. Around the edges place the apples. They are prepared by coring and paring six small apples and cooking them in a syrup made by boiling one cup sugar and one and one-half cups water, and a few red cinnamon candies together. Turn the apples around often, so they cook and color evenly on all sides. Let them cook tender, but not so long that they lose their shape. This serves six persons.

What Today Means

"Leo."

IF July 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:45 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and from 5:50 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., from 12:40 p. m. to 1:10 p. m., and from 9:45 p. m. to 10:45 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will quite likely tend to prove disturbing to aged people. They will feel depressed and not at all themselves. You will possibly encounter difficulties in business, difficulties arising from the pettiness of stubborness of another. Do not seek to "put yourself across" to those of the opposite sex, for chances of success will operate against you.

The child born on this July 27 will probably be a very soft-hearted little one who will suffer greatly from viewing the suffering and hardships that others must endure. You will find him to be tender, loving and kind. He will have many ideals that he will try to live up to. Contact with the worldliest of the wordly will not cause him to drop these ideals.

If July 27 is the date of your birth, you are probably used to having your own way about a good many things. People are inclined to give way to you and to step aside and give you the right of way because of a rather impressive and commanding presence. You are a speaker of no mean ability. You must take care not to force yourself on people and not to monopolize the conservation. You would seem to be a person who will very definitely establish himself in some line of work. You will probably find it more simple to climb to a place of importance and leadership, than to maintain that position once you have attained it. You are pretty much of a bluff, and if you are not careful you will bluff yourself further along than is wise, and at the crucial time fail to live up to all that you have lead others to expect of you. A business career of some sort would seem to suit you best, although it is not at all improbable that you will enter one of the professions.

Born on July 27, you have a nature that has great emotional depths. You are easily affected by the tragedies and sordid aspects of life. You are kind to those who are down and out and if you are not careful, your sympathies will be played upon to your own serious detriment.

Successful people born on July 27:
George Foster Peabody, banker.
Theodore B. Comstock, geologist.
Eben N. Horsford, chemist.
Thomas L. Clingman, soldier, senator, scientist.
Thomas Say, naturalist.
Herman Knickerbocker, lawyer.

Ground Meat Will Give Wife More Leisure

Minimum Time in Kitchen Required by Several Beef Menus.

It is a splendid idea to plan summer menus around meat dishes which may be quickly and easily cooked or which may be prepared ahead of time. This is an advantage when everyone likes to be out of doors as much as possible. Minimum time is required in the kitchen for dishes of this sort.

Meats which are quickly cooked include the steaks and chops and ground meat, either beef, pork, or lamb. Ground meat is classed in this group because the long tissues which ordinarily must be softened in cooking are broken in the grinding process, and so very little cooking is needed to make it tender. Inez S. Willson, home economist, suggests ways of preparing ground meat in a hurry.

Planked Ground Beef.

Season 2 pounds of ground beef with salt, pepper, minced onion and Worcestershire sauce; bind all together with one egg beaten into ½-cup of milk. Form into a thick steak and cook for 15 minutes in a hot frying pan, turning once during cooking. When nicely browned, remove steak carefully to avoid breaking to the center of a hot plank. Pipe a border of mashed potatoes around the edge of the plank. Arrange around the steak small cooked carrots and small white onions, which have been boiled until tender and a little of the center scooped out and filled with buttered crumbs. Season all with salt, pepper and butter and put in the oven for 10 or 15 minutes until the steak is cooked and the potatoes are nicely browned.

Broiled Lamb Patties.

1 pound ground lamb
6 slices pineapple
3 tablespoons butter
⅛ teaspoon celery salt
Flour
Salt and pepper

Season the ground beef with salt, pepper, and celery salt, and form into cakes about 2½ inches in diameter. Place a slice of bacon around each and fasten with a small skewer or toothpick. (Cut points in top edge of bacon slices, if desired.) Place on a broiler rack about three inches from the flame and have the regulator set for 350 degree Fahrenheit. Broil about 10 minutes. Dip the slices of pineapple into flour and brown in butter until a golden brown. Arrange on a plater, putting a meat cake on each slice.

Dinner Table Is Too Often A Battlefield

Jaded Appetites Will Be Aided by Making Meal Special Function.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

There is a very close relationship between good digestion and good humor, and a merry table is far better than digestive pills.

The average family meal is too apt to become a battleground where old quarrels are renewed and grievances aired; or it may serve as a clearing house for gossip, or as a forum where father holds out on business or mother on household worries, or the children on school events or "dates."

We all know these kinds of family meals; indeed, they occur occasionally in every family. From such gatherings children and parents alike, hurry away with relief as soon as the meal is over, and I suspect do not get the full value of the food they have eaten.

Among many primitive peoples every meal is a sacrifice and the father is the priest. I think that a little of that festal spirit applied to meals today would help us all.

True, the American breakfast is a hurried affair, with the father going to work and the children to school, and luncheon is nearly as bad, with everyone rushing in for a hurried bite, or else no one but the mother eating at home. But dinner might be made a special function to which each could contribute at least a pleasant face and an interest in someone besides himself.

Instead of each child's demanding a hearing, let him realize that others wish to talk also, and that if he wants to speak he must be interesting and not too long-winded, and must grant others the same privilege.

If all looked forward to meal time for an interesting and open-minded discussion of many things, for a feeling of relaxation and gaiety, it would certainly become an aid to digestion and a pleasure in retrospect as well as in anticipation.

Chutney.

2 lbs. peeled mangoes in small pieces
2 pints vinegar or ½ pint grapefruit juice and
½ pint vinegar
1 pound currants
2 pounds spiced grapes (if currants are omitted)
½ pound blanched almonds
6 ounces green ginger
1½ pound brown sugar
2 tablespoons salt
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup sweet peppers
2 oz. chili or hot peppers

To vinegar add sugar and bring to boil. Add spices, chopped vegetables, mangoes, nuts, grapes and salt. Bring to boil and boil for 30 minutes. Pack while at boiling point in sterilized jars. Seal. (Mangoes just beginning to color are best selected.)

Bing Crosby, With New Baby, Fears Reports of Kidnaping.

Los Angeles, July 26 (AP). Bing Crosby, the singer with the husky voice, has been granted permission by the police department to employ a bodyguard with a special officer's badge to protect his wife and new baby at their Hollywood home from possible kidnapers.

Crosby said he was alarmed by reports of kidnapings in the East and Midwest.

Husband Loses Auto; Wife Would Lose Him

William, she complained, always pawned all his clothes so he wouldn't be forced to go search for work. He stayed in the house almost all day long while she worked, but he refused to do the housework. He pawned her rings and "lost" a motor car she bought, forcing her to spend $24 getting it back, with no explanation from William how the car disappeared. They were married in Reno in 1912.

Wife, Suing Menjou, Asks $600,000 Property

Los Angeles, July 26 (AP).—A complaint charging extreme cruelty and asking a divorce from Adolph Menjou, film actor, was filed today by Kathryn Carver, former actress and model, as the climax to a series of separations and reconciliations which have occurred since their marriage at Paris in May, 1928.

Miss Carver asked that she be awarded all of their community property, valued by her at $600,000.

Woodhouse, 1607 Monroe street, yesterday sued Maizel for $25,000 damages. Attorney Ringgold Hart filed the action.

Vitamin Needs Simple, Claims Food Authority

Any Well Balanced Menu Contains Required Amount.

There's no need for any homemaker to worry about vitamins, according to the science staff of the new National Encyclopedia. As far as the average American home is concerned, pretty nearly any sort of a well balanced diet program is bound to contain vitamins aplenty for everybody's needs.

"The so-called normal diet is a simple one," comments Prof. Solomon Strouse, the encyclopedia's chief expert on this subject. "It might be defined as a palatable mixture of common foodstuffs. In fact, it is the typical diet of normal folk under normal conditions. It will naturally contain foods rich in vitamins, namely, fresh fruits, whole cereals, raw vegetables and dairy products.

"It also will supply an adequate amount of protein and mineral salts, and will meet the average daily fuel requirement.

"If you must be specific, however, here's a fair rule of thumb: All your nutritional needs will be met if you will plan your daily diet to include one quarb of milk a day, two fresh salads, two servings of leafy green vegetables, one serving of meat, and liberal quantities of butter, fruit, cereals, bread and water.

"All this talk about vitamins, you know, is only 20 years old. Casimir Funk first used the term in 1911. The subject is still an unfinished chapter in food research.

"In times when the nutritional needs of a large group of people suffer, because of poverty or a disturbance in the food supply, evidences of ill health occur which apparently can be traced to the lack of something in the diet. This deficiency is not necessarily in vitamins, as lack of proper balance of the other food elements also causes nutritional disturbance. But people who are eating a normal, varied, satisfying diet, needn't worry their heads about the vitamin question."

Freedom.

By Katherine Smith.

Last night I took a little spade
And, feeling very brave,
I crept into a thick, dark wood
And dug a grave.

The night owl watched me while I made
A grave both deep and wide,
And when I'd finished it, I laid
My love inside.

I once was sad and sorrowful,
And many tears I shed,
But now I laugh with joy because
My love is dead.

Wheat Jumps On Reports of Canadian Loss

Prices Soar 6 Cents Above Tuesday's Level; Rye Joins Climb.

Chicago, July 26 (AP).—Electrified by authoritative reports that Canada's 1933 wheat yield had been dwarfed almost half by crop damage, bread grains today jumped 6 and 7 cents a bushel.

Contributing to the new soaring of values was general assurance that distress selling of big speculative holdings of grain had been completed, and that the markets were once more in shape to respond to natural supply and demand conditions. A new tide of buying orders swept in the trading pits as soon as business commenced, and with no let-up reached its greatest momentum just at the finish.

Latest trustworthy appraisals were that the Canadian prairie provinces this season would produce only 250,000,000 bushels of wheat or less, compared with 408,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Wheat Closes Buoyant.

Wheat and rye closed buoyant at the day's topmost point, wheat 5¼ to 6 cents above yesterday's finish; rye, at 6¼ to 7 cents gain; corn, 3⅜ to 5 cents up; oats, 3⅞ to 4⅛ advanced, and provisions at a rise of 25 to 45 cents.

From the outset, the wheat market was strongly influenced by word that a destructive new heat wave had enveloped the spring crop region both north and south of the Canadian border. Adding to the market effect of this buying stimulus were official Canadian advices telling of wheat crops blighted irreparably over a widespread territory.

Fresh speculative purchasing took on broad proportions as prices mounted fast, with rye outdoing wheat, and in the end going up almost the full limit allowed for a single day, 8 cents.

Wheat Futures Soar.

Before the last gong had sounded, two of the four active future deliveries of wheat had soared far above the dollar-a-bushel landmark, a third delivery was within ¼ of a cent of touching $1, and the remaining delivery was up 6⅝ cents over the 90-cent bottom level to which wheat was plunged in recent wild fluctuations. Throughout the day, reactions in prices were slight and transient, with profit-taking on a big scale but readily absorbed. There was at no time any evidence of important new liquidation.

Corn and oats rose the full limit allowed under emergency rules. In addition to the influence of wheat action, persistent dry weather made the corn crop outlook precarious east of the Mississippi. Oats crop news was sensationally adverse.

Provisions reflected the upward sweep of hog values and of cereals.

Railways Dispose Of K. C. S. Stock

Kansas City, July 26 (AP).—The Chicago Great Western and the Fort Dodge Railroad Companies have disposed of their interest in 104,500 shares of common stock of the Kansas City Southern Railway. This was disclosed here by Patrick H. Joyce, president of the Chicago Great Western, who passed through here on an inspection tour. He also announced the Chicago Great Western has retired its short term notes due October 7, 1933, amounting to $3,175,200.

A note issue of that size was part of the Kansas City Southern stock purchase deal in October of 1931, when the Van Sweringen holdings of 104,500 shares went to the Chicago Great Western. Mr. Joyce said he was not authorized to indicate into whose hands the 104,500 shares had passed.

"I bought the shares as an investment," he said "We never had any intention of gaining control of the Kansas City Southern. With the changed outlook in the railroad business this summer we had a good chance to sell them. I won't say how much we made on the deal, but we made money."

Foreign Markets.

London—Prices in most sections on the stock exchange, including transatlantic issues, eased during the afternoon session owing to profit-taking and lack of support. Argentine bonds were weak. The market closed easy.

Paris—Following the hesitancy in Wall street, prices on the bourse were unsettled today. Operators are lightening their positions day by day, causing a heavy tendency. Trading was inactive and the closing was irregular.

Bond Market Records Gains In Spotty Sales

Trading Activity Is at Low Ebb as Trading Drops to $8,959,000.

New York, July 26 (AP).—The bond market was a bit spotty today, but a final tabulation of advances and declines showed the former were well in the lead.

Trading activity was at a rather low ebb, with sales totaling only $8,959,000 par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues, however, edged up three-tenths of a point.

A number of low-priced railroad liens responded to optimistic June earnings reports, which disclosed that freight revenues were running at their best rate since 1929. Gainers in this division of 1 to 3 or more points included some bonds of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, Burlington, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Seaboard Airline, Southern Pacific, Wabash and Western Pacific.

Among the better utilities and industrials, up a point or more, were issues of American & Foreign Power, Armour & Co., International Telephone, McKesson, Postal Telegraph, Public Service, Studebaker, Vanadium and Warner Bros.

Another relapse of Argentine obligations was a deterrent to progress in the foreign division. Most of the Argentines recorded losses of 4 to around 12 points. The weakness of these loans was attributed partly to fears that the republic would adopt an inflationary program. It was also believed, in some banking quarters, that while interest on outstanding Argentine dollar bonds probably would be continued, sinking fund payments might be suspended temporarily. Japanese, Swiss and British loans were rather heavy.

United State Government securities were quiet and a trifle lower.

Doherty Ends Sale Of Cities Service

New York, July 26 (AP).—Henry L. Doherty & Co. announced today that it was discontinuing sale directly to the public of securities of Cities Service Co. and the latter's subsidiaries, and will handle only securities of corporations with which it has no connection.

This change, effective at the close of business today, was made, officials of the company said, "in compliance with what they interpret the intent and spirit of the securities act to be, namely, that the sale of securities to the public should be handled by those engaged in that single line of activity, with no interest in the issuing company which might influence their recommendations."

Henry L. Doherty & Co. has been distributing securities of Cities Service and predecessor companies for more than 25 years.

Goods Markets.

New York, July 26 (A.P.).—Trade is opening up a little in cotton goods, but merchants are still unable to quote freely until readjustments of contracts have been made under the new code. Rayon prices in the viscose field are to be advanced by the leaders in the industry. Silk goods are quieter. Little is being done in wool goods as the industry's code is now undergoing examination at Washington. Burlaps are firm.

Stocks Resume Climb With Lighter Trading

Advance Is Most Pronounced in Industrial Group; Gains Average 2.1 Points; Sales Volume Decreases to 2,044,262 Shares.

The rise was most pronounced in the industrial category which, including the enthusiastic metal and repeal issues, finished with gains of around 1 to 6 points. Rails were quieter and some utilities failed to get very far. Wheat had a good day, up some 5 to 6 cents, while cotton and bonds improved.

Shares went through considerable irregularity in the first hour and then entered a period of intermittent rallies as specialty equities poked higher. Advances became more general later, finally overcoming the opposition to such an extent that the close was fairly strong.

Celanese, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, Case, Western Union, Cerro De Pasco, Commercial Solvents, McIntyre Porcupine and Alaska Juneau rose 3 to 5 points. U. S. Smelting, with a gain of 6⅝ and Homestake Mining, up 31 in its usual small volume, were other outstanding leaders. Chrysler and General Motors gave strong representation to the motor companies which appear to have had most satisfactory second quarters. Rails looked rather indifferent, perhaps because some traders thought the carloadings figures for last week were less striking in comparison with the previous week. U. S. Steel issues closed with small losses. Sales totaled 2,044,262 shares, against 3,539,140 yesterday.

Rubber stocks, though quiet, reflected the new increase in tire prices. The rise, 10 per cent, was the third advance since May 1 and resulted, manufacturers explained, from mounting costs of production, including the processing tax which becomes effective August 1, and the higher raw material prices.

Wall street rumor has it that the Treasury next month may try an issue of long-term bonds, perhaps of 8 to 10 years maturity. The Government's obligations falling due next month are fairly light, which leads some bankers to believe that such a flotation may be attempted for at least part of the funds desired, totaling about $470,000,000 in maturing certificates as well as a few short-term bill issues.

Meanwhile, trade gains are less pronounced in certain lines, while in others there are signs of the seasonal slackening so long overdue. Steel production this week, Iron Age estimates, is down to 57 per cent of capacity from 56, but the review sees compensation for this slight sag in the virility of scrap markets which, it believes, may be anticipating a fall rebound.

Financial Experts Rate Home Loan Bonds High

Columbia, S. C., July 26 (AP).—Bonds of the Home Owners Loan Corporation have been rated highly by financial experts and will offer an excellent investment, W. F. Stevenson, chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, today told the South Carolina Bankers Association.

Stevenson pointed out the bonds, some $250,000,000 of which are now being printed, are guaranteed by the Government as to interest for 18 years, are tax exempt and are secured by all the assets of the corporation.

Curb's Prices Turn Firmer In Quiet Sales

Buying Flurries Aid Rise of Groups; Turnover, 380,000 Shares.

New York, July 26 (AP).—The curb market pursued a quieter course today and transfers fell to approximately 380,000 shares compared with 588,000 for Tuesday, but despite the lessening in activity, prices displayed a firm tone throughout the session and intermittent buying flurries occured in the alcohol shares, metals and miscellaneous specialties. Closing quotations were generally fractions to 2 points or so higher.

Hiram Walker continued in favor among the "wets" with a closing gain of 2½ points, while Canadian Industrial Alcohol B, Distillers Corporation-Seagrave & Schenley Distillers finished around 2 points higher.

In the industrial category General Tire & Rubber staged an 8½ point advance and Jones & Laughlin rose 5 in a small turnover. Aluminum Co. of America and Swift & Co. were steady. Parker Rust Proof and A. O. Smith sagged on light offerings.

Newmont Mining finished 3¾ points to the good, while Pioneer Gold improved. Oils were generally quiet and narrow, though Gulf Oil showed an appreciation of 2 points. In the power division Electric Bond & Share rose a point, while American Gas & Electric receded as much, Commonwealth Edison and American Light & Traction were slightly higher.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, July 26 (AP).—Freight carloadings for last week reported today continued to run ahead of last year. The St. Louis Terminal interchanged 33,830 cars, compared with 28,758 in the like week in 1932. Missouri Pacific had total loadings of 22,368, against 19,003; Gulf Coast Lines, 3,102, against 2,505; Missouri-Kansas-Texas, 6,830, against 6,701; St. Louis-San Francisco, 11,897, against 11,288.

Norfolk & Western Railway Co., according to current estimates, closed the first half of the year with earnings more than sufficient to cover the common dividend for that period. Net income after all charges was placed at the equivalent of $4.75 a share, compared with $3.50 a share earned in the first half of 1932. The present common dividend rate is $8 annually.

The weekly food index of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., dropped to $1.99 as of July 15 from $2.08 the week before. The decline was attributed by the agency to the drastic liquidation in speculative commodities during the latter half of last week.

Bookings of structural steel for fabrication increased in June approximately 95 per cent over May, but the average during the second quarter was below the first quarter, the American Institute of Steel Construction reported today. Second-quarter shipments were about 15 per cent above those of the first quarter and approximately 8 per cent below the same period last year.

Ralph H. Watson, vice president in charge of operations of the Carnegie Steel Co., has been promoted to the post of vice president in charge of operations of the manufacturing interests of the United States Steel Corporation, it was announced today.

The Iron Age composite price of heavy melting steel scrap has risen from $11.58 to $12.08 a gross ton. There have been advances of $1 at Philadelphia and 50 cents at Pittsburgh. The publication's other composite quotations are unchanged, at $15.90 a gross ton for pig iron and 1.973 cents a pound for finished steel.

V. D. Skipworth, formerly vice president of Adolph Gobel, Inc., has been elected president of the company, succeeding Henry L. Bateman, who has resigned.

Deposits of St. Paul & Kansas City Short Line Railroad Co. first mortgage bonds, due in 1941, and Rock Island, Arkansas & Louisiana Railroad first mortgage 4½s, due in 1934, are being solicited by the protective committee headed by James G. Blaine, president of the Marine Midland Trust Co. The bonds are guaranteed by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co., which is in process of reorganization.

Commodity Mart Drops Crawford

New York, July 26 (AP).—Edward A. Crawford, and the commission firm of E. A. Crawford & Co., which he heads, were suspended today from membership in Commodity Exchange, Inc., for failure to meet their obligations.

On Monday Crawford was dropped by the Chicago Board of Trade, also because of failure to meet his obligations. His firm still holds an active membership in the New York Cotton Exchange.

Crawford flashed into sudden prominence during the last few months by reason of his spectacular operations in grains and other commodities. Wall street gossip credited him with holding an enormous line of wheat when trading in the commodity was suspended last week following a wide-open break in prices.

Debt Payment Plan Proposed By Jugoslavia

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 26.—Holders of National External Gold Loan of 1922 of the Kingdom of Jugoslavia (formery Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes) 40-year 8 per cent secured external gold bonds, due May 1, 1962, and 7 per cent secured external gold bonds, series B, due May 1, 1962, are being notified by Radoye Yankovitch, Consul General of Jugoslavia at New York, that, due to its inability as a result of world-wide economic and financial conditions to meet in full current payments, his government has decided to propose to holders of such bonds to make certain temporary modifications in its debt service.

The government announces that it has made arrangements to pay, on and after July 24, 1933, the six coupons maturing from November 1, 1932, to May 1, 1935, both inclusive, appurtenant to the above bonds by either of two methods, which may be selected by the bondholder at his option, as follows:

"(A) Such coupons will be paid in dinars, at the rate of 56.78 dinars for each dollar, at the office of the State Mortgage Bank of Jugoslavia in Belgrade, Jugoslavia, during a period of six months after their respective maturity dates, except that in case of coupons which have heretofore matured, the same will be so paid in dinars at any time on or before January 24, 1934. The disposal of the dinars so receivable will be subject to the applicable legislative or regulatory restrictions of the Kingdom of Jugoslavia from time to time in force regarding transactions in moneys and foreign exchange. Information regarding the restrictions from time to time imposed upon the use of such dinars may be obtained from the Consul General.

"(b) Such coupons will be paid at the principal office of the National City Bank of New York, or at the principal office of the Chase National Bank of the City of New York, in New York, to the extent of 10 per cent of the face amount thereof in United States dollars and the balance thereof in 5 per cent. Funding bonds (or fractional certificates therefor) of the Government, due November 1, 1956, and bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from the respective maturity dates of the coupons exchanged therefor, except that, in the case of the November 1, 1932, coupons appurtenant to the 8 per cent bonds, no such partial payment in cash will be made as there was announced on July 17, 1933, a partial payment on such coupons at the rate of $7 for each coupon appurtenant to a $1,000 bond, $3.50 for each coupon appurtenant to a $500 bond and 70 cents for each coupon appurtenant to a $100 bond.

* * * *

All such coupons are now exchangeable for such partial payments in dollars and funding bonds, or for funding bonds, as the case may be, and may be exchanged at one time or separately, from time to time, except that upon exchange of any unmatured coupon for partial payment and funding bonds, in lieu of the above mentioned 10 per cent payment in cash, there will be delivered to the holder a note of the Government, secured by such surrendered coupon, calling for such partial payment on the maturity date of the coupon exchanged.

"Exchanges of coupon for partial payments and funding bonds will be made at the office of the National City Bank of New York, 22 William street, New York, or at the ofice of the Chase National Bank of the City of New York, 11 Broad street, New York."

Trade Trends Swing Upward, Survey Shows

Investor Syndicate Reports Public's Balance Sheet Is Improving.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

With every index figure but one showing an encouraging trend, Investors Syndicate, with local offices, in its regular consumers' study for June, reports that the balance sheet of the public is straightening itself out in heartening fashion.

Wage totals are showing a definite upturn, the index recording a gain for June above May of more than 10 per cent, a remarkable advance for this particular survey. Furthermore, pay rolls are just short of 10 per cent ahead of the corresponding month of last year.

However, cost of living, while a fraction of 1 per cent ahead of the preceding month, was 7.5 per cent under the corresponding month of 1932. This comparison is of particular importance, Investors Syndicate believes, as it shows that purchasing power is advancing faster than prices to the ultimate consumer.

Retail Buying Lags.

Retail buying has not been and is not yet satisfactory, however. This is the only drawback in the situation which shows auto buying and home buying among other indices in splendid gains both over June of 1932 and May of this year.

Net profits of American Ice Co. for the second quarter ending June 30, were $420,418, comparing with $341,634 for this period last year.

The company's improved current position is reflected in current assets as of June 30, $3,496,125 and current liabilities of $2,055,918, comparing with current assets a year ago of $3,754,500 and current liabilities of $3,800,477. Bank loans amounted to $700,000 compared with $1,900,000 a year ago. Cash item was $808,686 compared with $713,495 last year.

Business Machines' Net.

For the six months ended June 30, International Business Machines Corporation reported net earnings, including those from foreign subsidiaries, of $2,902,012, after deducting bond interest, reserves, depreciation and estimated Federal taxes, equivalent to $4.12 a share on 703,345 no-par capital shares now outstanding.

This compares with similar net earnings of $3,542,117 reported for the first six months of 1932, or $5.03 a share on the same number of shares.

Announcing an increase in the retail prices of his company's products, to be effective September 1, George W. Mason, chairman of the board and president of Kelvinator Corporation, has explained that Kelvinator already has virtually completed its own program to get in step with the administration's campaign for industrial recovery.

"Because of the sustained record breaking sales volume Kelvinator has enjoyed this year, we have been able to put through a general 10 per cent compensation increase affecting all our employes, factory workers and salaried people as well," Mr. Mason said.

"By carrying on an aggressive sales campaign through the midsummer months we are hopeful of breaking the usual seasonal slump which in past years made a reduction in personnel customary in the electric refrigeration industry. Our employment now is at a higher point than at any similar period in the nineteen year's history of the organization."

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for July 24 were $7,424,437.56; expenditures, $17,758,494.83; balance, $826,746,450.48. Customs duties for 24 days of July were $18,392,244.70.

Cotton Closes Higher Under Quiet Trading

December Sells at 10.95 as General Market Rises 15 to 18 Points.

New York, July 26 (A.P.).—Under comparatively quiet trading, cotton showed a generally steady tone today. There was a moderate demand, encouraged by the action of the grain and stock markets. December contracts, after selling off to 10.72 at the start, advanced to 10.99 and closed at 10.95, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 15 to 18 points.

Initial prices were 4 points lower to 1 point higher. The market turned steadier on trade buying, which seemed to be combined with covering and scattering commission house demand. Best prices of the day were reached in the late trading and closing quotations were within 2 to 4 points of the best.

Exports today, 14,337, making 8,451,701 so far this season. Port receipts, 11,321. U. S. port stocks, 3,140,413.

U. S. Dollar Rallies On London Mart

London, July 26 (AP).—In a quiet market the American dollar today gained 5¼-cents over yesterday's final rate, closing at $4.62⅛ to the pound. Trade buying and inactivity by speculators while awaiting the results of the American monetary policy were given as reasons for the improvement.

After opening at $4.67 the American currency appreciated on light buying and rose to finish at $4.62⅛ as compared with yesterday's close of $4.67¼.

The market was uncertain in tone, dealers for the most part awaiting further developments in United States. Gold currencies generally recorded a slight gain, the French franc closing at 85.34 to the pound, the mark at 14.01, and the Dutch guilder at 8.27¾.

Wall Street Hails Business Upturn

New York, July 26 (AP).—Wall street found cause for satisfaction in the preponderantly favorable character of today's news on business and trade. The first 25 railroads to report for June had aggregate net operating income some 300 per cent above the comparable figures for June last year.

Electric power output continued its gain in the high brackets over last year, although shaded slightly by the percentage improvement of the previous week. Several industrial corporations, reporting for the June quarter, showed encouraging profit gains over the first quarter and the same period last year.

Carloadings regarded as on of the most accurate trade barometers, continued to run sharply in advance of last year, New York Central and Pennsylvania gaining 43 and 27 per cent, respectively, in last week's loadings as compared with the same period in 1932.

Power Production Is Sharply Higher

New York, July 26 (AP).—Electric power output last week continued at a level sharply above that of the previous year and in excess of the preceding week. The percentage increase amounted to 15.4 per cent, compared with the peak rise of 16.4 per cent for the previous week. Output, as reported by the Edison Electric Institute, was 1,654,424,000 kilowatt hours, against 1,648,339,000 in the week ended July 15 and 1,433,993,000 in the like period last year.

Failure of the percentage rise to top that shown in the previous week marked the first break in the progressively expanding gain in output since the trend turned early in May.

The major geographic regions maitained their improvement over last year, with the exception of the Southern States, whose increase dropped to 18.6 per cent from 25.8 per cent the week before. New England was up 27.1 per cent, against 26 per cent; Middle Atlantic up 11.7, against 12.2; central industrial up 19.2, unchanged; Pacific Coast up 8, against 5.3 per cent.

Federal Court Approves Sale of Cotton Belt Road

Frankfort, Ky., July 26 (AP).—Three Federal judges today confirmed an Interstate Commerce Commission order authorizing acquisition of the Cotton Belt Railroad by the Southern Pacific.

The petition of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. and the Texas & Pacific Railroad Co. against the United States and the Southern Pacific, claiming the commissions' action was arbitrary, was dismissed in a decision concurred in by U. S. Circuit Judge Charles H. Moorman and District Judges A. M. J. Cochran and Charles I. Dawson. The suit was filed here last year, and the jurisdiction of the court here was upheld on the ground the Southern Pacific is incorporated in Kentucky.

Bondholders May Get Control of Gas Shares

New York, July 26 (AP).—A plan of reorganization of the National Gas & Electric Corporation subcommittee today to the security holders by the reorganization committee provides for the ownership of 61½ per cent of the common stock of a new corporation by the first mortgage bondholders.

The company is a former subsidiary of the American Commonwealths Power Corporation, which was placed in receivership in December, 1931.

Half-Billion-Pound Pork Cut Sought to Attain Price Parity

Chicago, July 26 (AP).—The removal of 500,000,000 pounds of pork and allied products from the market before next January 1 and a curtailment of two billion pounds in production next year stood today as the objective of a group of experts for attaining a parity price level.

Meeting yesterday the national corn and hog committee, composed of 25 members from 10 Midwestern States, worked out a five-point program for submission to Washington. Due to the lateness of the season the committee passed over the corn situation without making any recommendations.

Farmers, the committee said, would be paid benefits for marketing their light pigs and piggy sows, thus reducing the 1934 hog supply.

In order to put the program into operation and to cover resulting losses the committee provided for a processing tax on pork and competing products.

Other points of the plan, in addition to the payment of benefits to farmers and the levying of the first mortgage bondholders.

The sale or donation of pork to relief agencies upon agreement that their normal purchases of meat would not be reduced; conversion of low grade hogs and products into tankage and their lard, if necessary, into soap, and by an increase in exports.

Imperial Valley Hit By Grasshoppers

El Centro, Calif., July 26 (AP).—The worst grasshopper plague in 17 years is being experienced by Imperial Valley, producer of much of the Nation's winter vegetables. Desperate in their efforts to destroy the pest, farmers plan to import pheasants in the hope that the birds will eat the hoppers before the second crop sprouts wings.

Grapefruit have been devoured by the thousands. In token of the hoppers' appetite, A. B. Harrigan, horticultural commissioner, said the insects eat their own kind.

"This is especially true," he added, "when poison hits some in the first stages and they get sick. Other hoppers pounce upon them and finish them, leaving only the legs."

Wabash Bond Plan Nears Completion

New York, July 26 (A.P.).—The protective committee for the refunding and general mortgage bonds of the Wabash Railroad, in receivership since December 1, 1931, has announced that a reoganization plan for the railway may be submitted to the bondholders at an early date.

The announcement, made yesterday, said:

"In view of the marked upturn in traffic a plan of reorganization or exchange of securities may be submitted within the near future to the committee and the bondholders. The committee deems it desirable that the bondholders organize themselves promptly so that they may be prepared to deal authoritatively with any such plan."

At the offices of the railway today it was said the receivers were in Philadelphia and that they might go to Washington to discuss the situation with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Fur Business Prospers as Trade Revives

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 26.—The change for the better in the financial, commercial and industrial situation since early spring has brought more activity to the fur trade, with prospects encouraging for the largest fall business that has been experienced in the past three years.

Many of the larger establishments expect to make up a fair portion of the ground that has been lost, but the cautiousness which marks the progress will preclude a recurrence of the speculative operations which were responsible for much of the grief back in 1929.

Production of manufactured furs for the coming winter has been measured to meet a demand that may run to 75 per cent of the 1929 volume. The fact that there are no accumulations of merchandise in the hands of manufacturers augurs well for profits this season. Retailers' stocks likewise are negligible, due to the restricted buying policy of the last few years, and this condition, together with the fear of still higher prices, has enabled road salesmen to book orders estimated at 25 to 50 per cent in excess of those procurable in the summer of 1932, according to a survey of the fur trade, which has just been completed by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

"After touching an all-time low in February," the survey continues, "when the total dropped to $1,408,000, sales of pelts by fur merchants to manufacturers and retailers have been increasing.

"The April sales of $2,052,000 represented a gain of 39.3 per cent over the March showing, while May sales of $3,288,000 were higher by 60.2 per cent than those in April.

"In addition, the May total was the largest that has been recorded in 19 months, or since October, 1931. Sales in both April and May were in excess of the total for the comparative months of the year preceding, which is the first time this has occurred since August, 1931.

Most Prices Higher.

"Moderate advances have been recorded for most of the principal furs, and provided no serious setback is encountered by speculators on the various exchanges, the demand for merchandise eventually will justify a further increase over present values. Not only all fur garments, but fur-trimmed cloth coats will cost more this season, as quotations on otter are up 10 per cent; fisher and white fox, 20 per cent; while beaver, ermine, cross fox, silver fox and wolf have advanced 25 per cent. Marten is 30 per cent higher than it was last year; red fox, lynx and muskrat, 40 per cent, and mink 50 per cent.

"Badger continues to sell about at its former level, while quotations on skunk have declined about 10 per cent from the position occupied in 1932. While the supply of popular-priced furs is considered ample, collections of some of the expensive pelts are not so complete as they were a year ago. The most popular furs this season are: Foxes—silver, blue, black, red; lower and medium-grades of mink; muskrat, badger, wolf, raccoon, opossum, skunk, marmot, leopard, barunduki (perwitsky), Hudson seal, ermine, squirrel, fitch and badger.

Wool Market.

Boston, July 26 (AP) (U. S. Department of Agriculture).—Inquiries for wool are not as numerous as in the latter part of last week, and fewer of these inquiries are resulting in sales. Attention of manufacturers is given largely to changes that will be necessary in operating under the pending new industrial code for wool textiles. Meanwhile, quotations on wool in the Boston market continue steady to firm.

Lower Price Retail Trade Still Expands

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 26.—Continued expansion of sales volume of mail order houses and chain organizations distributing merchandise in the lower price ranges to industrial wage earners and throughout agricultural districts has been the feature of retail trade thus far in July, says the Standard Statistics Co. of New York, in a current survey which continues in part:

"This betterment, while not fully equal to the rapid advances recorded in such lines as the textiles, directly reflects the improvement in industrial employment and pay-roll totals, and the improved income of the farmers, both actual and prospective, resulting from the sharp rise of prices for agricultural commodities. Through these means, wage earners not only have been able to satisfy urgent needs to an increasing degree, but also to anticipate in a small measure a rising trend of prices.

"With the concentration of buying largely in lower price volume goods, the record of department stores continues somewhat less satisfactory than in other distributive fields. In fact, the midmonth report for the New York metropolitan area discloses a level still around 2 per cent below that for the corresponding 1932 period, while many of the larger metropolitan department store organizations, which were able to exceed 1932 records in May and June, are no longer maintaining such gains. The usual summer slackness ordinarily is more sharply reflected in this field, however, and in the aggregate the total volume of trade at retail continues to show a gradual upward trend."

New York Central Lines Boost Freight Loadings

New York, July 26 (AP).—New York Central Railroad Co., freight loadings last week totaled 109,017 cars against 108,021 in the previous week and 75,841 in the same week last year.

The increase over a year ago was 43.7 per cent, compared with the previous week's gain of 41.9 per cent.

The noon market was 2 to 4 points net lower. Some of the selling may have been promoted by reports from the West stating that beet sugar companies had on hand on July 1, unsold and sold but not delivered, 7,470,000 bags of sugar or 1,581,000 bags more than at the same time a year ago.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

RAMSAY MACDONALD, Prime Minister of Great Britian and chairman of the London Economic Conference, will discuss the results of the international parley over WMAL and WJSV this afternoon at 3:10 o'clock.

Mr. MacDonald will speak, not as Prime Minister of Great Britain, but in his capacity as president of the conference. His address will be delivered before the representatives of more than 60 nations, gathered in the Geological Museum in London and will be broadcast to all parts of the world.

In President Roosevelt's economic recovery broadcast he referred to "the continuing descent into the economic hell of the past four years."

There is a standing order in every broadcasting station that the operator upon hearing "hell" or any word of profanity uttered shall instantly cut the speaker off the air no matter who he is. This has been done on several occasions.

"What if some dumb operator had literally followed his instructions upon hearing President Roosevelt say 'hell' and cut him off?" a friend who had heard the broadcast remarked. "Wouldn't that have created a situation equivalent to the meaning of the word?"

Alice Hutchins Drake will resume "Famous Paintings in Many Lands" on WRC at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Miss Drake has just returned from the Century of Progress and a visit to a new exhibition at the Cleveland Museum of Art.

ALIST of Columbia features starting in the early fall includes "Roses and Drums," September 3; "Smiling Ed" McConnel, September 10; a new combination, Edwin C. Hill and Singin' Sam, September 11; "H-Bar-O Rangers," September 18; "All-American Football Show," September 22; "Just Plain Bill," September 25, and "Threads of Happiness," September 29.

"Pageant of Melody," a local presentation over Station WRC, will again be heard tonight at 9 o'clock. It is sponsored by L. P. Steuart, Inc.

Tia Juana is the sucker town for radio stations. They grow there as fast as mushrooms and fade as quickly.

"With the exception of one station that has been doing business at the same spot for several years, but only as an on-and-offer, a dozen or more that have started in the last two years have since vanished," Variety's Mexican correspondent reports.

"Chumps are the Americans who come over the border, hoping to start a station and garner a lot of gravy broadcasting medical advertising, mystics and other types of accounts banned north of the line. But it's a one-way street—the coin goes from the chumps for equipment and some talent, but it has no retrieving power."

JOE PALOOKA, in Round Two, will be the big laugh at WOL tonight. Ronald Dawson and the Northern Dramatic Company will again present The Washington Post comic, as is, at 6:45 o'clock.

Robert Montgomery and Vera Allen, motion picture stars, will present a scene from the movie of Noel Coward's "Private Lives" in Rudy Vallee's program over WRC at 7 o'clock.

Mary Charles, singer, and Bernard de Pace, mandolinist, will accompany the group.

"What the Rotary Club Does for the Welfare of Washington" will be explained by Dr. Harrison Howe, president of the club, tonight. (WMAL, 9 o'clock.)

"Our Pan-American Neighbors" will receive a cordial greeting from A. Curtus Wilgus, associate professor of history, George Washington University, this evening. (WMAL, 7:30 o'clock.)

IN the diplomatic reception room at the White House from which President Roosevelt broadcasts is a marble bust of a forgotten man (with side whiskers). At least no one present the other night seemed to know who he was, his face was not familiar and there was no name on the bust.

A radio engineer working nearby facetiously put his panama hat on the head of the unknown. Later the hat became tilted at a rakish angle and the whole effect was ludicrous. Had President Roosevelt been sitting at a slightly different angle while facing the microphones he surely would have seen the marble gentleman all decked out in the Panama hat. Perhaps it was just as well because the unexpected sight might have interrupted the broadcast.

Arcturus, the hardworking star of A Century of Progress Exposition, will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Robert H. Baker over WMAL at 10:15 o'clock this evening. Dr. Baker opened the shutter which permitted a ray from Arcturus, many light-years distant, to turn on the floodlights illuminating the exposition grounds at Chicago last May.

TODAY'S best-seller novel, "Little Man, What Now?" will be dramatized over WEAF network, but not WRC, this evening at 9 o'clock. The book, by Hans Fallada, has had an enormous sale in Germany, and since its translation into English has been rivaling the records set many years ago by Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street" or Remarque's "All Quiet."

The dramatized version is a translation of a radio play which has been performed with great success in Germany. The author of the best seller is said to be a man very much like his hero, who always has been a "little" man in business and who "just happened" to write his book when he was working for a Berlin publisher.

New Yorker Day by Day

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Unique among New York museums is one assembled by Frank Munoz, once a first mate and now a harbor master on the Brooklyn water-front.

In an endless array of small bottles he has a sample of every liquid or solid product which has been among the variety of imports to enter this harbor.

In an endless array of small bottles Japanese flowers used to make insect poison, Venezuelan balata (vegetable gum) to make dress shields, Central American chicle for chewing gum, dried Hindu insects for indelible ink, Mexican istle (plant fiber) for brush making, Australian tonka beans to flavor cigars, and Chinese goose feathers for bed stuffing.

Delving further among the bottles you come upon Brazilian rock crystals for candy, Italian marble dust for flooring, Chinese egg albumen for color printing, and South American balsa wood, so light that a man can hold up a grown tree in one hand.

"—Shoes and Sealing Wax."

Too, there are West Indian ambretto seed for dye making, Asian volonia (dried acorns) for tanning, Japanese mahuany fiber for paper manufacture. Hindu garnetiac for paints and South American linseed —which is dangerous, because if a man falls into a bin it is just as fatal as if he fell into quicksand.

Other imports are 25 varieties of coffee and cocoa beans, rape seed oil, perilla oil, core oil, cottonseed oil, Italian lemon juice, Japanese hokkaido beans, Swedish grass, lignum vitae (heaviest and hardest wood known), Japanese firecrackers and Formosa camphor.

First Nights.

That playwright's announcement that he had written a curtain speech which consisted solely of "Boo, yerselves," is a reminder of the time Elliott Lester took his first bow at the call for "author." It was when he wrote "Mud Turtle," and, renting himself a frock tail coat and a folding benny, he figured that he was all set to deliver an oration to his first night audience.

After the show Elliott tried to dash on stage, but he found himself unable to take a step. Hanging onto his coat tails were the two Riskin brothers, who produced the play. They tugged and tugged but the rented coat suddenly did just that and Elliott shot onto the stage with nothing much left except a torn lapel. Anyway, he made his curtain speech.

Then there is that movie star who decided to appear in a stage drama, but demanded that she be given private readings and not compelled to rehearse with the remainder of the cast. She was, she said, too sensitive to work with the other actors until opening night.

"I get the idea," muttered a seasoned ham, "she is adjusting herself to the solitude of the second night."

Additional Million Given to Reserves

The Organized Reserve Corps of the Army will get an additional $1,000,000 to carry on summer training of junior officers, it was learned yesterday at the War Department.

A total of 7,400 reserve officers thus will be enabled to go to "refresher" camps and carry on their training activities. This number includes about one out of every eight of the reserve officers in the country.

Allotment of the money follows an intensive campaign by the Reserve Officers Association. A committee called on President Roosevelt and it is understood he interceded in their behalf.

Bat Routs Telephone Girls.

Rochester, N. Y., (U.P.).—Telephone service was temporarily interrupted here recently when a bat invaded the switchboard room of the Rochester Telephone Corporation and drove the operators from their posts.

Walt Mason, Himself

The World's Most Famous Rhymester

The Other Themes.

I DO not talk about my woes when I encounter friends; I may have corns upon my toes, a boil that anguish lends, but when I meet with Mike or Pete, with Hiram or with Heck, I talk about the price of wheat, of good things now on deck. "The prices of commodities are rising now," I say, "and this should give our spirits ease, it means a better day. We sit beneath our trees and vines, and anywhere we look we are beholding pregnant signs of better days, gadzook." And Hiram, Heck, and all the rest will talk in kindred strain, and let their fears go galley west, forget their grief and strain. Whereas if I should make a list of agonies I know, the other delegates, I wist, would also talk of woe. They'd hand out samples of despair, of danger and disease, they'd talk about their falling hair, their gout and housemaids' knees. We'd talk a while and then we'd part immersed in gloom and dread, and each would have a broken heart, and ashes on his head. Then each would go to other gents and weeping would confess that life is worth but fourteen cents, or twelve, or even less. For that's the way that trouble grows, and spreads around like sin; one fellow talks about his woes, and all the rest start in.

Many to Attend Arts Club Party

Dinner Reservations Indicate Large Turnout at Final Event Tonight.

Dinner reservations indicate another large crowd for the final summer Arts Club program in the club garden tonight under the direction of the hospitality committee, of which Mrs. Charles W. Fairfax is chairman.

Mrs. Margaret Ray Seay, of Richmond, Va., will be the featured guest artist. The popular concert and oratorio singer will be accompanied by Miss Minna Niemann, Washington pianist.

Miss Anne Darlington will present her modern Greek play, "A Lesson in Magic," based on peasant life. The cast includes, besides the author, Roger W. Smith, Mrs. Bessie Parrish and Neal Parrish.

A varied dance group will be offered by students of the Marion Chace-Lester Shafer studios.

Telephone "Open House."

Open house will be held at the West Central office of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., at 1232 Thirty-first street northwest, tonight and tomorrow night for subscribers served by that office in the Georgetown area. Guides will conduct guests through the building and explain the equipment.

Capital to Name Own Revue for Cash Award—The New Bills

By Nelson B. Bell.

The dancers, singers, comedians, instrumentalists, acrobats and what-not who survive the auditions for enrollment among the principals of what, so far, has been known only as the "All-Washington Revue," to be presented on the stage at Loew's Fox Theater the week of August 18, will not be the only ones to profit by this exploitation of the Capital's native talent.

Not satisfied with the designation by which this pretentious production has so far been known—a "working title" it would be on the movie lots—and not committed to the thankless task of naming the revue satisfactorily to all concerned themselves, Carter Barron, city manager of the Loew interests in Washington, and Gene Ford, experienced producer, down from New York to put the show on its feet and eventually upon the Fox stage, have stepped out from under the responsibility and have decided to let Washington name its own revue.

Not only that, they have decided to reward the originator of the winning title in cash money, backed by the whole of the material resources of the United States, if not by the largest horde of gold locked up in the basement of any nation.

For the most appropriate name for its "All-Washington Revue," Loew's Fox offers a cash prize of $10. If more than one contestant submits the winning title, the management reserves the right to decide the winner by drawing from among the duplicate titles, all jumbled up in a large container, the one which shall be the official winner.

All names intended to be considered in this contest must be mailed to Loew's Fox Theater, Washington, D. C., marked for the attention of the "Show Name" editor.

Since this title contest closes next Wednesday at midnight, it is urged that suggestions be mailed at the earliest possible time to facilitate the work of the judges.

Here, at last, is $10 worth of answer to the late Mr. Will Shakespeare's inquiry as to what's in a name. Were he alive, he no doubt would enter the contest himself, having managed one or two fair jobs of titling himself in his time!

Applications for entrance in the auditions continue to swamp Mr. Barron and his associates, several hundred already having been received and sorted, with large numbers arriving by every mail.

It seems worth repeating that the first audition will be held in the Willard Room of the Willard Hotel next Monday evening at 8 o'clock, with others to follow on Tuesday, beginning at 2 p. m.

The semifinals in the Greater Washington Beauty Contest, since we are on the topic of competition, were rained out at Chevy Chase Lake last night and will be held tonight instead, weather permitting, with the finals tomorrow night, as originally announced and with the same proviso.

This is the tournament of grace, beauty and pulchritude from which will emerge "Miss Washington," to represent the Capital of the Nation in the Atlantic City Beauty Pageant to be held in mid-September, with numerous other emoluments accruing to the successful contestant in the meantime.

During another pleasant visit yesterday afternoon in the grimy blueprint of what will in due course be a model of newspaper housing, Robert Wile, a missionary laboring in the vineyard against the coming of "Samarang" to the Metropolitan tomorrow, revealed that he is prepared to produce documentary evidence that the most amazing sequences in this romance of the equatorial pearl divers were not faked.

All they had to do, says Mr. Wile, to promote the battle to the death between the octopus and the shark was to locate the octopus and then bait a shark to its immediate vicinity, whereupon their natural "antipathy, nature and the cameraman did the rest.

The cameraman, by the way, was housed on the ocean floor in a glass cage, sunk by heavy weights and a more or less obscure—or possibly only forgotten—law of physics.

The scene, furthermore, in which the native sticks a long and lethal snickersnee into the vitals of a shark and then rides him, cowboy fashion, through the opalescent depths of a tropic sea, Mr. Wile also insists is on the level.

This is the one, I believe, concerning which he lugs around his most important and impressive affidavit. From all I hear, he needs it!

"Samarang," assuming that your curiosity and ignorance of the minutiae of geography around the Indian Ocean and Malay Archipelago both are as deep-seated as my own, was filmed for the greater part on a small island by the name of Pulua Kusu, between Singapore and Malacca.

It was necessary in the filming to have traffic with a cannibalistic race of Sakai natives for which a string of three interpreters was found indispensable by Director Ward Wing, whose wife, Lori Bara, a sister of Theda Bara, wrote the story of "Samarang."

Mr. Ward conveyed his messages to a Malaysian, who could understand both English and Chinese; the Malay communicated them to a Chinaman, who could understand both Malay and Sakai, and he, in turn repeated them to the Sakais.

While the impulse endures and space remains, it should be set down that the week which begins tomorrow in the motion picture houses—excepting only the Columbia, which still quaintly observes a Monday opening—will unfurl the following programs for the edification of the faithful: Earle, Kay Francis, Lyle Talbot and Glenda Farrell, in a prerelease showing of "Mary Stevens, M. D.," and Ethel Barrymore, distinguished stage star, making her motion picture theater debut as headliner of the vaudeville bill in Sir James M. Barrie's "The Twelve-Pound Look;" Loew's Fox, Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson, in "Her Bodyguard," and Gracie Allen and George Burns headlining the vaudeville in person; RKO-Keith's, Lew Ayres and Ginger Rogers, in "Don't Bet on Love;" Palace, Lionel Barrymore and Miriam Hopkins, in "The Stranger's Return;" Metropolitan, Ahmang, in "Samarang;" Columbia, Buddy Rogers, Marian Nixon and Joseph Cawthorn, in "The Best of Enemies."

Glen Echo Park will inaugurate a midsummer innovation next Monday night by presenting as a special added attraction the Four Dots, sensational Harlem night club entertainers and NBC radio artists. The Four Dots will present their specialties in the Spanish Garden ballroom. On Monday night they will appear immediately after the orchestra's last WRC broadcast of the season at 11 p. m., but thereafter will go on at 10:45 nightly.

Another special attraction at Glen Echo in the near future will take the form of a "Personality Contest," designed to produce the young woman who will justify the title of "Miss Universe." The winner, among other things, will be rewarded with an eight-week motion picture engagement in Universal Pictures, produced by the Carl Laemmles, Papa and Junior, in Universal City, Calif.

And that reminds me. In addition to a list of notable screen features to be made available for his use by RKO-Radio during the remainder of the summer, Manager Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's, arises to remark that his major features the weeks of August 4 and 11, both will be important Universal releases scheduled on the announcements of next season's product.

These are "Moonlight and Pretzels," the much-vaunted musical—featuring, among numerous others, Roger Pryor, Mary Brian, Leo Carrillo, Herbert Rawlinson, Bobby Watson, William Frawley, Alexander Gray, the Four Eaton Boys, Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his orchestra, Frank and Milt Britton and their band and Lillian Miles—and "Her First Mate," a new comedy, starring "Slim" Summerville, ZaSu Pitts and Una Merkel.

Is this to be construed as an indefinite postponement of the reopening of the Rialto, Papa Laemmle's private outlet for the magic lantern shows made on his lot out in California?

Last evening at 9:15 at the Occidental, Cardini, master magician and prestidigitator, bewildering audiences by the deftness of his hocus-pocus at the Earle this week, was guest of honor at a banquet tendered him by the Washington Chapter of the American Society of Magicians, under the direction of Chairman Small, of the Department of Justice, in charge of arrangements.

With the closing of their current season's activities, the drama group of Arts Club of Washington already is contemplating the project of opening its next season with the production of an outstanding play, to be publicly presented for a run of several nights, the proceeds to be contributed to the sustaining fund of the National Symphony Orchestra, Hans Kindler, conductor.

There are also unofficial whisperings among an interested group that the club's annual "Bal Boheme" next winter might advantageously take the form of a three-ring circus, with menagerie, side-show attractions and all the trimmings, and the guests costumed in consonance with the traditions of the big tops. This, however, is a prospect at the moment no more substantial than a French payment on the war debt.

The third of a series of Friday evening gatherings at the Art League of Washington, Bancroft place at Connecticut avenue, will feature a "Variety Evening" tomorrow night.

Planned for the benefit of the league's hot-weather coffers, these parties, so modestly tariffed that a small charge covers entertainment, refreshment and dancing, are becoming increasingly popular.

Next week Brook Johns will assist with the program and do a little Grade A entertaining on his own account. A gay fellow, Brook.

Of course, there should be a theme song for that Fox "All-Washington Revue"—something subtly suggesting the name of the organization fostering so worthy an outlet for our resident versatility, but not naming it with insistent or offensive flagrance.

The Circus Is Coming to Town!

The Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, to be exact, and with it will be charming Dorothy Carter, intrepid aerialist, here posing with Romeo, tiger cub, which soon will have outgrown any human Juliet.

"New Dealers" Urged for New Deal by Barlow

The administration must fill its posts with "those whose souls are charged with the divine inspiration of the principles which make the 'new deal' a vibrant, living thing," Walter L. Barlow said yesterday in an address before the District of Columbia Democratic Advisory Committee.

Mr. Barlow, a special assistant to the Attorney General, termed his talk "a defense of patronage" and lashed at attempts by Republicans and "post-election Democrats" to retain their positions.

"A 'new deal' is impossible with 'old dealers'," he said. "It takes new dealers, as well as new cards, as any old-time poker player can tell you.

"If those who guided the destinies of the Republican party," he continued, "had shown one-tenth of the nerve and one-twentieth of the ingenuity in solving the problems of this Nation for the past twelve years that they are now displaying in their attempts to retain their appointees in office, there would have been no depression."

The meeting, which was held at the University Club, was presided over by John P. Bramhall. The speaker was one of the administration's first appointments from California, and is assigned to tax evasion cases in the Attorney General's office.

Visit to America By King Rumored

New York, July 26 (AP).—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy will visit America in the near future, a source close to the royal family indicated tonight. (Reports of the visit have been circulated in Rome, but have not been confirmed there.)

Plans have been virtually perfected for the trip, said the informant, a nobleman, who added he would know within a few weeks the date on which the monarch expects to sail.

The Italian king's visit, he said, probably would be made within the next few months, perhaps earlier.

That the monarch will visit President Roosevelt, the informant said, was "most likely."

Ulm Off to Dublin On Flight to U. S.

London (Thursday), July 27 (AP). Charles T. P. Ulm, Australian aviator, took off from Heston Airdrome early today for Portmarnock Beach, near Dublin, the first leg of a flight that he hopes will carry him and three companions across the Atlantic to New York.

Ulm planned to refuel at Portmarnock and, if weather and beach conditions are favorable, to start shortly on the long trip.

Stewart and Allen Oppose as Nats and Yanks Open "Crucial" Series

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

A TRAIN pulling out of Union Station early last night bore Joe Judge to an undisclosed destination. He's joining up with an American League Club before the week is over.

There's still talent in them thar bones of Judge's, apparently. The veteran first baseman, who was released on Tuesday by the Brooklyn Dodgers, came back to his Washington home yesterday to find five offers from big league clubs awaiting him.

Judge has had enough of the National League, and he chose an American League affiliation. The bags he unpacked yesterday morning at his Allison street home were packed again yesterday afternoon and he was on his way to the majors. To which club, he didn't say. The announcement will come from his new employer.

Crop Is Not So Good.

Looking around the league, it's not difficult to find a spot for Judge. The current crop of first basemen is not so good. First base is a glaring weakness of three American League teams and the presence of even a slipping Joe Judge would be brilliant in contrast. At least five club owners think so. Judge is not given to exaggeration about those things.

Boston, Chicago and Detroit are sadly in need of added strength at the first base post. The Red Sox, fired with new ambition by their comparatively sensational play of late and scenting a place in the first division, have been alternating an outfielder, Bob Seeds, with the cumbersome Dave Alexander at first base. Judge would fit in there nicely.

Fonseca Experimenting.

Out in Chicago, Manager Fonseca, ailing himself, has been experimenting with the shortstop-outfielder, Red Kress, with results that are hardly good. He has even tried the catcher, Billy Sullivan, at the job. It's another spot for Judge. As is Detroit, with the light-hitting Harry Davis and the errant Hank Greenberg.

Matters are coming to a head in the American League pennant race, with the Nats and Yankees meeting in eight games within the next two weeks. After these meetings only four games between the two clubs remain on the schedule. The team that wins the edge in the next fortnight's play will be the favorite to win the pennant.

Past events favor the Nats to improve their standing at the expense of the Yanks. Ten times the two teams have met this season, and seven times the Nats have won. The last four games between the clubs have been decided by one run, if that means anything.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The first time the Yanks start a left-hander in the current series Bob Boken will be seen in the line-up for the Nats . . . he specializes in beating both Gomez and Grove . . . and is the only rookie to claim them as cousins . . . the Nats won't be bothered with Russ Van Atta, who shut them out here in May . . . he is out for two weeks with a broken blood vessel in his arm. . . . There is no truth in the rumor that Bill McAfee has decided to turn outfielder . . . so the team could utilize his hitting strength . . . the Nats are torn between two new names for McAfee . . . "Babe" and "Slug." . . . Connie Mack has been quoted as saying you won't recognize his pitching staff next year . . . and a Philly wag says he doesn't recognize 'em this season.

Loughran Loses Decision to Risko

Chicago, July 26 (AP).—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, conceded to be the most scientific of present-day heavyweights, dropped a close ten-round decision to Johnny Risko, the Cleveland rubber man, in the Mills Stadium tonight.

Floored for a count of three in the first round, Loughran came back to fight an uphill battle, but Risko was too rough and tough for him. Risko, wrecker of many heavyweight warriors, carried the battle to the Philadelphia dancing master, forcing him on the defensive. He centered his attack to Loughran's body, piling up points with hard punches with both hands.

Wood Beaten by Grant at Seabright

By Gregory Hewlett.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 26 (AP). A wave of surprise results, including the elimination of the defending champion in the men's division and the defeat of the women's doubles team that won the national title last year, today flavored the famous Seabright invitation tennis tournament.

Little Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., called "Bitsy," because he measures only a couple of inches over 5 feet, accomplished the feat of removing Sidney Wood, of New York, from a chance to defend any longer the Seabright bowl he won last year. Grant, whose dynamic racquet has been a power in Southern competition since 1927, overpowered the one-time Wimbledon champion in straight sets, 6—0, 7—5.

Baroness Wins Upset.

The other surprises occurred among the women, with the Baroness Maud Levi, of New York, holding the center of attraction for the second day in a row, and little Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline Mass., taking a close second in the race for the day's honors.

Virginia Rice, of Boston, ninth in the American women's list, was the baroness' second upset victim, losing 6—4, 10—8.

Miss Palfrey, given the No. 12 post on the national ratings, advanced by an easy 6—2, 6—0 victory over the seventh-ranked Alice Marble of San Francisco.

Jacobs-Palfrey Beaten.

Another surprise went by almost unnoticed when the team of Helen Jacobs and Miss Palfrey, national women's doubles champions, fell before the team of Josephine Cruickshank and Miss Marble. Despite the renown of the losers and their probable selection as a pair in the Wightman Cup matches with the British, Miss Cruickshank and Miss Marble won easily, 6—3, 6—3.

Aside from these results, this forty-sixth annual grass court tournament moved along in anticipated fashion in both singles sections.

Frankie Parker Advances.

Frankie Parker's brilliance was dimmed for one set by the veteran Manuel Alonzo, exactly 20 years his senior, but the 17-year-old protege of Mercer Beasley, famous coach, moved ahead by a 6—2, 4—6, 6—1 victory. Tomorrow he is scheduled to meet another veteran, Gregory Mangin, the national indoor champion, who today renewed an old feud with Johnny Doeg, national title winner in 1930, and won easily, 6—2, 6—4.

Grant's semifinal opponent will be Frank Shields, ranked fifth nationally, who had all he could do today

Harridge Says League Not Averse to Hornsby

President William Harridge of the American League, now in Washington for the Nats-Yankee series, denied last night that the league would take unfavorable action on the appointment of Rogers Hornsby as manager of the Browns.

"The statement attributed to me that Hornsby was 'undesirable' on certain counts, was grossly incorrect," said Mr. Harridge. "He is eligible for any job in baseball."

Yankees Win and Lose in Boston

Fail to Take Advantage of Chance to Tie for Lead With Nats.

Gomez Wins First, 2-0; 2d to Red Sox, 9-4; Gehrig Ejected.

BOSTON, July 26 (AP).—The New York Yankees today failed to close the one-game gap separating them from the Nationals before moving into Washington tomorrow for an important four-game series, splitting a double-header with the Boston Red Sox. The Nats were rained out at Philadelphia.

A crowd of 25,000, a record midweek attendance for the Hub, saw the world champions take the opening contest, 2 to 0, in which Vernon Gomez shaded Bob Weiland in a southpaw hurling duel, and then drop the second by the much looser score of 9 to 4.

Yanks Rally in 8th.

Gomez and Weiland pitched scoreless ball for seven innings, the Sox pitcher holding the Yanks to two hits. In the eighth, however, a pass to Frank Crosetti, a safe infield bunt by Gomez, another walk to Pinch Hitter Charley Ruffing and Joe Sewell's long fly shoved across a run. Another was scored in the ninth on singles by Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri and Bill Dickey's fly to Oliver.

Walter Brown and Lloyd Brown were the starting pitchers in the nightcap, but only Lloyd finished. With the score knotted at four-all, the Sox fell on Walter and his successor, Wilcy Moore, for six hits and five runs.

Roy Johnson Is Hero.

Roy Johnson, with a single and a triple, drove in four of the Sox runs, while Dusty Cooke and Tom Oliver made spectacular catches in the outfield.

Lou Gehrig was put out of the game in the fourth inning of the second game for disputing a decision, made in the third frame by Umpire Summers. The umpire refused to allow that a double play had been completed by Gehrig at first base.

Tigers Down Browns Behind Bridges, 9-7

Detroit, July 26 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers won a free-hitting contest from St. Louis this afternoon, 9 to 7. Although Tommy Bridges yielded 13 hits to the Browns, he won the ball game just before he gave way to Elon Hogsett by knifing out a triple with the bases loaded in the seventh.

The Browns made a vigorous assault on the Tiger lead in their half of the eighth, bringing in five runs to fall just short of victory. Reynolds hit a triple to account for three of the runs. Hogsett relieved Bridges and stemmed the tide.

Giants Win 2 From Robins, 5-3 and 4-3

Four Homers Score All of Runs in Opener; Two for Day for Hutcheson.

NEW YORK, July 26 (U.P.).—The New York Giants, returning home to defend their National League leadership, today gained a full game on the idle Cubs as they twice whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers by close scores, 5 to 3 and 4 to 3.

Hal Schumacher and Ray Benge hooked up in an old-fashioned pitchers' battle in the opening contest, which was decided by home runs. The Giants pounded three over the fence, while Joe Hutcheson, Southern Association recruit, drove in all of the Dodgers' runs with the first of his two circuit swats of the day in the sixth inning.

Chicago, July 26 (AP).—Manager Lew Fonseca shook up the lineup but couldn't shake out a victory today for the skidding White Sox who suffered their seventh straight defeat, losing to Cleveland 7 to 1.

The Indians got to Joe Heving for three runs in the fourth inning and then picked up another trio of tallies in the eighth, when the Sox defense cracked wide open and Rhyne, Appling and Kress erred in succession after Porter had singled. They then added their final marker on three hits in the ninth.

Heving, promoted from a relief role, gave 11 hits in going the route, but walked none. Willis Hudlin checked the Chicagoans with six blows.

Altrock Gets Eagle.

Nick Altrock, Washington Baseball Club comedian, and coach, scored an eagle 2 on the 327-yard sixth hole of A side at Rock Creek's golf course yesterday.

Playing in the rain Altrock skied his second shot 150 yards into the cup. He used a number 5 iron. The ball never hit the green, according to Uncle Nick.

Hornsby Signs as Manager of Browns

Contract to Run Through 1935; Veteran Pilots His Fourth Club.

ST. LOUIS, July 26 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby, erstwhile firebrand of the National League, today signed a contract to pilot the St. Louis Browns and immediately announced plans to create a fighting ball club and to be a playing manager.

"We'll be having them out at the ball park before long," Hornsby told President Phil Ball, shortly after signing a contract to guide the tail-end American League club for the remainder of the season, and through 1934 and 1935.

Hornsby, who until yesterday was a member of the St. Louis Cardinals, seemed elated at his new job. The big second baseman, who started his climb to baseball fame as a rookie with the Cards in 1915, and later managed the Red Birds, the Boston Braves and the Chicago Cubs, said he planned no immediate shake-up of Brown players.

Has Wide Authority.

It was reliably reported and not denied that the Rajah's new contract gave him more authority than that possessed by any other manager engaged by Ball. Bill Killefer was deposed from authority last week.

Hornsby is expected to depart tomorrow or Friday night for Chicago to join his last place charges, now under the wing of Allan Sothoron, a coach under Killefer. Hornsby and Sothoron have announced mutual admiration and it was indicated the latter will remain with the team.

It has been rumored for several days that Hornsby was to take the Brown reins. The signing of the contract was not possible, however, until the Cardinals went through the formality of asking waivers on Hornsby, who has been used in an infield relief role this season. The ten-day time limit on the waivers expired today and the contract, terms of which were not announced, was signed immediately.

Hornsby came back to the Red Bird fold this year after a swing through half of the National League circuit.

Is Traded to Giants.

He won a world championship in 1926 as manager of the Cardinals and the next winter was traded to the New York Giants. After a year he moved on to Boston, where, in 1928, he succeeded Jack Slattery as pilot. The following winter he was traded to Chicago, and in 1930 he became manager of the Cubs. His 1932 team was in a contending championship position when he was discharged on August 2.

In explaining his baseball philosophy today the Rajah said:

Cards Beat Reds, 3-2; Rice's Error Costly

St. Louis, July 26 (AP).—Hallahan and Mooney held Cincinnati to four hits today and the St. Louis Cardinals won their second victory under Frankie Frisch's management. The score was 3 to 2.

Halahan allowed no hits until the fifth. He retired after the sixth because of a sore arm. Mooney, who replaced him, yielded only one hit. Rice's error in the second accounted for one of the Card runs.

Battles to Open Today Unless Showers Fall at Game Time.

THE Yanks are coming!

Who's who, and perhaps what's what, in the American League pennant race may be determined shortly at Griffith Stadium. The Nats and the Yanks resume their hand-to-hand skirmishing here today in the first of a four-game series that is best described by that overworked bisyllabism, "crucial."

These four games at Griffith Stadium will be the forerunners of four more up in the Bronx next week. Thus the next two weeks portend a death struggle for the league lead that the Nats are at present enjoying by a scant and skimpy one game.

Rain is the prediction of the weather man today, but Owner Clark Griffith hastens to announce that the tarpaulin covers the field and the battle will be staged if there is no downpour at game time, 3:15 p. m.

Washington Is Ready.

The Nats are ready. Those three victories in Philadelphia, all won conclusively, routed the last vestiges of the slump that had gripped the Washington club in its recent ill-starred home stand. Manager Joseph Francis Cronin has his lads thinking in terms of pennant and they could meet the Yanks under no more auspicious circumstances.

The Yanks were in their pullmans last night, nursing a setback they received in Boston yesterday when Gomez rode hard on the Red Sox in the first game and put the Yanks back on a track that would lead to a tie for the league lead, but the Sox smote the offerings of Walter Brown lustily in the second game, and the Yanks remained in status quo, one game to the rear of Washington.

Stewart to Hurl First.

Whitey Campbell, the Albany recruit, forewent his scheduled big league debut yesterday when rain postponed the final game in Philadelphia, and if he sees action in the

Lady Higloss Easily Wins Feature

Counsellor Crane Runs in Mud at Latonia to Beat Ding Bin.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 26 (AP).—First Minstrel, from the Greentree Stable, failed to race impressively in his trial today at Arlington Park and lost much of his prestige for the $35,000 Futurity to be run here Saturday.

Lady Higloss, racing for the Paramount Stable, with Jockey C. Critchfield up, scored easily by one and a half lengths in the five and one half furlongs sprint. First Minstrel, odds-on choice, ridden by Jockey S. Coucci, finished second. Thomasville was third. Higloss led all the way and was eased up at the finish.

The winner ran the distance in 1:06 1-5, paying $13.56 to win in the $2 straight mutuels.

Short-Price Horses Win.

Empire City Race Track, N. Y., July 26 (AP).—With a heavy track again the order of the day at James Butler's Yonkers course, small fields competed in a majority of the races and short-priced horses were prominent. After Fleet Flag, a 1-to-4 shot, had won the third event, G. M. Odom's gelding, Irene's Bob, quoted at 2 to 9, outclassed the field in the Rye Beach Purse, winning, eased up, by three lengths. Sweet Scent was two lengths before Sunwood for the place. The short 6-furlong trip was covered in 1:10.

Jockey Alfred Robertson, who had come in for a severe booing when he was almost left at the post in the first race with the split favorite, Holligan, was astride Irene's Bob. The Whitney jock was away flying on this occasion and the race was as good as over shortly after Starter Cassidy sent the five horses on their way. Sunwood could make no progress in the role of runner-up for 5 furlongs and finally allowed Sweet Scent, the second choice, to gather in the place money after a mild drive.

Counsellor Crane Victor.

Latonia, Ky., July 26 (AP).—Overnight rains and an additional downpour immediately after the first race gave a dreary aspect to what had promised to be an interesting card here today. The originally carded Vernon Manor Purse was declared off and substituted, and in its absence the Arcade Handicap, a 5½-furlong dash for 2-year-olds, served as the feature attraction.

Of the five juveniles named overnight, Ding Bin, which had loomed a heavy favorite, was the only withdrawal in the Arcade. This left but four to compete for the $800 purse, and Young Brothers' triple winner at the meeting, Penncote, was backed into 1-to-2 favoritism.

The winner, however, turned up in J. M. & W. J. Foley's Counsellor Crane, a mud-running son of Genie and Lucy Churchill. Breaking alertly and setting his own pace, Counsellor Crane led the favorite to the wire by two lengths. J. W. Parrish's New Deal was third.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

GIUSEPPE GARIBALDI, famous Italian patriot, could never have been one of the world's greatest masters of revolutionary war had the sentence imposed on him at the very outset of his career been carried out. It was in his earliest revolutionary action—a plot to capture the arsenal of Genoa—that Garibaldi failed, and was sentenced to death. This occurred in 1834; he was sentenced to die on June 3, but he had escaped to South America, and the sentence was imposed by default.

Though condemned to die, Garibaldi continued his campaign for freedom and unification of Italy until, 48 years later, he died June 2, 1882, at Caprera.

The picture held by the man is that of his own son. The condition "that man's father is my father's son," may be interpreted: "that man's father (my son's father: myself) is my father's son (myself)."

The chow, often called the chow-chow, has one characteristic that distinguishes it from all other dogs—it has a black tongue. Other dogs sometimes have black roofs to their mouths, but none is a true chow-chow unless the tongue is also black. The dog is a domestic dog of China, resembling the modern Pomeranian. Another of its characteristics is the thick even coat which feels like that of a close-wooled sheep.

Arlington Park, July 27.

Dear Al:

I wish I was at Marlboro. I picked them for today, but I couldn't ride them and I couldn't run for them. But I had a winner Tes, sir, Cog Air saved me from a shutout. He paid exactly 81 cents on the dollar and he was the only favorite of the day to step down. An inventory of the cash available in the pressbox after the program showed exactly $1.76 among a lot of hungry typewriter pounders. Yesterday, Wise Daughter was the big disappointment. Today it was First Minstrel. Just one a day will keep the dough away. About tomorrow—well, use your own judgment. BILL.

First race—Three times is my limit. I'm giving Even Play that last chance tomorrow. Has been close each time and I expect him to come through in this test. Lamporte tossed away a lot of important money the last time when beaten a nose. Figures to down Fighting Bob for the place.

Second race—At last we have Peedeeque in the right spot. This one has been running here, there and everywhere against a better grade of horses. However, the gelding tackles his own kind tomorrow. Get yours. Cotton Club has been moving up lately and may be second ahead of Her Gold.

Third race—Lerack may trip the favorites and step home at a fair mutuel in this sprint. Votan is the one to be beaten. Barry was scratched today and I liked the race. Third is his speed here.

Fourth race—Eskimo has been scratched several times and may not see action tomorrow. However, if those in charge decide to let him go, I see no reason why the veteran can't take care of this field. Prose and Poetry and Speedy Charlie for the rest.

Fifth race—Advising Anna looks like one of those odds-on good things here. She will have to be at her best to take care of Bollermaker and Rush Hour. All are fit horses.

Sixth race—Fingal figures the best of this group. Should not miss the long end of this purse if the handling is good. Hernando will be a surprise winner if mistakes are made with the top fellow. French Knight for the show end.

Seventh race—Tarnish gets in here with a feather impost. The veteran has been tending to his knitting of late and this looks like his chance to turn on the speed. Mad Career's last was a beaut. Twisted Threads for the rest.

Eighth race—Ed Lark wins this kind. Wants no better company. Peace Lady may awake to run something of a horse race. Brains has as much right being third as the others.

Londos Meets Steele Here Thursday

Are Rematched by Turner; No Bouts Scheduled for Tonight.

EVIDENTLY believing that when bigger and better rassling matches are staged, Jim Londos and Ray Steele will furnish them, Promoter Joe Turner has matched this pair again at Griffith Stadium next Thursday night. No show is listed for tonight, so if it rains, Turner, who seems to have a working agreement of some kind with the weather man, will not worry.

Steele-Londos bouts are showing here oftener than does Joe Penner, but Turner figures that he can afford to stage them as long as the addicts are willing to pay the freight. Truth to tell, the bringing back of the Gorgeous Greek after a lapse of but three weeks is more or less of an after-thought on the part of Mons. Turner.

Others Not Willing.

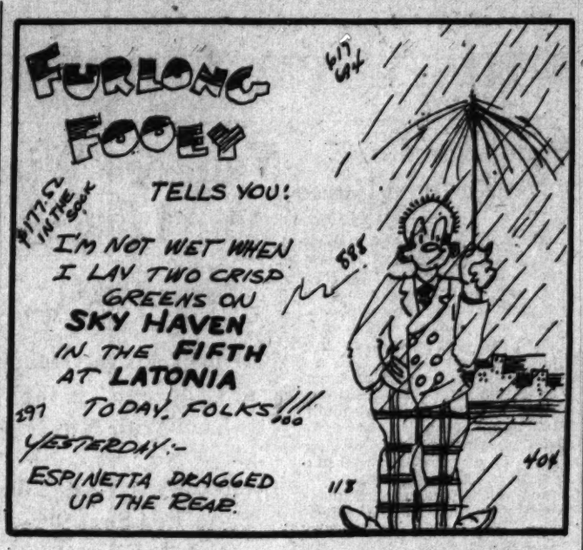
Steele, having gone independent of all of the several trusts, has asked Turner to get him some of the other title claimants, Jim Browning, Henri DeGlane, Don George and the like, but it seems that all of these boys have writer's cramp, house-maid's knee or something, just as soon as they are asked to come here to meet Steele.

And so, with time getting comparatively short, Turner decided to bring Londos back. The last time these two rivals—and they actually called each other names on that occasion—tangled, Steele had all the better of the mauling until the Greek suddenly dumped him out of the ring on his head. And this happened 17 minutes after the union time of 42 for such matches had been consumed.

Chances Are Better.

As a matter of fact, Londos and Steele are most evenly matched. Twice Steele has registered falls against the champ, but, unfortunately, in two-out-of-three fall affairs. His chances of winning from the Greek probably are better than those of any other challenger, which means that a good show is assured.

A genuine big league supporting cast is being lined up and the details will be announced from time to time within the week.



Giants Win Two From Brooklyn

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frost Win Maryland State Mixed Two-Ball Golf Event

Winners' 82 Low by a Stroke

Winners Finish in Near-Dark; Rain Handicap to Players.

By Dave Herman.

PLAYING the last few holes in almost pitch dark and in a slanting rain, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frost, of Columbia Country Club, proved the best "mudders" yesterday at Congressional's water-soaked course, turning in a gross score of 82 to win the Maryland State Golf Association mixed two-ball tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Frost toured the first nine in 40 strokes and the incoming side in 42 for their winning score.

They led a field of 69 two-ball teams or 138 golfers assembled from Baltimore and Washington.

Second low gross honors went to Mrs. F. H. Strickland, of Baltimore Country Club, and Alex Knapp, former Yale star, representing Elkridge Hunt Club, who clicked off a 45 on the outgoing nine and rallied on the stretch for a 38 to finish with 83.

Baltimoreans Win Low Net.

Miss Mildred Strickland, of Baltimore Country Club, daughter of Mrs. F. H. Strickland, and J. Carroll Doyle, of Maryland Country Club, captured the low net prize with their 88—15—73. Among the last to come in, Miss Martina Henderson and Tom Belshe, both of Indian Spring, tied for second place with Mrs. Harry C. Trace and Al Schauman, both of Rodgers Forge, with nets of 74 each. The Baltimore pair had an 84—10, while the District combination had 92—18.

Meet Mr. Moe Berg, A. B., LL. D.

Louis Johnden, Post Staff Photographer.

Lawyer, linguist, world traveler and ball player is Moe Berg, of the Nats' catching staff, who is to be found deep in the lure of his large library every morning when the ball team is at home.

Nats' Catcher Graduate of 3 Universities, Has Large Library.

THE erudite Mr. Morris Berg, A.B., LL.D., Princeton '23, Sorbonne '24, Columbia '25, White Sox '31, Nats '32, who has matriculated in the classics, romance languages, law and baseball, was discovered immersed in an imposingly large volume, which is not an unusual state of affairs for Mr. Morris Berg.

Mr. Berg can nearly always be discovered immersed in either an imposingly large volume or an impressively ample assortment of newspapers when he can not be discovered immersed in an awesome array of magazines. In other words, the Nats' learned catcher, who is still very alert in the pursuit of additional knowledge, is a great believer in the efficacy of the printed word.

"What's the book?" Moe was asked.

Interesting Reading.

"Oh, just a little thing I picked up in England," he answered nonchalantly, heaving the volume to an adjacent table. "Not very deep reading, but it's interesting," he added deprecatingly. The volume was titled "Ancient Law, Its Connection With the Early History of Society and Its Relation to Modern Ideas." Which just gives you an idea.

The Nats' catcher is a born student. He studied the classics and romance languages at Princeton and the Sorbonne, but his library contains many often referred to tracts on the subject. He studied law at Columbia and passed the bar in 1929, yet he studies carefully learned dissertations from collections of his own works on the subject. He is considered very well informed on the subject of baseball, but scattered among his literary possession are several tracts on the diamond pastime.

Real Japanese Kimonos.

"I picked up some real Japanese kimonos last winter in Japan," informed Berg, diving into a clothes closet and emerging with a jet-black robe, which bore a huge white embroidered dragon across its back. "The real Japanese kimonos are like this, not those gold-braid things we buy over here," he pointed out.

Berg, it may be recalled, spent part of last winter in Japan explaining the American brand of baseball to inhabitants of the Heavenly Isle. Returning, he toured through the continent, which so enchanted him that he was several days late reporting for work with the Nats.

"Now, here's an interesting little volume," opined the raven-haired ball receiver, picking up a morocco-bound book, which bore a title even longer than that of the one he was reading when his visitors entered. "You see, now, here it says * * * mm * * *" he hummed, sinking into a handy easy chair. In a twinkling he was completely immersed in the book. The visitor slunk away, leaving him in communion with the classics.

Penn State Ring Body Reinstates Carnera

Philadelphia, July 26 (AP).—The State athletic commission today announced the reinstatement of Primo Carnera, world's heavyweight champion, and his manager, Billy Duffy. They were suspended in June, 1930, after an altercation in a dressing room at the Philadelphia National League Ball Park. Duffy was alleged to have become involved in a quarrel with a deputy of the boxing commission and his suspension was extended to his string of boxers, which included Carnera.

Shute, Hagen Out Of Pro Tourney

New York July 26 (AP).—Densmore Shute, of Philadelphia, the new British open golf champion, and Walter Hagen, Ryder Cup captain, now "barnstorming" together in Great Britain, will not compete in the Professional Golfers' Association championship at Milwaukee, according to word from their manager, Bob Harlow, today.

Although they are now exempt from qualifying for the P. G. A., Shute and Hagen, Harlow explained, have exhibition matches booked to the end of July.

"It is impossible for them to break their contracts and get to America in time to compete in the P. G. A. championship," Harlow advised George Jacobus, president of the association.

Golf Play Held Over Until Today

Connelly Wins Only Public Parks Title Match Not Stopped by Rain.

RAIN yesterday put a damper on the scheduled finals in the championship and two other flights of the District public links golf tournament at Rock Creek's course, and also prevented play in a number of matches at East Potomac.

Weather permitting, Claude Rippy, lanky Carolinian, and John Baer, medalist, will battle for first-flight honors at Rock Creek at 2 p. m. Lary Day and Bob Marks will clash at 1 o'clock in the second flight, and A. M. Holmes and H. B. Williams at 1:30 in the third flight.

Connelly Wins Match.

John Connelly, Rock Creek Open champion, who is famous for his ability to play outstanding golf in rainstorms, plowed around the course in the afternoon in the finals of the first-flight consolation, crushing R. E. Turner, 5 and 4, in the only match of the day.

John Downey and P. L. Sweeney are expected to meet some time today at East Potomac to decide which one will face Harlan Will in the finals of the championship flight.

De Maggio Stops Hit Streak at 62

San Francisco, July 26 (AP).—Joe De Maggio, 18-year-old San Francisco Seals outfielder, was halted in his consecutive-game batting streak today when he failed to hit safely in his sixty-second contest. In five times at bat, he grounded out and flied out twice each and was safe once on a fielder's choice.

De Maggio was within eight games of tying the record for organized baseball when he was stopped. The record of 69 straight contests was set in 1919 by Joe Wilhoit, of the Wichita, Kans., Western League club. While the youth went hitless, his team defeated Oakland, 4-3.

Ed Walsh, young right-hander and son of the former Chicago White Sox pitching star by that name, was the moundman who checked the most sensational string of consecutive game hitting in the 30 years history of the Coast League.

Torrid 2d Half Capital City Race Due

4 Unlimited Class Teams Are Outstanding as New Race Starts Sunday.

CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE unlimited teams inaugurate the second half of their campaign Sunday with prospects bright for a close, interesting race. By comparison, the major league races are comparatively mild, with only two and three teams fighting for the flag. The Capital City League race is wide open.

Four clubs are outstanding and there are a couple of lesser lights who may come through with a couple of upsets to muscle into the first division. Miller Furniture Co., first-half winners, and Stanton Cleaners, runner-up, appear to be the most formidable of the lot. But it is impossible to overlook the chances of Dor-A, the pace-maker; Certified Barbers, Griffith-Blue Coals and one or two others.

Barbers' Case Puzzles.

The Barbers' case is a strange one. Tony Burruto's team trounced both the Millers and Stantons, but finished well down the list when the supposedly weaker teams handed the razor-wielders unexpected defeats. Something went wrong, just what, Burruto doesn't know. He is confident, however, that the club will be in the thick of the fight this time.

The Griffs, St. Joseph's and Congress Heights look like stumbling blocks in the path of teams aspiring to win the crown. It was St. Joseph's that definitely dashed the Barbers' first-half hopes with a thrilling victory in an exciting game.

Washington Maid and Potomac Fish Co. Midgets meet Sunday to decide the first-half championship of their division. The second series gets under way the following week.

The second-half race in the junior division comes to an end Sunday, with Clarendon virtually assured of the title. The Virginians tangle with the Dixie Products nine, a team which they figure to beat. Should the Dixies upset the dope, Clarendon is assured of at least a tie for the honors with Georgia Avenue Business Men.

U.S. Trackmen Win 6 Events in Sweden

Only Eric Ny, '32 Olympic Ace, Gives Americans Run for Money.

Stockholm, Sweden, July 26 (AP).—Facing light competition from a group of Swedish athletes, the touring track and field stars from the United States made a clean sweep of six events in a meet at Surahammar tonight. Only Eric Ny, Swedish middle-distance ace, who competed in the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles, was able to give the Americans a run for their money, finishing second in both the 400-meter and 200-meter events. There were no outstanding performances in the meet.

Ralph Metcalfe, the Marquette University sprinter, took the 100-meter dash in the slow time of 11 seconds flat, winning easily from Holmgren, who was clocked in 12.3. Ivan Fuqua, Indiana quarter-miler, took the other sprint, covering the 200 meters in 23.4 to beat Ny by a full second. Johnny Morriss, of Louisiana, whose specialty is hurdling, was third in 24.5. Glenn Cunningham, middle-distance star, from Kansas, took the 400-meter run in 54.6 seconds with Ny second and Joe McCluskey, former Fordham distance runner, third. The Swedish star was timed in 55 seconds and McCluskey in 55.4.

Hans Birkie Winner.

New York, July 26 (AP).—Hans Birkie, German heavy, won a 10-round decision from Frankie Edgren, of Cheyenne, Wyo., at Fugazy Bowl tonight. Birkie weighed 99 pounds to 183¼ for Edgren.

The final eighteen holes will be played this morning, even if it rains, Mrs. C. B. Stewart, handicap chairman, announced last night.

Perry Competes At Forest Hills

New York, July 26 (U.P.). Fred J. Perry, of England, one of the British players who routed the United States Davis Cup team in the interzone final, will be a contestant in the American National Championship at Forest Hills, the United States Lawn Tennis Association announced today.

Two other English players, to be named later, also will come to America along with the Japanese stars, Satoh, Nunoi and Itoh. The make-up of the French entry will depend somewhat upon the outcome of the Davis Cup challenge round to be played at Auteuil, France, this week-end.

Breadon, Tough Boss, to Fire Frisch in Turn, Says Pegler

By Westbrook Pegler.
Special to The Washington Post.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 26.—Sometimes it seems as though Sam Breadon, the St. Louis automobile dealer who owns the town's principal ball club, the Cardinals by name, is moved no more by business consideration than by an impish desire to turn proud people upside down in his startling hirings and firings, promotions and demotions. Mr. Breadon expresses the spirit of the howling fan, who likes to see champions rise because only when they are up there is it possible for them to come crashing down.

Sam has just yanked another hero off his column and put another one up there. In time, and no very long time, either, according to precedent, he will slap that one down, too, and put up still another. Unlike the common customer, however, he enjoys the privilege of making his own little kings. The customer can't set them up.

Six Managers Since 1926.

Since 1926 Mr. Breadon has named six men to the job of managing the Cardinals. This is one of the prestige jobs of the baseball business. Sometimes it has been a good job, but generally it is just mediocre as to pay and not very good for the pride of the individual because Mr. Breadon as a king maker deals strictly in limited monarchs. He gives them the title but not much authority and, in proportion to the prominence of the position, very little money.

Frank Frisch was John McGraw's fair-haired prodigy from 1919, when he went from the campus of Fordham University to the Polo Grounds, until the summer of 1926 when McGraw drove him off the ball club. In 1924 and 1925, when Rogers Hornsby was at his best, there was a famous rivalry between the boys. Frisch was a diving, sprawling athlete who couldn't reach for the salt without diving 10 yards off tackle.

Two Different Types.

Whenever he handled a grounder he tried to make history and, although he covered much ground and summed up as one of the best ball players in the business on general results, the St. Louis customers said he looked great mainly because he made the easy ones look desperate. Now Hornsby—there was a real second baseman who wasn't always flopping around in the dust, losing his cap and throwing eye lash putouts while spinning on the back of his neck.

Mr. McGraw said he wouldn't trade Frisch for Hornsby and $100,000 cash, which was a safe enough boast considering Mr. Breadon's conspicuous frugality in the player market. Mr. Breadon retorted that he wouldn't trade Hornsby for Frisch and $100,000 either, and there the matter stood, with the citizens of both towns jawing back and forth until Frisch blew a fuse one afternoon when he was visiting St. Louis with the Giants. Mr. McGraw was pretty tiresome to a ball player of any self-respect when he was in his moods and Frisch finally snarled back at him. He also quit the team and returned to New York.

Both Involved in Trade.

About that time Hornsby was having boss trouble with Mr. Breadon, and the upshot of both spats was a trade, with Frisch and Hornsby involved.

Well, after Hornsby, Mr. Breadon used various managers. There were McKechnie and Southworth, O'Farrell and, finally, Old Sergt. Gabby Street, who was called in unexpectedly and given charge of the team. In his private character, Mr. Breadon is sentimental and generous and baseball people like him much better than you would expect them to on the basis of his cold, tough treatment of some of his hands in matters of business. Win him a pennant and you have only done your job. Lose one and you have failed. He is no hero worshiper.

Rescued by Breadon.

When Hornsby was whispered out of baseball last fall, Breadon was the one who rescued him. He brought him back to work as an understudy to Frisch. In a few years, Hornsby had declined that much whereas Frisch, this season, his fifteenth in the major leagues, was chosen as the best second baseman in the National League to play against the American Leaguers in Chicago.

Frisch will have no romantic illusions now. Mr. Breadon hires and fires according to his judgment. He fired Hornsby. He will fire Frisch, too, in his turn.

Petworth Cards' Nine Completing Schedule

The Petworth Cardinals, who have made a great record in the unlimited field this season, are anxious to take on all of the strong teams in and near Washington. Next Sunday, they travel to Fredericksburg to meet the Elks of that city. Manager Vincent Lester is busily engaged filling a number of Saturday dates and is receiving challenges at Adams 7147 between 5:30 and 6 p. m.

Man Employed At Cemetery Is Slain; Two Held

Thomas A. Crane, 23, of Culpeper, Va., an employe at the Congregation Talmud Toral, Hebrew cemetery, was found shot to death last night in the hallway of the home of Alvin T. Curtis, superintendent of the cemetery, at 3215 Fifteenth place southeast.

Curtis, who is 43, and his son, Alvin T. Curtis, jr., 19, were taken into custody by police for investigation.

The man was shot through the heart with a .22 caliber rifle and had been dead about two hours when found by Private C. F. Fox, of the Eleventh police precinct, who responded to a shooting call. A single action rifle was found with an empty shell near the body which was slumped against a bureau.

Police said the body apparently had been dragged into hall. The man's clothing was wet, police said, but his shoes were dry, indicating he had changed his shoes after working in the rain during the day. An identification card in his clothing gave the name of a brother, W. F. Crane, at Lignum, Va., to be notified in case of emergency.

Code Draft Speed Urged in Capital

Speed on the part of local businesses in submitting employment codes was urged yesterday by the board of governors of the Washington Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

While going on record approving the President's code, the governors pointed out that they could not speak for the whole membership of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Various groups of the association are reported to be working out codes in harmony with the requests of the Recovery Administration. Coal merchants are considering substitution of a code of their own for the blanket under which other local groups may operate, it was learned.

The committee on manufactures of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will meet at noon tomorrow at the Homer Building to discuss the code. A representative of the Recovery Administration will speak. Merchants have been invited to attend the meeting.

Bodies of Brothers Found in Potomac

Recent High Tides Carry Kings Far From Place of Drowning.

Tides with their tricks yesterday enabled harbor police to recover from the Potomac River the bodies of Charles and John King, brothers, who drowned off the Bellevue Arsenel Monday night. They were taken from the water nearly a mile upstream from the point they had gone under. The dragging operations were ended just off Hains Point. Recent high tides were ascribed for the unusual course of the bodies.

The home of the Kings was at 35 Laurel street, Takoma Park, Md. They were drowned swimming with a party of three young men and three young women. Both were good swimmers.

A new director for the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and a new assistant director for the Bureau of the Census have been selected and will be appointed next week, Secretary of Commerce Roper said yesterday.

The appointees will be taken from outside the Government service, Secretary Roper said. He has sent the names to President Roosevelt for approval. These appointments will complete the present organization of the Department of Commerce.

Veterans Plan Service For Slain B. E. F. Men

The veterans' national rank and file committee will hold brief ceremonies at the graves of William Hushka, Eric Carlson and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier tomorrow at 2 p. m., in commemoration of "Hushka-Carlson day." Hushka and Carlson died from wounds received in the "bonus army" battle here last year. The Rev. John R. West, chaplain of the B. E. F. Rank and File, will be among the speakers.

Veterans wishing to go to the cemetery in a group are to assemble at the committee headquarters, 210-11 Maryland Building, 1410 H street northwest.

Policeman Denies Guilt In Gas Station Holdup

Policeman John F. Patton, who was suspended when he was arrested on a charge of robbing a gasoline filling station, yesterday pleaded not guilty in the District Supreme Court.

Patton is alleged to have driven three colored men to the station for the purpose of robbing it. One of the men, James Mason, pleaded guilty when arraigned with Patton. The other two have not been arraigned.

Catalano Case Ruling Put Off By Commission

Report Strengthened That Contract on Phelps School Will Stand.

Following a prolonged conference with Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, the District Commissioners yesterday announced they had postponed decision in the case of the Catalano Construction Co. of Baltimore until Friday morning, when they will confer with counsel of the contractor and a representative of the bonding company.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, stated that the Commissioners had not reached a decision in the case and he declined to release Bride's opinion submitted Tuesday, despite the fact a copy was sent to the contractor's counsel yesterday.

The failure of the Commissioners to act immediately in the case lent credence to reports that the contract for construction of the Phelps Vocational School would not be canceled providing the Catalano company makes adjustments with workmen who complained that they were paid less than the prevailing wage required by the Bacon-Davis act.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Robert E. Lynch, who conducted the prosecution at a public hearing last week, was informed yesterday that the 15 men who testified against the Baltimore contractor had all been discharged, some prior to the hearing and the remainder immediately afterward.

Jones Gets Office In Downtown Area

Home Loan Manager Will Announce Location by Monday.

The location of the District office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation will remain a secret until Monday, Charles A. Jones, the local manager, said last night.

Workmen and electricians invaded the office space yesterday afternoon after Mr. Jones received approval of the location from the board of the corporation.

Mr. Jones is appealing to mortgage holders to withhold any foreclosure action that might be contemplated until the office begins operating. The loan headquarters are in the heart of the downtown section.

Benefit Excursion Saturday.

Another benefit excursion on the Potomac River for Mrs. Elsie Ballentine, an infantile paralysis patient at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation Hospital, will be sponsored by her friends Saturday night.

Rum Relics

The party was headed by Alan Paine, Dr. William D. Strong and Norman Haskell. They were searching for possible extension of the ancient Mayan culture into little-explored Central American areas.

"Prospects" Steal Salesman's Auto

Having an appointment with a couple who seemed anxious to buy a car, Henry J. Brown, 1815 H street northwest, was undeterred by the rain last night and met them at the Fox Theater at the appointed time.

In accordance with the best technique in automobile salesmanship, he asked the woman to take the wheel, and he rode with her, leaving the man to ride alone in the rear seat. All went well until they arrived in front of 6115 Sligo Mill road northwest, when Brown suddenly felt a gun pressed against his neck.

The woman went through his pockets, taking about $51. Brown then was put out of the car to trudge a mile and a half through the rain to a telephone, while the couple drove away in the new car.

Thief Steals Poor Box From Monastery Here

Yesterday Brother Anthony, of the Franciscan Monastery, reported to police that some one had made off with the offering box, containing about $25.

Apparently, he said, the thief had hidden in the building after closing and had escaped with the box through a window, which was found open.

Killing in Pool Hall Reenacted Before Jurors

McAvoy's Attorney Hints at Inquest Another Was Snow's Slayer.

With the morgue table being used as a pool table and a cigar as a gun, the slaying of Frank Snow, 30, of 807 H street northwest, was reenacted several times yesterday before a coroner's jury at the District Morgue. The arguments were so lengthy the case was continued until Friday so that all the witnesses can be heard.

Snow, who was shot during a brawl in a poolroom at 744 Ninth street northwest, July 18, came to his death from a bullet wound in his thigh. Four other bullets which struck the man were not held responsible for his death.

Slain After Quarrel.

The shooting followed an argument between Snow and Charles McAvoy, 36, of 635 Eleventh street northeast. McAvoy, said to have held the gun which shot Snow, was wounded in the gun battle, which included an innocent bystander and a policeman, who entered the pool room when he heard gun shots.

Fired Several Shots.

According to several police officers who offered testimony, Gale entered the poolroom and, seeing the scuffle, fired several shots from his revolver.

Charles Ford, attorney representing McAvoy, brought out that most of the wounds in Snow's body were inflicted by bullets which entered the left side of the man's body. This would indicate that McAvoy did not fire the fatal shot, he asserted.

Assistant District Attorney Julien I. Richards, Ford and Jesse C. Duke, attorney for the Snow family, took part and directed the reenactments of the shooting.

Suspect Accused As Purse Snatcher

Charged with snatching a purse from a one-armed woman on Connecticut avenue, June 17, Alvin L. Scherertz, 26, 3800 New Hampshore avenue northwest, yesterday was held for the grand jury under $5,000 bond by Police Judge John P. McMahon.

The woman, Miss Mabel A. Davies, 3446 Connecticut avenue, testified that she was nearly knocked down when her purse, containing $35, was grabbed out of her hand by the man, who escaped down an alley.

She identified Scherertz as the purse snatcher.

Mrs. Corinne Davis, 3752 McKinley street northwest, wife of Dr. D. G. Davis, well-known insurance broker, was one of several victims. She was unable to identify Scherertz.

'Gold Chest' Fraud Denied by Purdy

Jailed Pending Trial on Charge He and Wife Took $19,000.

Frank L. Purdy entered a plea of not guilty in District Supreme Court yesterday to an indictment charging he and his wife with obtaining $19,000 from Mrs. Florence M. Kay, 1840 Mintwood place northwest, under false pretenses. He was remanded to the District jail to await trial.

The Purdys are alleged to have obtained the money from Mrs. Kay by telling her they expected a $60,000 chest of gold from England and would need that much money to pay insurance and freight charges.

Purdy was arrested two weeks ago in Detroit when he went to a hospital to visit his wife.

Veteran Auto Paraded in Capital "Acts Up" After 30,000 Miles and Disappoints Owner

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fryatt, of Little Rock, Ark., with Junior, the automobile which has carried them 30,000 miles since February. Junior, carrying Mr. and Mrs. Fryatt and Wolf, the dog, and Mike, the cat, behaved beautifully over all sorts of roads, then Washington and . . . a flat tire.

District Heads To Sue Closed Banks on Taxes

Federal-American National and Brightwood Savings Named for Test.

The District Commissioners yesterday instructed Corporation Counsel William W. Bride to apply to the District Supreme Court for writs of mandamus to force Washington's closed banks to file returns on gross earnings during the last fiscal year.

Test suits will be filed against the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., now in the hands of a conservator, and the Brightwood Savings Bank, in the hands of a receiver.

Confirmed by Comptroller.

Letters from J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of Currency, yesterday confirmed reports that he had refused to permit the closed banks to file District tax returns until claims of creditors and depositors had been satisfied.

Speaking of the Federal-American Bank, the comptroller said that "the conservator has been further instructed to certify to the assessor of taxes of the District of Columbia that no funds are in his hands for the payment of taxes of the character indicated."

"In the event sufficient assets are collected by the conservator of the bank to pay the depositors and creditors of the bank 100 per cent," the comptroller continued, "the conservator will then be instructed to file a return for his bank for the year ended June 30, 1932, to allow the assessor of taxes to file his claim, which will be paid prior to the remittance of any of the bank's assets to its shareholders."

Similar Status Fixed.

A similar condition was placed on the payment of taxes for the Brightwood Bank.

The comptroller cited judicial decisions to sustain his opinion that "personal taxes are in the same category as taxes levied by State Legislatures against national banks" and, therefore, do not constitute priority claims.

Thieves Drive Away With Family's "Home"

Ernest Stather, of Walpole, Mass., yesterday told police that his home was stolen from the Smithsonian grounds.

The "home," an automobile equipped with bath, beds and kitchen, was the touring hotel of the Stather family.

Arkansas Travelers Have First Blowout Here After Long Trip.

Nameless for many years and for thousands of miles, an antiquated car belonging to W. H. Fryatt, of Little Rock, Ark., has finally got one—it's Junior.

Some one who saw Junior suggested that it was an awfully queer name for an old automobile that's traveled 30,000 miles since February. But that's the story.

Fryatt and his wife and his dog, Wolf, and his cat, Mike, all piled into the ancient machine in Little Rock last February. The Arkansas man didn't have a lot of money, he admitted, but he has a lot of relatives and friends.

With most of their worldly belongings, including a complete bed, which they strap to the side of the car, they headed for New Orleans. There wasn't even a spare tire in the crowd But Fryatt had faith in Junior, or rather what was later to be Junior.

Finishing with New Orleans, they rumbled on to Mexico. From there they shuffled off to Canada, via most of the States and big cities of the Middle West. And then down to Washington.

As the old car with its human, animal and domestic cargo puffed into the Capital yesterday afternoon, Fryatt was commenting how fine it was to have an automobile that you could drive 30,000 miles, over all sorts of roads, rocks, creek beds and gravel and not have even a puncture.

As he neared F street and Fourteenth street northwest, he was taking in the sights and contemplating on life in general, but more especially his troubleless car. And then things began to happen—a rear tire blew out with a bang!

"Just think," sighed Fryatt to Mrs. Fryatt, who was holding Wolf and trying to grab Mike. "everything is great with the old machine until we reach Washington."

"Just think," he went on, "right when we get to the Nation's Capital and want to make the best impression, it goes back on us."

Clothing Stolen From Tailor.

Board Denies Rheem's Plea For Freedom

C. Albert Anadale Also Is Refused Parole; Must Serve Full Sentence.

Applications for parole of Edmund D. Rheem and C. Elbert Anadale, former officials of Washington investment firms, were denied yesterday by the District Parole Board. It was ruled that Rheem and Anadale, formerly with Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey and F. H. Smith Companies, respectively, must serve out their sentences at the District Reformatory, Lorton, Va.

Rheem's application had been under consideration for four months, while Anadale only recently filed his application. A brief statement by Isaac Gans, chairman of the board, gave no reason for the denials.

Anadale, who was sentenced to serve nine years on December 3, 1930, became eligible for parole October 11, 1932, under the District's new indeterminate sentence law, which permits parole after a fifth of the sentence has been served.

Rheem was sentenced to serve seven years on July 10, 1931, and became eligible for parole on December 3, 1932.

G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the Smith company, is serving a 14-year term, while John H. Edwards, jr., who also was involved in the case, was released only a few weeks ago after completing his sentence.

P. U. C. Warns Rent Data Must Be Accurate

Says Both Landlord and Tenant Statements Will Be Checked.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday warned landlords and tenants to be certain that the information they furnish in the current rent inquiry be correct, as it is being closely checked by accountants.

"Special attention is being given to maintenance cost statistics furnished to the commission by agents and owners of apartment houses," a statement said. "No weight will be given to statements negligently prepared from which misleading inferences can be drawn.

"If any such are received, the necessary corrections will be required, and the revised statement will have to be attested before a notary. Difficulty and delay will be avoided by the exercise of extreme care in the preparation of all such statements.

"The commission desires to do exact justice to landlords and tenants alike. This will be impossible without the fullest and most accurate information, and it is intended to use every effort to secure such information before any action is taken.

"Fortunately, the commission's corps of accountants is particularly skilled in the dissection of cost statistics and will be used in checking all such that may be received."
